

Farm Cooperative Associations Seek Aid In House Bill

By DICK EMERY
Legislative Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — House Bill 944 is bound to stir up a hornet's nest in the House when it comes up for debate, probably next week. It is aimed at curbing interference with membership of farm cooperative associations.

Introduced by Rep. Robert Craig, D-Indianola, the bill is favored by the Illinois Agricultural Association and hotly opposed by the National Farmers Organization of Illinois.

The bill reads in part "... It shall be unlawful for any person who purchases... agricultural products from a producer... or a producers' cooperative association to... interfere with the exercise of (the producers') rights to join and belong to a producers' cooperative association."

The measure also makes it unlawful for such purchasers to coerce or intimidate any member of a cooperative association to terminate his membership with such an association. The bill further forbids use of money or other value to induce a grower to refuse to or cease to belong to such an association.

It provides a fine of up to $1,000 and up to a year in jail for violators.

Paul E. Mathias, of Bloomington, lobbyist for the IAA, says Illinois farmers who grow and sell produce within the state need this protection.

"We need to penalize the processor who rejects the grower because he belongs to an association," he said. "Under the federal Capper-Volstead Act, farmers can join together to try to raise prices without violating the federal anti-trust laws."

No Overall Protection
It protects growers in interstate commerce, but not farmers who produce and sell within the state, he added. "Neither does the Capper-Volstead Act penalize the processor for refusing to deal with a grower because he belongs to an association," Mathias stated.

Leonard W. Kramp of Alexander, state chairman of the NFO, says the bill "puts many groups of people in jeopardy. We believe that the term 'interfere with' in the bill can be interpreted to jeopardize almost any conversation between a member of one production group and a member of another," he said.

"This bill would help certain interests set a trend. If farmers can be inhibited from group activity, labor also can be inhibited under parallel legislation," Kramp said.

He says that protection offered by HB 944 is already afforded by the Illinois Agricultural Cooperatives Act of 1929 which provides for injunctive relief and for civil damages.

"Secondly, any penalties not provided by the Illinois Co-op Act are provided by the Illinois

CITY ELECTION AT ROODHOUSE TO BE APRIL 20

ROODHOUSE — The city election on Tuesday, April 20 will find incumbent Mayor Ray Prather opposed by Ward K. Ballard, present alderman, for mayor for the coming term.

There will be races for alderman from each of the three city wards. Incumbent City Clerk Donald Moore and incumbent City Treasurer Merle Mackey are unopposed.

In the first ward alderman race, John V. Todd and Dean H. Taylor are seeking seats on the council while the second ward, Earl Newingham, incumbent, and Jack Whitehead are both seeking the post of alderman.

The third ward has five men vying for the post: Delbert C. Overby, George O. Fay, Velda Myers, Edward E. Waltrip and Lee Keller, not one of whom is an incumbent.

The polls will be open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

ASHLAND BOARD NAMES JUDGES FOR ELECTION

ASHLAND — Judges for the election to be held Tuesday, April 20 were selected at the April 13th Village Board meeting.

Judges are Margaret McDonald, Wilma Dorsett, Edgar Thornley, Rose Hinds and Yvonne Hager.

In other action the board approved the proposal to put into use a new water billing and bookkeeping system.

A request by Albert Terry for a raise in pay was tabled until the next meeting. An application for job as nightwatchman submitted by Purdie Boner was also tabled.

Tavern licenses for three months were issued to Don Richmond, Teddy Flinn and Jack Davisson.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas Plattner, Pittsfield, became the parents of a son born at 2:49 a.m. Saturday at Passavant hospital.

Harry Birdsell Dies Suddenly, Funeral Monday

Harry J. Birdsell of 1710 South Main street, pioneer operator of large drive-in restaurants in Jacksonville and prominent businessman, died suddenly at Passavant hospital at 11:55 p.m. Friday. Mr. Birdsell had entered the hospital on April 7 but his death was unexpected.

He was born in Morgan county on Dec. 6, 1903, son of James and Ida Murgatroyd Birdsell. He was married at St. Charles, Mo. on Jan. 11, 1942 to Alice Kimbrey. She survives with two children, a son Jimmy J. at home and a daughter, Jane Ann, wife of Charles Heitbrink of this city. There is one grandchild, Robbie Heitbrink. Three sisters also survive, Mrs. Effie Walter, Mrs. Mae Ferguson and Mrs. Ethel Cruse, all of Jacksonville. His parents, one sister and two brothers preceded Mr. Birdsell in death.

The deceased was a member of the White Hall Presbyterian church and the local UCT chapter.

The remains were taken to the Gillham - Buchanan Funeral Home where friends may call after noon today. The family will receive friends at the funeral home 7 to 9 p.m. this evening.

Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 2 p.m. Monday with Rev. W. A. Gardner officiating. Interment will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

William M. Goff, Retired Farmer, Dies Saturday

NEW BERLIN — William M. Goff, 85, who lived on a Cartwright Township farm which was rejected in Washington, Kramp continued. "It is significant that interests supporting the Findley effort are now attempting to change this law through legislation in states."

Rep. Harris Rowe, R-Jacksonville, withdrew his name from the list of sponsors last week. He said he hasn't decided how he will vote on the bill, but "There is enough question about the need for such legislation that I don't want to be a sponsor."

"At first, I understood the bill to be aimed at the food canner who might refuse to do business with a grower because of the grower's affiliation with one organization or another," Rowe said.

"But the bill does more than this. It restricts activity such as the NFO is engaged in," he said. "This is not a legislative problem, and I don't believe we should pass such laws."

Rep. John Lewis, R-Mars-hall, former Speaker of the House, and often outspoken clarion of farm legislation, is deeply concerned about the controversy rising up over this bill.

"The bill is needed, but I don't like to see farmers fighting one another over it," Lewis said. "By broad interpretation, the NFO maintains that the bill is directed against themselves and against organized labor. This is not the intent of the bill," he added.

"If it can be interpreted this way, then I'm in favor of amending it so that it will be clear that the sponsors are not aiming it against the NFO or any other farm organization," Lewis said.

Mrs. Mary Flagge Dies Saturday, Funeral Monday

Mrs. Mary Alice Flagge, wife of the late Reverend George W. Flagge, died at 8:15 a.m. Saturday, at her residence, 203 South Fayette street, where she and her sister, Mrs. Douglas Hunt, have lived for many years.

She was born near Beards-town Nov. 18, 1870, daughter of William H. and Emma Dunn Paschall. In 1884 the family located in the Markham community, west of Jacksonville.

On Sept. 14, 1893 she was married to Rev. Flagge, who accumulated 43 years as an active minister in the Illinois Methodist Conference. Rev. Flagge died in 1932. One of Rev. Flagge's early pastorates was at Centenary Methodist church in this city. He later served as Superintendent of the Quincy District and still later was supply pastor at the Riggston Methodist church.

The deceased was educated in the public schools and attended Chaddock College. As a member of Grace Methodist church she belonged to the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Opportunity Class.

Mrs. Flagge is survived by her sister, Mrs. Hunt, the last member of the immediate family. Three sisters and two brothers preceded her in death, Mrs. Ellen Coleman, Robert Paschall, John Paschall, Mrs. Emma Cully and Miss Myrtle Paschall. There are a number of nieces and nephews.

The body was taken to the Williamson Funeral home where the family will meet friends 7 to 9 p.m. this evening.

Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 2:30 p.m. Monday with Dr. C. P. McClelland, Dr. Frank Nestler and Dr. McKendree Blair in charge. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

GOVERNOR'S AIDE ADDRESSES GROUP AT DINNER DANCE

BEARDSTOWN — The Beards-town Chamber of Commerce held a dinner dance at the Virginia Country club Tuesday night and also heard an address by F. John Taylor, an aide to Gov. Kerner.

Taylor, a native of Cass county, discussed problems and duties in which he is involved. He is a former president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce here.

Robert C. MacClimch, retiring president and Robert Rankin, new president, told about the activities of the chamber.

Full-Time Mayor Highlights Races In Tuesday Election

Jacksonville voters have two shopping days left to select the first paid full-time mayor in history. Tuesday's election will highlight one of the hottest campaigns in many a year.

The $10,000 a year position will be paid by the city for full-time service in the new administration. The mayor will continue to receive a fee for being liquor commissioner and an office allowance.

A grocery store operator and a shoe merchant are opposing candidates for the office and both are well grounded in the economics of family and business life.

Incumbent Byron Holkenbrink, a Democrat, is seeking to hold his position and continue as a full-time mayor. Republican Fred C. Gray is asking the voters to return the mayor's office to a Republican.

Byron Holkenbrink
Holkenbrink has been mayor a little more than a year. He captured the office in a special election caused when Republican Raymond Watson accepted employment in California and left the city. Holkenbrink was elected after R. Karl Baker withdrew from the race due to ill health.

Holkenbrink operates a grocery store on East College and served as acting fire chief under Mayor Robert A. DuBois about 20 months.

Fred C. Gray
Fred C. Gray, the Republican candidate for mayor, is completing his first four-year term as alderman from the fifth ward. While serving as alderman, Gray has headed the utility committee and served on the finance committee.

Gray operates a family shoe store in downtown Jacksonville where he has been in business since his return from WW II. He is active in several community activities and is attempting to unseat the incumbent.

Both candidates have traded charges in advertisements in newspaper, over radio and in several public forums. Both have also presented platforms under which they plan to conduct the next administration.

Running Races
Holkenbrink's running mates at the top of the ticket are: Jean Henley for city clerk and Venetta Blackburn for city treasurer. Both are seeking political offices for the first time.

Gray's running mates at the top of the ticket are: incumbent City Clerk Harvey H. Green who has served in that post for the past four years; and Rose Cosgriff for city treasurer, seeking that office for the first time.

Candidates for alderman in each of the city's seven wards have been mentioned in detail.

Flood Fighters Watch Their Dikes, Wait For Crests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mississippi River flood approached a crest — and the crisis — in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area Saturday.

The Weather Bureau reported the icy waters are likely to pass their peak in the Twin Cities on Easter Sunday.

At Wabasha—turned into an island by the rampaging river—and Winona and La Crosse and other cities downstream the flood fighters watched their dikes and waited for crests next week.

Freezing cold during the night checked the runoff from melting snow and ice. But the wintry chill and snow increased the discomfort of volunteer workers who faced the prospects of spending Easter on duty in shoreline mud.

Snowfall measured three inches in Winona, Minn., and an inch in Minneapolis-St. Paul and La Crosse, Wis.

The Mississippi, at record levels in the north, was edging up all the way from Minnesota to Missouri.

Overflows have driven an estimated 35,000 persons from their homes and have caused 12 deaths and millions of dollars in property losses.

Temperatures that dipped below the freezing level during the night in Minnesota held back the rush of flood waters from areas north of the Twin Cities. The slackening allowed some of the excess water to drain away. That resulted in a revision of the crest forecast.

Joseph Strub, Weather Bureau flood expert, said the Mississippi will fluctuate within three to five inches of Saturday's levels in the Twin Cities sector for a day or two, and is likely to start to drop Monday. Earlier, the crest had been

Mississippi Levee Breaks Near Quincy

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—The Mississippi River broke through a levee 16 miles north of Quincy Saturday night and murky waters overflowed 7,000 acres of farmland.

About 300 flood workers, most of them volunteers, farmers or Illinois National Guardsmen, were evacuated from the area.

The dirt levee gave way about 7:30 p.m. shortly after the river reached a season high of 24.20 feet Saturday afternoon. The river's all-time high of 24.38 feet was recorded in 1960.

The levees have withstood the river waters since 1929. It is situated in the Indian Graves Drainage District, which extends to the northern edge of Quincy.

Officials said they hoped to stop the overflow about seven miles north of Quincy where levees have been constructed on both sides of the Rock Creek.

Officials said dirt levees in the Hunt and Lima Lake districts adjacent to the Indian Graves district would probably hold. "The break in Indian Graves has taken pressure off our levee," a Hunt district official said.

In other areas, an additional 40 National Guardsmen were mobilized Saturday to patrol levees from Minnesota to Missouri. A total of 320 National Guardsmen are on duty in western Illinois.

In the Quad Cities area, the first of an expected total of 5,000 persons began to leave their homes.

The newest guardsmen were called up by Gov. Otto Kerner to patrol a 10-mile stretch of levees near New Boston in Mercer County. They are troops of the 123rd Field Artillery in Galva.

On Thursday, Gov. Kerner had called up 60 National Guardsmen to patrol levees along the 10 miles between Galesburg and Gulfport in Henderson County. Then Friday, 220 Quincy guardsmen were put on around-the-clock patrol of levees from 21

The Mississippi rose beyond the 16-foot mark in La Crosse—far above the old high water mark of 15.3—and kept on climbing.

Winona, which has thrown up nine miles of dikes 25 feet high, gambled on that barricade to hold off the Mississippi. The river there already is at record depths and the crest is expected early next week.

Students March At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of students demanding an end to the war in Viet Nam massed in Washington Saturday, picketing, marching, singing and shouting for their cause.

The demonstration, one of the largest ever to take place around the White House, was billed by its sponsors, an organization calling itself Students for a Democratic Society, as the start of a national protest movement against U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Demonstration leaders said 20,000 students responded to the call they sent to colleges across the nation for support. Police estimated the number at 12,000 to 15,000.

The students packed the sidewalk in front of the White House and nearly encircled the two block-long buildings flanking it — the Treasury and Executive Office buildings. Thousands more milled around in parks near the White House.

As more and more crowded into the picket line, it became so thick it hardly moved. Many of the students had guitars and sang as they shuffled along.

The beautiful spring day at the height of the Easter season also attracted thousands of tourists, some of whom mixed in with the students.

While the demonstrators choked the sidewalk in front of the White House, the tourists stood in long lines stretching around the opposite side waiting to take the regular White House tour.

The huge demonstration attracted two groups of counter-demonstrators — a dozen members of the American Nazi Party, and about 100 persons representing Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative organization. They paraded on the sidewalk across the street from the students.

The Nazi sympathizer was hauled away by police after a brief scuffle with the student, but returned to resume picketing when the student declined to press charges.

At intervals, the Nazis faced across the street and shouted, "Death to the peace creeps," "Gas the peace creeps," and "To hell with the peace creeps."

Students for a Democratic Society, which has headquarters in New York City, was founded three years ago as an outgrowth of the League for Industrial Democracy. It describes itself as a left-wing radical but non-Communist organization.

Warn Residents Of Hannibal Area To Expect Severe Flooding April 30

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Residents of the Hannibal, Mo., area were warned to expect severe flooding around April 30 as the U.S. Weather Bureau reported that the Mississippi River at Hannibal reached 23.9 feet Saturday.

Col. Howard Coffman Jr., Rock Island district engineer for the U.S. Corps of Engineers, said a crest of about 25 feet is expected April 30. Coffman said the April 30 flooding would come from water in the upper Mississippi which has inundated parts of Minnesota.

He said the recent highwater which covered low lying areas around the river in northeast Missouri and northwest Illinois has come from the Mississippi River's tributaries below Minnesota.

Coffman said he inspected levees on both the Illinois and Missouri sides of the river Saturday and felt they would be adequate to hold back the present high water. But, he warned that the levees need strengthening to combat the expected water from the upper Mississippi.

The Weather Bureau said the river had held steady at 23.9 feet Hannibal from 1:30 p.m. until late Saturday. The bureau said they expected the river to start falling by Monday as slowly as it has risen over the past several days if there is no rain.

The 23.9 level is .2 of a foot below the record stage of 24.1 feet set at Hannibal in 1947. Hannibal's flood stage is 16 feet, but actual flooding does not occur until around 23 feet.

Sand-bagging of levees in the area continues and an estimated 130 families have been evacuated from the river areas.

Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner have called up 60 National Guardsmen to patrol levees along the 10 miles between Galesburg and Gulfport in Henderson County. Then Friday, 220 Quincy guardsmen were put on around-the-clock patrol of levees from 21

Easter Message

Johnson Reiterates, Window Still Open To Peace In Viet Nam

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson said in an Easter time statement Saturday that the window still is open to peace in Viet Nam and "we are ready to begin discussions next week, tomorrow or tonight."

But Johnson said also that the United States will settle for no less than a free, independent South Viet Nam and that this country never will abandon the little Asian nation.

"And let this also be clear," the President said, "until that independence is guaranteed, there is no human power capable of forcing us from Viet Nam. We will remain as long as necessary, with the right required, whatever the risk and whatever the cost."

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk ruled out any cessation of air strikes against North Viet Nam at this time — a course suggested by some inside and outside this country.

Such action has been carefully considered, Rusk said in a statement, but to take it "would only encourage the aggressor and dishearten our friends who bear the brunt of battle."

Naming no critics, Rusk noted that some argue an end to bombings might halt aggression from the north "but we have tried publicly and privately to find out if this would be the result and there has been no response."

Rusk's views — obviously approved by the President — were released while students demonstrated in Washington both against and for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Police estimated the total at 12,000 to 15,000 demonstrators, and the anti-far outnumbered the pros.

Standing in sunlight on a small patio of his ranch house, Johnson read his statement in solemn tones, with solemn visage. At its end, he walked over to Mrs. Johnson. She put her arms around him and squeezed. He kissed her cheek.

While the President spoke, state highway patrolmen were stretching a ring of cars around the ranch environs. Two organizations that oppose Johnson's (Continued On Page 13)

If U.S. Steps Up Action

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union threatened Sunday to permit its "volunteers" to go fight in Viet Nam if the United States stepped up military action there.

It would be the first direct ground confrontation of the world's two great superpowers.

In the midst of the Korean conflict the Soviet Union never sent its own men to fight although Communist China did. There was immediate speculation that the Soviet offer was an effort to ward off direct Chinese participation in the Vietnamese war.

Just how the Soviet Union would get its men to North Viet Nam, except across China, was not clear.

A communique issued here said the Soviet Union would permit Soviet volunteers to fight for North Viet Nam "to repulse aggression by the United States."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman declined comment.

Other U.S. officials noted that Moscow had made threats before about the possibility of Russian "volunteers" going to Viet Nam. They said they have no evidence of Soviet land forces on the way.

A spokesman for the White House said there would be no immediate comment on the Russian communique.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a statement issued in Washington ruled out an end to the air strikes at this time. "It would only encourage the aggressor and dishearten our friends who bear the brunt of battle," Rusk said, referring to the South Vietnamese government forces combating the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

In Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said U.S. Air Force planes ranged widely over Communist North Viet Nam on Saturday to the Laotian frontier, bombing and machine-gunning highway traffic.

One F105 Air Force Thunderchief crashed into a hill while strafing a road, the spokesman said, but would not say whether the plane was shot down. The pilot was reported killed.

While the force of 42 Air Force planes were seeking out targets of opportunity, two Vietnamese skyriders showered 100,000 leaflets on Dong Hoi, 50 miles north of South Viet Nam's border. The leaflets carried President Johnson's plans for developing Southeast Asia.

The Soviet threat was contained in a communique on talks between the North Vietnamese party secretary, Le Kuan, and Soviet officials.

The Kremlin demanded that the United States get its men, airplanes and other military equipment out of Viet Nam immediately.

This is what Hanoi has insisted upon.

Erickson, treasurer and Finance chairman; John A. McCullough and G. H. Wichterman, M.D., co-chairmen of the affair.

The group meets alternate Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in the Sangamon County fairgrounds, with all chairmen of committees in attendance and reporting. Many plans for the July 25 Centennial Day at the Sangamon County Fair and other summer festivities are being formulated.

Mrs. Elmer Roesch and Mrs. Horace Clark, chairmen of the Belle and Bonnet committee have released the categories for which prizes and trophies will be awarded: Pre-school age, family groups, Six years to Junior high, Any Age Lady in Centennial Dress, Couples, Couples Married Longest, Oldest Dress, Oldest Person in Centennial Dress, Party Dress (any age Lady) copy or authentic of 1865 era.

The Belle and Bonnet committee also urges all ladies of the community to wear their Centennial Belle pins, and to wear their Centennial dresses at every opportunity. They would also like to suggest that New Berlin Woman's Club members wear their Centennial costumes to the annual Spring Luncheon on May 1st.

All interested persons of the area are urged to attend the next Centennial Planning meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday evening, April 20, in the Sangamon County fairgrounds.

Seek Bids For Building At Hines VA Center

The Veterans Administration Thursday called for bids for construction of its 15-story, 1200 bed replacement hospital building at Hines, in suburban Chicago.

Dr. Lee H. Schlesinger, director, said that bids will be opened June 15 at VA Central Office, Washington, with the contract to be let shortly thereafter. Actual construction should get under way before fall.

Construction covered by the bids will be for the central hospital building, as well as alterations and modernization of the present nurses' building, a canteen building and a utility building. Cost is estimated at about $19,000,000.

When the highrise structure is completed, plans call for construction of two neuropsychiatric buildings at the far end of the present half-mile long treatment building. This connecting structure, which was built in 1921, will be completely remodeled.

When finished, the complex will be one of the best equipped and most modern in the Veterans Administration, Dr. Schlesinger said.

VA construction at Hines is being undertaken in conjunction with erection of the Loyola Medical School and Center, and the John Madden State Center for the mentally retarded, both adjacent to the VA at Hines.

Architects are Charles F. Murphy and Associates of Chicago.

He also coached baseball and taught math for two years in a high school. Mr. Crumley was appointed sales and merchandise manager of the Penney Co. store in Lincoln Square.

INJURED IN MISHAP AT MURRAYVILLE

MURRAYVILLE — Thomas Tendick, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tendick of Murrayville, was painfully injured at 1:30 p.m. Thursday while trying to repair his car. The car, supported by cement blocks, slipped and Tendick was pinned beneath it for 25 minutes. He was released by his father and Don Coumbes, son of a neighbor, who raised the car with a jack. Young Tendick reportedly sustained back, rib, hip and shoulder injuries in the mishap.

Flood Fighters Watch Their Dikes, Wait For Crests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mississippi River flood approached a crest — and the crisis—in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area Saturday.

The Weather Bureau reported the icy waters are likely to pass their peak in the Twin Cities on Easter Sunday.

At Wabasha—turned into an island by the rampaging river—and Winona and La Crosse and other cities downstream the flood fighters watched their dikes and waited for crests next week.

Freezing cold during the night checked the runoff from melting snow and ice. But the wintry chill and snow increased the discomfort of volunteer workers who faced the prospects of spending Easter on duty in shoreline mud.

Snowfall measured three inches in Winona, Minn., and an inch in Minneapolis-St. Paul and La Crosse, Wis.

The Mississippi, at record levels in the north, was edging up all the way from Minnesota to Missouri.

Overflows have driven an estimated 35,000 persons from their homes and have caused 12 deaths and millions of dollars in property losses.

Temperatures that dipped below the freezing level during the night in Minnesota held back the rush of flood waters from areas north of the Twin Cities. The slackening allowed some of the excess water to drain away. That resulted in a revision of the crest forecast.

Joseph Strub, Weather Bureau flood expert, said the Mississippi will fluctuate within three to five inches of Saturday's levels in the Twin Cities sector for a day or two, and is likely to start to drop Monday. Earlier, the crest had been forecast for Tuesday. The Mississippi was a foot below predicted high marks Saturday in both cities.

The St. Croix River, which empties into the Mississippi below St. Paul, also was expected to pass its peak Sunday at Stillwater, Minn.

Trucks with oversized wheels brought food into Wabasha, Minn.

Worry there focused on the ice in Lake Pepin, a wide passage in the Mississippi just above the community of 2,500.

"The ice is honeycombed to a great extent," a sheriff's officer reported.

His words were welcomed because disintegrating ice will break up easily instead of pounding bridges and dikes when it moves out of the lake.

St. Paul has been regarded as the most critical flood point for somewhat the same reason. The constant, prolonged pressure of tons of water tends to weaken retaining walls. As much as six feet of water stood in lowland areas there. Some industries and a city airport have been closed.

Winona, which has thrown up nine miles of dikes 25 feet high, gambled on that barricade to hold off the Mississippi. The river there already is at record depths and the crest is expected early next week.

The Mississippi rose beyond the 16-foot mark in La Crosse—far above the old high water mark of 15.3—and kept on climbing.

Stillwater depended upon a bulkhead called "condike." That's because convicts from the state prison farm helped build the dikes. Businesses there have shut down.

Mississippi Levee Breaks Near Quincy

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—The Mississippi River broke through a levee 16 miles north of Quincy Saturday night and murky waters overflowed 7,000 acres of farmland.

About 300 flood workers, most of them volunteers, farmers or Illinois National Guardsmen, were evacuated from the area.

The dirt levee gave way about 7:30 p.m. shortly after the river reached a season high of 24.20 feet Saturday afternoon. The river's all-time high of 24.38 feet was recorded in 1960.

The levee has withstood the river waters since 1929. It is situated in the Indian Graves Drainage District, which extends to the northern edge of Quincy.

Officials said they hoped to stop the overflow about seven miles north of Quincy where levees have been constructed on both sides of the Rock Creek.

Officials said dirt levees in the Hunt and Lima Lake districts adjacent to the Indian Graves district would probably hold.

"The break in Indian Graves has taken pressure off our levees," a Hunt district official said.

In other areas, an additional 40 National Guardsmen were mobilized Saturday to patrol the Mississippi River, nearing record levels from Minnesota to Missouri. A total of 320 National Guardsmen are on duty in western Illinois.

In the Quad Cities area, the first of an expected total of 5,500 persons began to leave their homes.

The newest guardsmen were called up by Gov. Otto Kerner to patrol a 10-mile stretch of levees near New Boston in Mercer County. They are troops of the 123rd Field Artillery in Galva.

On Thursday, Gov. Kerner had called up 60 Monmouth and Galesburg members of the unit to patrol levees along the 10 miles between Oquawka and Gulfport in Henderson County.

Then Friday, 220 Quincy guardsmen were put on around-the-clock patrol of levees from 21 miles north of Quincy to Hannibal.

The Weather Bureau said the river had held steady at 23.9 at Hannibal from 1:30 p.m. until late Saturday. The bureau said they expected the river to start falling by Monday as slowly as it has risen over the past several days if there is no rain.

The 23.9 level is 2 of a foot below the record stage of 24.1 feet set at Hannibal in 1947.

Hannibal's flood stage is 16 feet, but actual flooding does not occur until the river rises somewhere around 23 feet.

Sand-bagging of levees in the area continues and an estimated 130 families have been evacuated from the river areas.

Students March At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of students demanding an end to the war in Viet Nam massed in Washington Saturday, picketing, marching, singing and shouting for their cause.

The demonstration, one of the largest ever to take place around the White House, was billed by its sponsors, an organization calling itself Students for a Democratic Society, as the start of a national protest movement against U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Demonstration leaders said 20,000 students responded to the call they sent to colleges across the nation for support. Police estimated the number at 12,000 to 15,000.

The students packed the sidewalk in front of the White House and nearly encircled the two block-long buildings flanking it — the Treasury and Executive Office buildings. Thousands more milled around in parks near the White House.

As more and more crowded into the picket line, it became so thick it hardly moved. Many of the students had guitars and sang as they shuffled along.

The beautiful spring day at the height of the Easter season also attracted thousands of tourists, some of whom mixed in with the students.

While the demonstrators choked the sidewalk in front of the White House, the tourists stood in long lines stretching around the opposite side waiting to take the regular White House tour.

The huge demonstration attracted two groups of counter-demonstrators — a dozen members of the American Nazi Party, and about 100 persons representing Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative organization. They paraded on the sidewalk across the street from the students.

Police lined both sides of the street and kept each group isolated, but printed and shouted insults were freely exchanged.

"Pink colleges turn out yellow reds," said a placard carried by a Young America for Freedom member. "Don't let red-led de-fendants set U.S. policy," said another. "Peace creeps go home," blazoned a Nazi sign.

The Nazis, with their military uniforms and swastika armbands, touched off an incident near the White House. One of them broke through the police line to stand on a record player a student had set up to play folk songs.

The Nazi sympathizer was hauled away by police after a brief scuffle with the student, but returned to resume picketing when the student declined to press charges.

At intervals, the Nazis faced across the street and shouted, "Death to the peace creeps," "Gas the peace creeps," and "To hell with the peace creeps."

Students for a Democratic Society, which has headquarters in New York City, was founded three years ago as an outgrowth of the League for Industrial Democracy. It describes itself as a left-wing radical but non-Communist organization.

Warn Residents Of Hannibal Area To Expect Severe Flooding April 30

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Residents of the Hannibal, Mo., area were warned to expect severe flooding around April 30 as the U.S. Weather Bureau reported that the Mississippi River at Hannibal reached 23.9 feet Saturday.

Col. Howard Coffman Jr., Rock Island district engineer for the U.S. Corps of Engineers, said a crest of about 25 feet is expected April 30. Coffman said the April 30 flooding would come from water in the upper Mississippi which has inundated parts of Minnesota.

He said the recent highwater which covered low lying areas around the river in northeast Missouri and northwest Illinois has come from the Mississippi River's tributaries below Minnesota.

Coffman said he inspected levees on both the Illinois and Missouri sides of the river Saturday and felt they would be adequate to hold back the present high water. But, he warned that the levees need strengthening to combat the expected water from the upper Mississippi.

The Weather Bureau said the river had held steady at 23.9 at Hannibal from 1:30 p.m. until late Saturday. The bureau said they expected the river to start falling by Monday as slowly as it has risen over the past several days if there is no rain.

CLEAR COL. HOWARD OF CHARGE OF THEFT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A court-martial has acquitted Col. George S. Howard, retired chief of the Air Force Band, on charges of theft and conspiracy to steal from the United States.

Howard, who in 1944 became conductor of what was then the Army Air Force Band and led the musicians for two decades, was cleared in Washington Friday of these charges:

— Two counts alleging theft of $875.

— One count alleging conspiracy to steal from the United States.

— Two counts alleging false claims against the government.

The alleged acts were said to have occurred before Howard's retirement in 1963.

Johnson Reiterates, Window Still Open To Peace In Viet Nam

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson said in an Easter time statement Saturday that the window still is open to peace in Viet Nam and "we are ready to begin discussions next week, tomorrow or tonight."

But Johnson said also that the United States will settle for no less than a free, independent South Viet Nam and that this country never will abandon the little Asian nation.

Standing in sunlight on a small patio of his ranch house, Johnson read his statement in solemn tones, with solemn visage. At its end, he walked over to Mrs. Johnson. She put her arms around him and squeezed.

He kissed her cheek.

While the President spoke, state highway patrolmen were stretching a ring of cars around the ranch environs. Two organizations that oppose Johnson's

If U.S. Steps Up Action

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union threatened Sunday to permit its "volunteers" to go fight in Viet Nam if the United States stepped up military action there.

It would be the first direct ground confrontation of the world's two great superpowers.

In the midst of the Korean conflict the Soviet Union never sent its own men to fight although Communist China did. There was immediate speculation that the Soviet offer was an effort to ward off direct Chinese participation in the Vietnamese war.

Just how the Soviet Union would get its men to North Viet Nam, except across China, was not clear.

A communique issued here said the Soviet Union would permit Soviet volunteers to fight for North Viet Nam "to repulse aggression by the United States."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman declined comment.

Other U.S. officials noted that Moscow had made threats before about the possibility of Russian "volunteers" going to Viet Nam. They said they have no evidence of Soviet land forces on the way.

A spokesman for the White House said there would be no immediate comment on the Russian communique.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a statement issued in Washington ruled out an end to the air strikes at this time. "It would only encourage the aggressor and dishearten our friends who bear the brunt of battle," Rusk said, referring to the South Vietnamese government forces combating the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

In Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said U.S. Air Force planes ranged widely over Communist North Viet Nam on Saturday to the Laotian frontier, bombing and machine-gunning highway traffic.

One F105 Air Force Thunderbolt crashed into a hill while strafing a road, the spokesman said, but would not say whether the plane was shot down. The pilot was reported killed.

While the force of 42 Air Force planes were seeking out targets of opportunity, two Vietnamese skyriders showered 100,000 leaflets on Dong Hoi, 50 miles north of South Viet Nam's border. The leaflets carried President Johnson's plans for developing Southeast Asia.

The Soviet threat was contained in a communique on talks between the North Vietnamese party secretary, Le Kuan, and Soviet officials.

The Kremlin demanded that the United States get its men, airplanes and other military equipment out of Viet Nam immediately.

New Berlin Club Hears MacMurray Librarian

NEW BERLIN — The New Berlin Woman's club met April 2 in the fairgrounds building. After greeting the members and guests, the president read the Easter poem, "Resurrection." New members welcomed were Mrs. Leo Crawford, Mrs. Lowell Reider and Mrs. Charles Stapleton.

Richard Pratt, librarian of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, spoke on "Magazines, a Contemporary Form of Literature." An interesting display of a sampling of 3,200 different magazines available, was viewed during the social hour. Mrs. Raymond Long, mental health chairman, reported that seven members had participated in the two all day orientation classes held recently at the Jacksonville State Hospital, and that another such class will be held in the evenings in June. Ward parties will continue to be held by the club the second Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. Carl Ringer, art chairman, announced that entries in the Junior High Art contest will be taken to Staunton on April 9 for judging.

Mrs. Gene Bergschneider was named chairman of the committee to submit a candidate for Centennial Queen. She will be assisted by Miss Catherine Stapleton and Mrs. Ralph Frank.

Mrs. Alvin Lovekamp of the constitution review committee presented suggested revisions be voted upon. It was decided that the meetings shall begin at 1:30 p.m. instead of 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Carroll Garrison, chairman of the arrangements committee, Spring Luncheon, announced that the cost of the meal will be $2.10 not including dessert. The telephone committee will take reservations and requests for transportation. The luncheon will be held Saturday, May 1, at 12:30 p.m. sharp, at the Holiday Inn East, Springfield. Mrs. Walter J. Chapman, chairman of the program, presented a short review of the program to be given by sculptor Bill Severson, who has been commissioned to do such outstanding work as "The Bells" at Belleville, and others.

Musical Program
Mrs. Louis Kloppe, chairman of the education committee, presented the students of Sister Mary Bernard and Sister Loretta Marie of St. Mary's school, who presented a program of piano and vocal selections. A chorus consisting of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grade girls sang four selections. Individual piano solos were played by piano students of Sister Loretta Marie; Betty Fairweather, Shelly Sommer, Joseph Kratochvil, Blye Hotferkamp, Joellen Moss, William Sakach, Barbara Sakach, Kathleen Grey, Patricia Wilson, James Frank, Barbara Hemberger, Cheryl Clary, Patricia Kratochvil, Robyn Jones and David Jones.

The decorations of the room were carried out in the Easter theme, with the Education-Literature committee in charge. Members were Mrs. Louis H.

Kloppe, chairman, assisted by Mrs. David Bergschneider, Mrs. Alvina Duewer, Mrs. Joe Haugh, Jr., Mrs. Robert Marr, Mrs. M. B. Summers, Mrs. James Dorr, Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. William Goff, Mrs. Herman Hofferkamp, Mrs. Harold McMurphy and Mrs. Harold Zude.

Win District Honors

The District 21 Convention, Illinois Women's Clubs, was held at Staunton on Friday, April 9, beginning at 10 a.m.

Five members of the New Berlin Woman's Club attended: Mrs. John A. McCullough, Mrs. Ira Lions, Mrs. Raymond Long, Mrs. Edward Puls and Mrs. Woodrow Marr.

The New Berlin Woman's Club Press Book compiled by Mrs. Donald E. Smith, placed second in competition in the 21st District, and won the honor of being sent to State for competition and judging during the Illinois Federation Women's Clubs convention the first week in May.

The Junior High Art Contest, district level, acclaimed six New Berlin art entries: Class A (with formal art instruction): first, Gary Meyer, New Berlin Junior High; second, Douglas Lewis, New Berlin Junior High; third, Mark Bilyeu, New Berlin Junior High.

Class B: (without formal art instruction) all from St. John's Lutheran School, New Berlin: first, Mary Braker; second, Cheryl Long; third, Randolph Marr.

All six art entries were sent to the State Chairman and will also be judged on State Level. Thirty-eight art entries from New Berlin schools, junior high level, were submitted to Mrs. Carl Ringer, chairman of the Art Department, New Berlin Woman's club.

Other honors won by the local club at District level included the Certificate of Award and an accompanying check for $15 in recognition of highest achievement in increase of membership. The New Berlin Woman's Club increased its membership 29 during the club year. Another certificate was awarded on the basis of highest percentage of members at roll call, Central Region, including 100% of chairmen reporting to district, and members attending State and District conventions and workshops during the year.

Centennial Officers

The group meets alternate Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in the Sangamon County fairgrounds, with all chairmen of committees in attendance and reporting. Many plans for the July 25 Centennial Day at the Sangamon County Fair and other summer festivities are being formulated.

Mrs. Elmer Roesch and Mrs. Horace Clark, chairmen of the Belle and Bonnet committee have released the categories for which prizes and trophies will be awarded: Pre-school age, family groups, Six years to Junior high, Any Age Lady in Centennial Dress, Couples, Couples Married Longest, Oldest Dress, Oldest Person in Centennial Dress, Party Dress (any age Lady) copy or authentic of 1895 era.

The Belle and Bonnet committee also urges all ladies of the community to wear their Centennial Belle pins, and to wear their Centennial dresses at every opportunity. They would also like to suggest that New Berlin Woman's Club members wear their Centennial costumes to the annual Spring Luncheon on May 1st.

All interested persons of the area are urged to attend the next Centennial Planning meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday evening, April 20, in the Sangamon County fairgrounds.

Seek Bids For Building At Hines VA Center

The Veterans Administration Thursday called for bids for construction of its 15-story, 1200 bed replacement hospital building at Hines, in suburban Chicago.

Dr. Lee H. Schlesinger, director, said that bids will be opened June 15 at VA Central Office, Washington, with the contract to be let shortly thereafter. Actual construction should get under way before fall.

Construction covered by the bids will be for the central hospital building, as well as alterations and modernization of the present nurses' building, a canteen building and a utility building. Cost is estimated at about $19,000,000.

When the highrise structure is completed, plans call for construction of two neuropsychiatric buildings at the far end of the present half-mile long treatment building. This connecting structure, which was built in 1921, will be completely remodeled.

When finished, the complex will be one of the best equipped and most modern in the Veterans Administration, Dr. Schlesinger said.

VA construction at Hines is being undertaken in conjunction with erection of the Loyola Medical School and Center, and the John Madden State Center for the mentally retarded, both adjacent to the VA at Hines.

Architects are Charles F. Murphy and Associates of Chicago.

PENNEY'S welcomed a new sales and merchandise manager to the Lincoln Square store last week. Manager Kenneth W. Knapp, left, is shown with John Crumley who came to Jacksonville from St. Louis. He has a wife and two daughters and is a native of Elizabethton, Tenn. He is a graduate of East Tennessee State University and spent three seasons of professional baseball in the minor league with the Dodgers' farm system. He also coached baseball and taught math for two years in a high school.

Mr. Crumley was appointed sales and merchandise manager of the Penney Co. store in Lincoln Square.

INJURED IN MISHAP

AT MURRAYVILLE

MURRAYVILLE — Thomas Tendick, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tendick of Murrayville, was painfully injured at 4:30 p.m. Thursday while trying to repair his car.

The car, supported by cement blocks, slipped and Tendick was pinned beneath it for 25 minutes. He was released by his father and Don Cumber, son of a neighbor, who raised the car with a jack.

Young Tendick reportedly sustained back, rib, hip and shoulder injuries in the mishap.

Charles Ashford Dies In Greene, Funeral Tuesday

CARROLLTON — Charles M. Ashford of Carrollton, 79-year-old retired farmer, passed away Saturday at Boyd hospital where he became a patient after suffering a stroke Wednesday.

He was born in Greene County Jan. 31, 1886; son of John and Lucy Stevens Ashford. He was married in Carrollton Sept. 29, 1906 to the former M. A. Cameron.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Lorene Perry of Beardstown and Miss Marian Ashford of Carrollton; two sons, Dale of Carrollton and Carroll of Godfrey; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers, John Ashford of Lebanon and Porter Ashford of Decatur and two sisters, Mrs. Daisy Rathgeber of Rockbridge and Mrs. Lucy Lorton, Greenfield.

He had been a member of the Pleasant Point Baptist church since 1905.

Funeral services will be held at the Simpson Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Carrollton City cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Monday.

Goings Rites Held In Scott

WINCHESTER — Funeral services for Alvin Albert Goings were held at 11 a.m. Friday at the Woodcock Funeral Home with Father James O'Hara officiating.

Mrs. Albert Herring was the organist. Pallbearers were Ralph Evans, Everett Dunham, James McSherry, Herl Jordan, David Owings and Wayne Renner.

Burial was in St. Mark's cemetery, Winchester.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

Two cars were damaged at the intersection of Walnut and North Main streets about noon Friday.

City police reported that a southbound car on North Main, driven by Ruth A. Walsh of Peoria, Ill. struck a westbound car on Walnut operated by Sally A. Hardwick of Virginia.

Police said that both cars entered the intersection at the same time.

White Hall Newspaper Sold By Bell Family

WHITE HALL — Announcement has been made by Richard C. Bell, owner and editor of the White Hall Register Republican, that the paper has been sold to the Roodhouse Record, Inc., the transfer taking place on April 16.

Mr. Bell's father, the late Harry E. Bell, purchased the White Hall Register from George C. McFarland and George B. Presgrove on June 2, 1902, and edited the paper until his sudden death in 1930.

In 1916, the old White Hall Republican owned by the Pearce Bros. went into bankruptcy and Mr. Bell purchased this paper and combined it with his own, calling it the Register Republican.

Mrs. Stella Bell, wife of Harry E. Bell assisted in the management following her husband's passing, until she retired and passed away in 1958. Mrs. Richard C. Bell, the former Helen Ballard, has assisted her husband in the operation of the local paper during the past several years.

Two points of interest brought forth were the facts that the heaviest man in the past century is buried at nearby Benvenue cemetery, in Brown county and also the acclaimed "heaviest" hog is buried just east of Mt. Sterling.

Siloam Springs State Park was another factor in attracting tourists to the Brown county area included in the discussion.

The public library in Mt. Sterling will temporarily serve as headquarters for Tourism. For six days a week and one Sunday members of the Chamber will be on duty at the library to provide information and directions for tourists.

The meeting was conducted by the chamber president, Fred Bessell.

Tourism Is "Weighty" Point In Brown County

MT. STERLING — At the April meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce, held at Bates restaurant the 14th, a lengthy discussion was held on tourism and Brown county's attraction to this clientele.

General tickets for the Coronation and Ball are being sold in the business area at the Thrift Travel Service in the Dunlap Motor Inn, Long's Pharmacy and Steinheimer Drugs.

Tickets for the Coronation ceremony, Open House at the Strawn Art Gallery immediately following the ceremony at the gym and the Ball, to be held at the Dunlap Motor Inn, are five dollars for each adult, or ten dollars per couple.

Tickets for attending the Coronation only, at the JHS gym, are: for adults, $1.50 and students, $1.00.

There will be a special seating section at the Coronation ceremony for all patrons of the Beaux Arts.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

Gamma and Xi Alpha Upsilon chapters met April 12th at the home of Miss Janette Powell. The president, Lilo Sullivan, conducted the business session.

Correspondence was read and a donation approved for the American Field Service.

Miss Powell introduced the speaker, Mrs. Norma Davis-Meyer, who presented the program on Hats. Her collection was started by her mother and made an interesting exhibit.

The speaker briefly followed the practical origin of the hat and dealt with several passages from Lily Dache and Sally Victor, noted designers.

Mrs. Ruth Delaney and Miss Elsa Kimball were guests. At the close of the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess from a beautifully appointed table in keeping with the Easter season.

The next meeting will be the Founders' Day banquet April 26th at the Jacksonville Country Club.

Mrs. Byron Lee Taylor

Patricia Nell, Byron L. Taylor Wed In Greene

WHITE HALL — Miss Patricia Ann Nell of Hillview became the bride of Byron Lee Taylor of White Hall in an afternoon ceremony Saturday, April 10th at the local First Baptist Church.

Greenery and white gladioli adorned the candlelight altar where the Reverend E. Harris Paulson performed the ceremony. Miss Nita Ford was at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Dan Matthews. Candles at the altar were lighted by Paul Nell and Neil Fansler.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ernest Nell, Sr. of Hillview and the groom is the son of Mrs. Kenneth Taylor of White Hall and the late Mr. Taylor.

Mrs. Janet Powell of Elgin was matron of honor and Miss Charleen Williams was bridesmaid. Robert Taylor of St. Louis, Missouri attended his brother as best man and A. W. Taylor, Jennings, Missouri, another brother of the groom, was groomsmen. Ushers were Sam Taylor, Jack Taylor, Ronald Conrod and Edward Baker.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white peau de soie fashioned entrain. A head-dress of organza blossoms embellished with crystals and pearls held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white moth orchids with stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in white Chantilly lace over mint green taffeta. Their headresses were of matching material with nose-veils. Each carried a cascade of white spider mums, yellow roses and ivy.

The mother of the bride wore a beige silk costume with turquoise colored accessories. The groom's mother chose a black knit suitdress with corresponding accessories. Both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

During the reception held in the church basement the following friends assisted with courtesies, Doris Heady, Connie Spencer, Linda Taylor, Lois Conrod, Kate Lister and Helen Taylor.

Both young people graduated from White Hall High School in 1962. The bride attended Southern Illinois University and is presently a bookkeeper at Jenkinson Grocers in Jacksonville.

Betty Allen And Wm. Craven Wed At Griggsville

GRIGGSVILLE — A Griggsville couple, Miss Betty Marie Allen and William M. Craven, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, April seventeenth, at the local Methodist church. The Reverend Prentice Douglas officiated.

Carnations and pompons adorned the palm decked altar. Miss Donna Douglas sang and Cleve Curry was at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Allen and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Craven.

Miss Carolyn Allen was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Cheryl Allen, aunt of the bride was bridesmaid. Little Rhonda Allen, the bride's cousin, was flower girl and Mark Heberlein, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Kent Brown was best man. Bruce Baker was groomsmen. Ushers were Gary Allen, Jerry Allen, Keith Ellledge and Glenn Shelton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin brocade wedding gown, fashioned entrain. A tiara of pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with pink roses.

The bride's attendants wore pink satin brocade, conventional length, with matching color brocade headresses with tulle veils. They carried pink carnations.

A reception was held at the Good Shepherd building following the afternoon church ceremony.

The bride will graduate in May from Griggsville High School. She has been attending Illinois Business College in Springfield. The groom, a 1961 graduate of the same school, attended Western Illinois University at Macomb one year and entered military service in July of last year. He expects to begin a tour of duty in Germany in May.

Local Student From India Is CWJ Speaker

Miss Tina Nag, an exchange student from Calcutta, India, a student at Jacksonville High School and presently living in the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Kanatzar was the speaker April 14 at the regular meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Central Christian Church.

Mrs. Wm. Sturgess, in the absence of Mrs. Steven Hills, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Miss Nag spoke on India, "My Country and My People" telling of her religion and the schools in India compared to the churches and schools here.

Mrs. J. D. Bunting was in charge of the devotions and presented Norma Armstrong, Bettie Doolin, Lola Hickey, Eloise Plouer, Lorene Ray, and Lois Rust who sang "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" and "Christ Arose," accompanied by Katherine Ray.

Mrs. John Watson, president, presided and during the business meeting called on Mrs. LeRoy Fairchild of the nominating committee who announced the slate of officers for next year:

President — Mrs. Herschel Hickey; first vice-president, Mrs. Russell Verner; second vice-president, Mrs. Layo Flick; secretary — Mrs. Roy Newberry; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Fanning; study, Mrs. Howard Patterson; service, Mrs. Emma Wilding; courtship, Mrs. Wilbur Patterson; hospitality, Mrs. Wilbur Cully; budget and finance, Mrs. Lowell Dodson and membership, Mrs. J. D. Bunting.

Delicious refreshments in keeping with the Easter season were served by the Thompson-Newberry Group.

Former Residents Wed 48 Years

Former Jacksonville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean P. Curtis, will observe their 48th wedding anniversary Sunday, April 18. Open house was held Saturday, April 17 at the Dunlap Motor Inn.

The couple has been living for the past four years in Chesterfield, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, in the home of their son Bill.

They will remain at the Dunlap Motor Inn through April 25 to visit with their many friends.

CACHE SEEKS CASH-SUPPORT FOR COLLEGES

Committee For Advancement of Community Higher Education
 207 Gibson Building • Jacksonville, Illinois
MACMURRAY COLLEGE FOUNDED 1846
GORDON E. MICHALSON, President
ILLINOIS COLLEGE FOUNDED 1829
L. VERNON CAINE, President

Dear Citizen:

The continuing financial support by the Jacksonville business community through the Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education (C.A.C.H.E.) has been heartening. Both MacMurray College and Illinois College express their gratefulness for this support.

You know that current expenses at independent, church-related colleges — such as Jacksonville's own — exceed student fees. The difference is made up through gifts from numerous sources, one of which is C.A.C.H.E. Our area is richly blessed when we consider that our sons and daughters, as well as adults, are provided educational and cultural opportunities of highest magnitude right at our doorstep.

Annual expenditures of nearly $6-million by the two colleges, their staffs, and their students lend considerable strength to Jacksonville's economy. This in itself merits special endorsement by your Chamber of Commerce, which was responsible for the formation of C.A.C.H.E. four years ago. This is an annual business-support program for community higher education, and not a fund drive for buildings or capital funds.

We ask your support of Illinois and MacMurray Colleges as growing institutions, knowing that we all will be richer as the Jacksonville community and the colleges progress together.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES C. COULTAS
 C.A.C.H.E. Co-chairmen

A feature of MacMurray's new Chemistry Building is this auditorium-classroom which has a seating capacity of 408; it can be partitioned into two smaller lecture halls. It also is equipped with a projection booth and screen and has portable laboratory facilities for demonstration lectures. It was the setting for the dedication of the building earlier this spring and, upon a number of occasions when it was not in use by the college, it has been used by community groups for their meetings.

MacMurray College Comments

By Dr. Gordon E. Michelson
 President, MacMurray College

Our days witness a limitless explosion of knowledge. They confront an incomparable throng of college-bound students. A college is required to decide what aspects of this explosion it can most competently address. Moreover, it operates in a national climate in which the public institution is generously prepared to expand its responsibilities in an effort to meet the crisis of explosion.

MacMurray has chosen a limited role on both counts. This choice has been dictated by a conviction that what MacMurray attempts to do she must do well. She proposes a broad exposure of her students, whatever their career objectives, to the significant areas of the human experience depicted in the literature and culture of the race. She promises to make the chemist or the physician, the mathematician or the businessman or the teacher, who has based his professional study upon a MacMurray education, a person of sensitivity to the human situation.

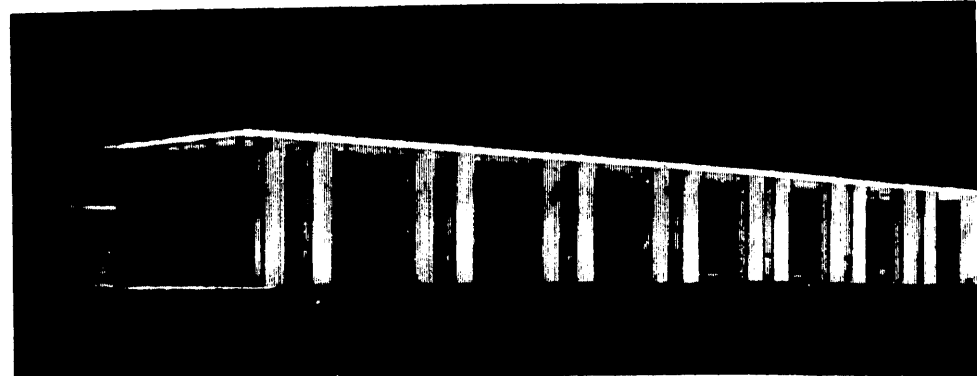

MacMurray's intention can be best achieved by expanding her student body to a modest maximum of 1,200 resident students by 1971. Students who can profit by this venture are measured in the neighborhood of 600 on the College Board Scores.

As MacMurray has sought to identify her collegiate role, she also has sought to relate her fiscal affairs to the character of the mission and to the realities of the financial context in which the college may presume to operate. MacMurray's long-range planning makes certain assumptions about the possibilities of achievement. One of these assumptions is that a college of quality — on any decided level — is determined by the quality of students, the quality of faculty, the quality of curriculum, and the quality of plant, and in that order!

That MacMurray is reflecting her intentions and moving toward her goal are evidenced by the growth of the student body in both quality and number, by the increasing number of graduates in the sciences as well as in the humanities who are accepted and succeed in the best graduate schools, and by the development and orderly expansion of facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crabtree of Jacksonville are shown through the new MacMurray Campus Center by Stephen Roderick of Auburn. The $800,000 building, which was opened in January, has 27,000 square feet of space and includes a large games area with four bowling lanes, the campus book store and post office, a large snack bar and informal lounge, smaller lounges, and a formal dining area. Located on the corner of Beecher and Lorton streets, the brick and stone-trimmed structure is air-conditioned.

The new Chemistry Building at MacMurray College contains 22,000 square feet of space and combines maximum functional efficiency with structural economy. Future campus construction includes the remodeling of MacMurray Science Hall, a $167,000 project; and a fourth men's residence hall housing 148 men, to be built this summer.

Business and professional men and industries in the Jacksonville area for the fourth successive year are raising funds for support of the city's two colleges, Illinois College and MacMurray College. The board of directors of the Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education is directing the current campaign through the leadership of Co-chairmen James C. Coultas and Martin Newman, both local businessmen.

All of the funds which are received through C.A.C.H.E. at the Chamber of Commerce office are divided equally for the two colleges to use in helping to meet their annual costs of operations. The C.A.C.H.E. campaigns do not replace the individual college alumni or special building fund drives, but are designed to be "business-support programs for community higher education."

WHAT IS CACHE?

C.A.C.H.E., Inc. (Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education) was established in 1962 as a community campaign for dollar-for-dollar support of the annual budgets of the two colleges in Jacksonville. The original plan was presented to local trustees of both Illinois College and MacMurray College and to members of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was enthusiastically adopted as an opportunity for the business and professional community to express their confidence and support of higher education in Jacksonville.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR?

In the previous three years, the following amounts have been raised for the two colleges in Jacksonville through the C.A.C.H.E. campaigns:

1962	$ 9,105.00
1963	$11,540.00
1964	$15,665.00

THE ALTRUISTIC CASE FOR CACHE.

C.A.C.H.E. deserves your support. The two colleges are substantial corporate citizens—in terms of the jobs they create, in terms of the trained young people they make available, in terms of their payrolls, in terms of the "new money" they pump into Jacksonville's economy.

Here's an idea of the spending the two colleges will generate this year, July 1, 1964 through June 30, 1965:

Combined operating budgets	$4,000,000.00
Planned capital projects during the year	$1,150,000.00
Student expenditures	$ 500,000.00
Expenditures by visitors and others	$ 200,000.00
Total	$5,850,000.00

WHERE DO THE CACHE DOLLARS GO?

Your contributions to C.A.C.H.E. will help to underwrite the current expenses of the two colleges. In no college do the fees and tuition charges paid by students cover the total costs of education. In state-operated schools, taxes make up the difference between what the student pays and the actual costs; in independent, church-related colleges such as Illinois College and MacMurray College the difference is made up through gifts—gifts from alumni, parents of students, churches, national foundations, and business and industry.

The C.A.C.H.E. campaign is an effort to help our colleges fill the dollar gap. It's your opportunity to direct your gift-dollars to colleges whose programs you endorse...from which the community directly benefits.

This is your opportunity to sustain and preserve the unique contributions which private institutions like Illinois and MacMurray provide in the education of tomorrow's leaders. If there were no Illinois College or MacMurray College in Jacksonville, we would not have the benefits we now gain.

HOW MUCH SHOULD I GIVE?

Consider for a moment a Jacksonville without our two colleges. Then answer this question: "What would I be willing to pledge each year to bring a college to my city?"

This year's C.A.C.H.E. campaign formally begins on April 20. Gifts are tax-deductible.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT YOUR COLLEGES?

Enrollment Growth

The combined enrollment of the two colleges in Jacksonville currently is 1,600 — double the 840 students enrolled in the two colleges in 1951-52. The two colleges together expect by 1970 combined enrollment of 2,000.

Building Programs

Some of the tangible growth can be seen in the recent building programs. Since the opening of MacMurray's College for Men in 1957, MacMurray has added 40 acres of land to its campus and has invested $1,500,000 in the construction of three new men's residence halls. MacMurray's progress is further exhibited in the opening this year of the new Chemistry Building and the Campus Center, the completion of a faculty housing project, the addition of 28 student rooms within two of the men's residences, and four new tennis courts; the total cost of these projects is $1,741,061. Another half-million dollars or more will be spent by MacMurray during 1965-66 for planned renovations in MacMurray Science Hall and for construction of the fourth men's residence hall.

In the same period Illinois College has built Rammelkamp Chapel, Crispin Science Hall, Jones Little Theatre, a gymnasium, natatorium, and other campus improvements including this year a language laboratory, new classrooms in Sturtevant Hall and in the lower floor of the Chapel, the tennis courts. Over $1,500,000 has been spent for "Forward Step Campaign" capital improvements, and now other construction of new service facilities is being planned. A new men's residence hall and an addition to Baxter Dining Hall are currently under way.

Curricula

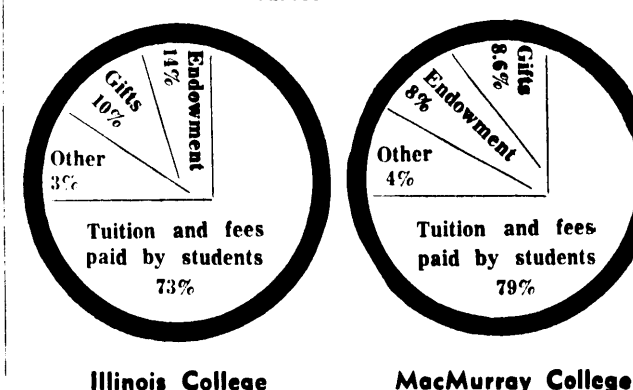

Both of the colleges are liberal-arts institutions offering courses in the humanities and the natural and social sciences. Graduates may receive the bachelor's degree at Illinois College and MacMurray College.

Employment and Payroll

The two colleges are major employers and their combined payrolls help substantially to prime the business pump of Jacksonville.

Present combined total employment	347 persons.
Present combined annual payroll	$1,400,000.00

Dear Fellow Citizen:

Each year the people of Jacksonville are offered the opportunity to tangibly support the two colleges which are at the top of the list in our community assets.

I am sure you have read of the tremendous support the colleges afford the community on a direct-return basis — such as combined payrolls which are in excess of one and a half million dollars annually, and student purchases which are in excess of half a million dollars a year.

But what about their by-products? Did you know that one of the prime reasons for Capitol Records locating in Jacksonville was our colleges? Did you realize that our other industrial considerations are largely due to our colleges? What else? They afford many cultural opportunities to the citizens in our area. For example, how many communities our size have art instruction offered by qualified college instructors? How many communities have symphony orchestras? How many communities have top artists, lecturers, personalities in all fields performing for them?

Our colleges in their expansion programs are constantly bringing worn-out buildings and uplifting rundown sections of the community. They add much to the physical assets of Jacksonville. We live on a beautiful campus but it takes money, and your support is vitally needed to continue this wonderful program of work.

You can help sustain and improve the progress of Jacksonville by supporting C.A.C.H.E.

Sincerely,
WILLARD G. CODY
 President,
 Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce

A language laboratory was constructed this year in Illinois College's new Egerton L. Crispin Science Hall. An aural-response method of instruction and practice is available to students of French, German, and Spanish languages, as well as students in music-appreciation courses.

Illinois College Comments

By Dr. L. Vernon Caine
 President, Illinois College

The mission of Illinois College is dictated not only by the needs of the present and the future but also by its 136 years of extraordinarily successful experience. If one thing more than anything else characterizes Illinois College it is that over the generations the college has produced distinguished and useful alumni out of all proportion to its size. This is evident in Jacksonville among leaders of all sorts — in medicine, the law, business, education, and community affairs. On the national and state level in journalism, education, politics, business, and religion Illinois College men and women have brought solid fame to their alma mater.

While tastes and emphasis fluctuate, some things do not really change. Good liberal arts training, which was for a long time in eclipse, is now back in favor, but at Illinois College this salient emphasis has never wavered. The kinship of "religion and learning" first propounded by the founders still characterizes the program.

A surprising number of the most distinguished alumni of the past and the present have come from homes of modest means. Some have even come out of near-poverty. Although the honor of being one of a comparatively small number of colleges with a Phi Beta Kappa chapter is a most prized possession, the college recognizes that many of the most useful people from this college have been of more modest academic achievement. This college in the Land of Lincoln has always been an institution of opportunity.

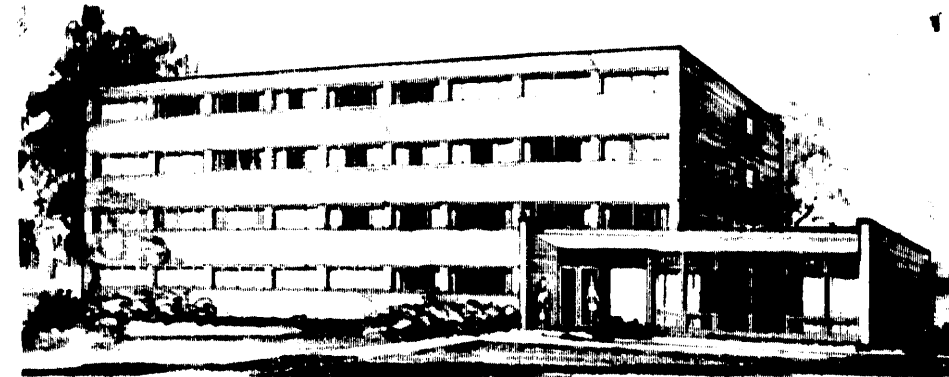

In 1959 the Trustees of Illinois College decided to establish the facilities for a college of 800 students. The money for the academic facilities for that program was raised chiefly in one campaign, and since that time campus construction projects have been in progress constantly and will continue for some time to come. The building for the mental and physical requirements of a student body with the full complement of men and women will soon be at hand. When this time comes about, the college may again examine its part in caring for the increasing demands of the educational population bulge.

The college seeks funds for current operations and for capital needs in order that it may keep its charges at a reasonable level, so as not to eliminate its traditional role as a place of opportunity for those of limited financial means. While selective in its admissions, it also believes that students of better than average academic achievement but below the genius category are entitled to an opportunity to receive a good liberal arts education.

The service of Illinois College is designed for the people of this area as well as for those from other areas of the nation and world. The college is fortunate to be situated in Jacksonville, a community which provides such a fine setting for an educational institution.

Illinois College students pause for a "conversation-break" between classes. IC's student body is increasing, and at the present time about 87% come from homes in Illinois; the remaining 13% come to Illinois College from 21 different states and four foreign countries.

A new Illinois College residence hall housing 107 men, now under construction on Mound Avenue, will be ready for occupancy in September. It is the sixth campus dormitory and the third for men students. A new addition to Baxter Dining Hall is also under construction, and will include enlarged dining rooms and serving facilities. At the present time renovations for new classrooms and faculty offices are being built in Sturtevant Hall and in the lower floor of Rammelkamp Chapel.

1965 C.A.C.H.E. CAMPAIGN TIMETABLE

NOTE: The Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education is a not-for-profit corporation organized by Jacksonville businessmen in 1962 "as an opportunity for the business and professional community to express their confidence and support of higher education in Jacksonville." C.A.C.H.E. is primarily a business support program for community higher education and it does not replace the local Illinois College Alumni Fund or the MacMurray College Loyalty Fund. A community having one or more colleges shares in the educational, cultural, and economic growth of their respective institutions. The 1965 C.A.C.H.E. drive will have personal solicitation of about 200 business and professional persons; others may make contributions to the two colleges through C.A.C.H.E., C/O Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, 207 East Morgan, Jacksonville, Illinois 62650.

March 8 - April 19

April 20

May 4

Closing of solicitations; report session at 4:30 p.m., Dunlap Motor Inn.

Editorial Comment

The Promise Of Easter, 1965

If ever the world needed Easter, it is in the Year of Our Lord 1965.

Far too much of everything Easter symbolizes has been washed away by a torrent of suspicion, conflict, hatred and selfishness.

The one thing nations and people seem to have in common today is mutual distrust.

It isn't hard to build a strong case against the future, against any real hope of peace and understanding and the power of God.

The scoffers are ever more vocal as they deride fundamental precepts of decency and morality and good taste. The haters are ever more vicious as they seek to infect others with their poisonous philosophies.

Is there really any hope?

The promise of Easter says there is. It says there is always hope for those who want hope, that there is always comfort for those who seek comfort.

If this were not so, the hope of mankind would have ended with the crucifixion. But it didn't. There was the resurrection.

Even today in a troubled world, a shaft of light pierces the gloom of discontent, disbelief and distrust. It is the eternal and indestructible hope of man that the power of good surpasses the power of evil.

The truth of this hope has been proved again and again. It is being proved today amidst almost overwhelming strife and turmoil.

If this truth is to prevail—and it must and will—it will prevail more easily if men of good will, faith and courage put their trust in it completely, confidently and joyously.

Good over evil, love over hate, hope over despair—these are ours for the asking, today as always, if we but believe in them and are willing to work for them.

This is the promise of Easter in 1965.

The Colleges And The Community

Illinois College and MacMurray College have been a part of the Jacksonville community for so many years that most of us are inclined to take them for granted. We seldom stop to think about the financial problems of these privately supported institutions. Nor do we worry about the economic consequences and cultural loss which would result if, like Carthage College, the local campuses were abandoned.

Fortunately there is a group of business men and women which has demonstrated a genuine concern for the sound development of higher learning here at home. Four years ago this group organized a "Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education," which came to be known as CACHE. This group has worked in close cooperation with the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce in an annual effort to publicize both the needs of the colleges and what the colleges mean to the life of the city.

Every year through the combined operations of Illinois College and MacMurray there is expended locally approximately $6,000,000 by the staffs, students, parents, visitors and by the institutions themselves. This is a most significant item in the economy of the entire area.

While the annual CACHE program is not a widespread capital fund raising effort it is nonetheless a vital part of the current support needed by our colleges. These private institutions lack the tax support of the public schools. They depend each year upon gifts to balance their budgets. Informed businessmen will not shirk their fair share.

Dear Ann:

Plain Gals Deserve Tumble Too

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for teen-age boys because they are mainly to blame for the misery of teen-age girls. At every party, whether at school or in somebody's house, you always see clumps of girls, sticking together, laughing and talking. They appear to be having a blast, but the truth is, they are having a perfectly lousy time and they wish they had stayed home.

Why do you fellows run after two or three of the best looking girls in the crowd? Always it's the same girls who get the big rush. The plainer ones (like me) never get a tumble and it's just rotten.

So what if a girl is a little too thin, or too heavy? What if she isn't the greatest dancer in the world? I'll bet she'd appreciate you more than the doll who is zeroed in on by every guy in the room.

The next time you go to a party or to a dance, fellas, ask a plain gal to dance or join you at the refreshment table. You may discover she is great company and that you've been missing something. —BITTER 16

Dear 16: Thank you for an excellent letter. I'd like to add this: The boy or girl who is quick to judge a book by its cover often cheats himself out of some fascinating and worthwhile reading.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think about a husband who carries on a correspondence with a college friend even though he knows his wife does not approve of it?

Edwin and I were married a few weeks ago. He never spoke much about Nanette except to say she was fun and had a terrific sense of humor. They used to work together on the college yearbook but so far as I know it was just pal stuff.

Three days ago Edwin received a letter from Nanette. I opened it by accident. The letter was full of tired jokes and references to people I don't know. I answered it from both Edwin and me, saying "I'd love to meet you sometime."

I handed Edwin the open letter and told him I had opened it by mistake. I also told him I had answered it because from now on we would be doing everything as a couple.

He said I had humiliated him and that I had no business responding to a letter addressed to him. I say there should be no secrets between a man and his wife. You always emphasize in your column that the more things a couple can share, the stronger the marriage will be. Please comment. —WILTED ROSE

Dear Wilton: It is possible to open a letter by accident, but you can only answer a letter on purpose. This was out of line and I don't blame Edwin for blowing his top.

Sharing is important but it's equally important to respect one another's privacy. To be "one," yet to remain separate and distinct entities may seem a contradiction but it is the secret of a good marriage.

Dear Ann:

Dear Ann Landers: I am planning on being married this summer. Mother has been married four times. Daddy is now married to his second wife. My fiancée's mother is on her fourth husband and his father is on his third marriage.

You may think this is crazy but all the ex's get along fine together and they see each other socially. Mother insists that we invite all the ex's to the wedding. What do you think this will look like? —B. B. B.

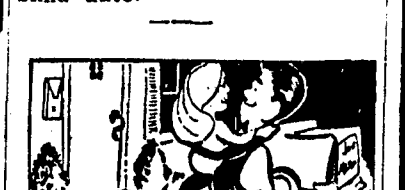

Dear B. B. B.: It will look like the discarded pages from a number of old wedding albums. But don't let it spoil "your" day. The kooks will probably have a lovely time.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Red View of Treaties:

'We Play by Our Rules'

By RAY CROWLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — By coincidence, at this time when some people are advocating a treaty with the Communists on Viet Nam, a study of the history of treaties with Red dictators is now circulating among government policy makers.

The study warns: Beware of treaties that depend on "neutral" enforcement or inspection agencies. Experience has shown the Reds won't accept such "neutral" teams unless they include Communist representation. Then the Red members inevitably go all-out to subvert the team's ability either to enforce or inspect.

Treaty violations aren't likely to be corrected satisfactorily through a coalition government which includes Communists. The Communist government officials will invariably work to take over or immobilize the government.

World opinion can't be counted on to get a Communist dictatorship to stop violating a treaty. Democratic states may be sensitive to the pressures of public opinion. But self-contained powers with a controlled press can usually ignore the opinion of other states.

In particular, widespread disapproval will seldom, if ever, alienate the people of a violating nation from their government; more often than not the reverse will occur and the people of the offending nation will rally behind their government.

Economic sanctions will rarely be effective in preventing treaty violations. They are almost certain to fail against major self-contained powers.

The concepts of truth, logic and precedent can be of little or no concern to Communists in their approach to treaty negotiations and compliance if these are not consistent with their national or ideological objectives.

In negotiations with Communists, it is generally desirable to deal on a tough quid pro quo (something for something) basis.

When a treaty is made with Communist countries, it is essential to be prepared to respond determinedly whenever the Reds violate the pact. The Communists would probably consider failure to respond to a violation as an invitation to go ahead and unilaterally modify the agreement to suit their fancy.

It is essential that this response to treaty violations be both speedy and effective and be carried out with a clear demonstration of U.S. will.

To assure this prompt and adequate response, detailed contingency planning should be undertaken on precisely what action should be taken when violation occurs.

The study concludes: With the stakes so high, it is necessary to think seriously about the possible consequences of reliance on instruments so historically fragile as treaties have been.

A GLANCE

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Rhoda Samore of Jacksonville was elected district governor of Pilot International Sunday at the closing session of the convention held in Des Moines.

The election at Beardstown promises to be a very quiet affair, with one exception. The city will vote on daylight time and the contest promises to be most lively.

The city council Monday granted a 25 year franchise to the Illinois Power Co. to operate a natural or artificial gas system in Jacksonville.

20 YEARS AGO

Dan Lair is the new president of the Union Grove Community club. Other officers are Kenneth Cline, Irene Martin, Roy Lair and Murray Duncan.

Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland was reelected Tuesday, defeating Russell L. Dumas, Democrat, by a vote of 2,876 to 903. Only one Democrat was elected to the city council, James J. Flynn of the first ward.

The village of Woodson will remain wet as a result of a hard fought battle Tuesday which ended with the following tally: Wet, 61; Dry, 56.

George A. Holnhack, 78, a retired butcher and a mayor of Greentield for three terms, died Tuesday.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sexy Joi Lansing took up singing a few years ago during the actors' strike and now she's a top night club act.

"I just had to look for a temporary means of support," recalls the well-endowed blonde. "I had never sung professionally in my life but I figured: Why not?"

"So now I'm making more money than I ever have in my life and finally getting noticed here in Hollywood, my home town."

She's been so busy on the saloon circuit that she hasn't had time for movies. But Frank Sinatra, an old friend, asked her to play Dean Martin's singing secretary in "Marriage on the Rocks."

"Since I've been singing in clubs," says Joi, "producers have started to look at me differently."

Some of her gowns may have had something to do with that. When she opened in a New York club recently, she wore a gown cut below the navel. Miss Lansing, for the statistical minded, measures 39-23-35.

"I'm more sure of my singing now," she says. "So I'm wearing high-necked gowns from now on in."

One Washington critic, catching her act at the Shoreham, admitted that he just turned out for a night of girl watching.

"I was completely taken by surprise," he wrote. "Miss Lansing can sing."

She just cut her first record album—a group of songs written especially for her by composer Jimmie Haskell and actress Stella Stevens, no mean looker herself.

"Singing," says Joi, "is like lovemaking. You never know whether you will be good at it until you try it. If it hadn't been for a strike and some overdue bills, I never would have ventured out."

"Now, I'm seeing the world and getting paid more money than I ever dreamed existed for doing so."

FINDING THE WAY

World Needs 'Easter Christians'

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Stand at the Berlin Wall and stare at the crooked, guarded entrances, the menacing guards, the sealed border. To breach the wall seems impossible. Yet there it seems incredible. Yet the young man speaking with us had come through that wall!

Talk to some neighbors who normally are gentle and cultured but who, from time to time, share harsh attitudes about human relations. To break down that wall seems impractical and impossible. Yet there it is a new spirit at work and the new breakthroughs are obvious. Ideas had breached the wall.

These are events in our time. Easter marks the event in another time that breaks into our time. Some men had seen their friend die on the Cross. They were paralyzed with fright and frustration. Yet within days they were out on the highways with the bold word of undefeatable life. They had faith that he had broken the sealed tomb. Easter had breached the wall.

Our world needs Easter Christians. We've childed these people who crowd the churches in an annual pilgrimage. Suppose they didn't come—even on Easter. Suppose that there was no one to share the word that there had been a break-through of the wall of fear and suspicion.

The real Easter Christian is the undefeatable believer who refuses to accept the verdict of death to men's hopes. Even a "one-in-a-year" tradition admits this: there's the chance that the gesture could become a commitment!

The mystery of life beyond the grave is as real today as it was in times past. Easter is the assurance that man can refuse to make the tomb his horizon and death his goal. Life is not a camera that smashes into the craters of death. Easter proclaims that life can be met with courage and death with dignity. It is the refusal to be walled in.

Stand at any bristling wall in this angry world. The walls are everywhere. You'll always find the cynical or the defeated or the fear-paralyzed.

Yet you'll always find the undefeatable, the hopeful and the persistent lovers of righteousness. They're the real Easter Christians. They refuse to take a wall—or a sealed tomb—as the final verdict.

The Mature Parent

Best Advice: Just Give Up

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:

My 2½-year-old girl is driving me out of my mind. She won't eat. She used to enjoy her breakfast but now hardly picks at that. I don't know what to do. I have whipped her, threatened her and screamed at her but she only cries and gets hysterical. I am so ashamed. People say I should let her leave food alone until she gets hungry. How can I do this when she never gets hungry? I have made her like this, haven't I?

ANSWER: Give up now. Give up. Stop trying.

Take the baby to the best doctor you can find. Tell him everything—how you've whipped and frightened her and how you have frightened yourself. Tell him you don't want her to die of not eating. He may have some ideas of how to get her back on food and at the same time get you a little time of rest from her care.

I'm going to give you four lines of a poem by Walter de La Mare; you must take and make their thought your own:

"Humble thy trembling knees; confess thy pride. Be weary. Oh, whither-soever thy vaunting roves, His deepest wisdom harbors in thy side, In thine own bosom hides its utmost love."

It's lovely that you feel shame of whipping and frightening the baby. Because the shame means that you hated doing it. So you must listen to it and respect it. We can't let the babies we love make us continually do what we hate doing. That's when we start hating ourselves. Then, of course our knees begin to tremble. They won't hold us up to keep on doing things that make us hate ourselves. They go on strike, the good knees. They are saying to you: "If you don't stop doing what you hate and what is against yourself, we aren't going along with it. We're going to let you fall down. We're going to humble you so that you can learn that no matter what, you mustn't whip your baby or do anything else you hate doing that makes you ashamed of yourself."

So, this fear, the shame and the trembling knees are all your very good friends.

It isn't the baby who is driving you "out of your mind." It is these weeks of whipping, threatening and punishing your baby girl—and doing it against yourself, against your concern for her, against your desire for her health and joy, against the love.

For your sake and hers, it must end. Give her over to the very best pediatrician in town. He's a man who has devoted his life to babies' lives. He has much more information about them than you have and knows people you don't know who have special methods for feeding babies who don't want to eat. Letting your good knees tremble, take her to him. And give up.

Q—What is the difference between a hard-boiled and hard-cooked egg?

A—Hard-boiled means tough. Food specialists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture suggest you hard-cook, rather than hard-boil, eggs. Place them in a pan and cover with cold water to at least one inch above the eggs. Bring water to simmering (just below boiling point). Simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Cool cooked eggs quickly in cold water. Keep in refrigerator.

A—No, he is not right. The term "red meat" is primarily a trade name which refers to beef, lamb, veal or pork as differentiated from poultry and fish. Actually, lamb is a rich source of iron for building and maintaining red blood and the prevention of anemia. It provides high-quality protein also.

GREENFIELD CLUBS MEET JOINTLY FOR POTLUCK

GREENFIELD — The Greenfield Woman's club joined the Junior Woman's club at its Thursday potluck supper meeting held at the Baptist Church Annex.

It was Crazy Hat Night. Many members had created hats from miscellaneous materials such as laundry baskets, plastic containers, flower pots, newspaper, straw, etc., with trimmings of artificial chickens, birds, rabbits, sewing equipment or toys.

Winners were Mrs. Kenneth Winters and Mrs. J. M. Hedgecock. Mrs. Hedgecock's hat was designed by Mrs. Charles Metcalf. Mrs. Charles Burroughs, Veteran's Service Chairman, presented Percy Gash of St. Louis, Mo., who sang before explaining recent laws which concern veterans and how they are interpreted. Mrs. Clover Hackley, Greene County Red Cross chairman and Miss Myrtle Fisher, County Blood chairman, were guests. The latter spoke about the many uses of blood donated. The Blood Mobile will be in Greenfield on April 30.

The 64th annual meeting of the 20th District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs was held Monday at the first Baptist Church, Winchester. Attending from Greenfield were: Mrs. Richard Cole, Mrs. Byron Hill, Mrs. W. D. Spencer, Mrs. Leo Price, Mrs. Kenneth Bowman, Mrs. Clarence Cunningham, Mrs. Fay Melvin and Mrs. Wilhelmina Hebnor.

At the business meeting of the Junior Woman's club following the potluck supper with the Senior club, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Wallace Davenport, president; Mrs. Kenneth Winters, treasurer; Mrs. Russell Finney Jr., ways and means chairman; Mrs. Richard Goodman, press and publicity; and Mrs. Ed Kahl, public welfare.

Officers will be installed at the Spring Banquet May 13 at the Blackhawk in Jacksonville. The tour of Boys Town has been set for Saturday, April 24. Those wishing to go should contact Mrs. Bruce Haven.

New Berlin Club Hears MacMurray Librarian

NEW BERLIN — The New Berlin Woman's club met April 2 in the fairgrounds building. After greeting the members and guests, the president read the Easter poem, "Resurrection." New members welcomed were Mrs. Leo Crawford, Mrs. Lowell Reider and Mrs. Charles Stapleton.

Richard Pratt, librarian of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, spoke on "Magazines, a Contemporary Form of Literature." An interesting display of a sampling of 3,200 different magazines available, was viewed during the social hour. Mrs. Raymond Long, mental health chairman, reported that seven members had participated in the two all day orientation classes held recently at the Jacksonville State Hospital, and that another such class will be held in the evenings, in June. Ward parties will continue to be held by the club the second Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. Carl Ringer, art chairman, announced that entries in the Junior High Art contest will be taken to Staunton on April 9 for judging.

Mrs. Gene Bergschneider was named chairman of the committee to submit a candidate for Centennial Queen, to represent the Woman's Club. She will be assisted by Miss Catherine Stapleton and Mrs. Ralph Frank.

Mrs. Alvin Lovekamp of the constitution review committee presented suggested revisions be voted upon. It was decided that the meetings shall begin at 1:30 p.m. instead of 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Carroll Garrison, chairman of the arrangements committee, Spring Luncheon, announced that the cost of the meal will be $2.10 not including dessert. The telephone committee will take reservations and requests for transportation. The luncheon will be held Saturday, May 1, at 12:30 p.m. sharp, at the Holiday Inn East, Springfield. Mrs. Walter J. Chapman, chairman of the program, presented a short review of the program to be given by sculptor Bill Severson, who has been commissioned to do such outstanding work as "The Bells" at Belleville, and others.

Musical Program
Mrs. Louis Kloppe, chairman of the education committee, presented the students of Sister Mary Bernard and Sister Loretta Marie of St. Mary's school, who presented a program of piano and vocal selections. A chorus consisting of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grade girls sang four selections. Individual piano solos were played by piano students of Sister Loretta Marie: Betty Fairweather, Shelly Sommer, Joseph Kratochvil, Blye Hoffkamp, Joellen Moss, William Sakach, Barbara Sakach, Kathleen Grey, Patricia Wilson, James Frank, Barbara Hemberger, Cheryl Clary, Patricia Kratochvil, Robyn Jones and David Jones.

The decorations of the room were carried out in the Easter theme, with the Education-Literature committee in charge. Members were Mrs. Louis H.

Kloppe, chairman, assisted by Mrs. David Bergschneider, Mrs. Alvina Duever, Mrs. Joe Haugh, Jr., Mrs. Robert Marr, Mrs. M. B. Summers, Mrs. James Dorr, Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. William Goff, Mrs. Herman Hofferkamp, Mrs. Haldean McMurry and Mrs. Harold Zude.

Win District Honors

The District 21 Convention, Illinois Women's Clubs, was held at Staunton on Friday, April 9, beginning at 10 a.m. Five members of the New Berlin Woman's Club attended: Mrs. John A. McCullough, Mrs. Ira Liois, Mrs. Raymond Long, Mrs. Edward Puls and Mrs. Woodrow Marr.

The New Berlin Woman's Club Press Book compiled by Mrs. Donald E. Smith, placed second in competition in the 21st District, and won the honor of being sent to State for competition and judging during the Illinois Federation Women's Clubs convention the first week in May.

The Junior High Art Contest, district level, acclaimed six New Berlin art entries: Class A (with formal art instruction): first: Gary Meyer, New Berlin Junior High; second: Douglas Lewis, New Berlin Junior High; third: Mark Bilyeu, New Berlin Junior High.

Class B: (without formal art instruction) all from St. John's Lutheran School, New Berlin: first: Mary Braker; second: Cheryl Long; third: Randolph Marr.

All six art entries were sent to the State Chairman and will also be judged on State level. Thirty-eight art entries from New Berlin schools, junior high level, were submitted to Mrs. Carl Ringer, chairman of the Art Department, New Berlin Woman's club.

Other honors won by the local club at District level included the Certificate of Award and an accompanying check for $15 in recognition of highest achievement in increase of membership. The New Berlin Woman's Club increased its membership 29% during the club year. Another certificate was awarded on the basis of highest percentage of members at roll call, Central Region, including 100% of chairmen reporting to district, and members attending State and District conventions and workshops during the year.

ELKS LODGE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Public installation of the newly elected officers of Jacksonville Elks Lodge No. 682 took place last Sunday. Connie Hanley was installed as the exalted ruler for the coming year by Ernie Stipp, acting as the Grand Exalted Ruler. Past exalted rulers from Macomb, Galesburg, Monmouth, Springfield and Jacksonville participated in the ceremonies.

Ladies in attendance were presented with a quilt by Francis Clancy, substituting for Rev. R. Harris as chaplain. Edward Brennan, Darrow, past exalted ruler, conducted the opening prayer of the meeting in which he expressed thanks and appreciation to the lodge members for serving the past year.

Connie Hanley, in a prepared speech, introduced all officers following the installation and pledged his support to further the lodge's work during the year.

Second row, from left: Robert Staples, es- M. Harris as chaplain; Edward Brennan, Darrow, past exalted ruler, conducted the opening prayer of the meeting in which he expressed thanks and appreciation to the lodge members for serving the past year.

White Hall Newspaper Sold By Bell Family

WHITE HALL — Announcement has been made by Richard C. Bell, owner and editor of the White Hall Register Republican that the paper has been sold to the Roodhouse Record, Inc., the transfer taking place on April 16.

Mr. Bell's father, the late Harry E. Bell, purchased the White Hall Register from George C. McFarland and George B. Prosser on June 2, 1902, and edited the paper until his sudden death in 1930.

In 1916, the old White Hall Republican owned by the Pearce Bros. went into bankruptcy and Mr. Bell purchased this paper and combined it with his own, calling it the Register Republican.

Mrs. Stella Bell, wife of Harry E. Bell assisted in the management following her husband's passing, until she retired and passed away in 1958. Mrs. Richard C. Bell, the former Helen Ballard, has assisted her husband in the operation of the local paper during the past several years.

Tourism Is "Weighty" Point In Brown County

MT. STERLING — At the April meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce, held at Bates restaurant the 14th, a lengthy discussion was held on tourism and Brown county's attraction to this clientele.

Two points of interest brought forth were the facts that the heaviest man in the past century is buried at nearby Benvenue cemetery, in Brown county and also the acclaimed "heaviest" hog is buried just east of Mt. Sterling.

Siloam Springs State Park was another factor in attracting tourists to the Brown county area included in the discussion.

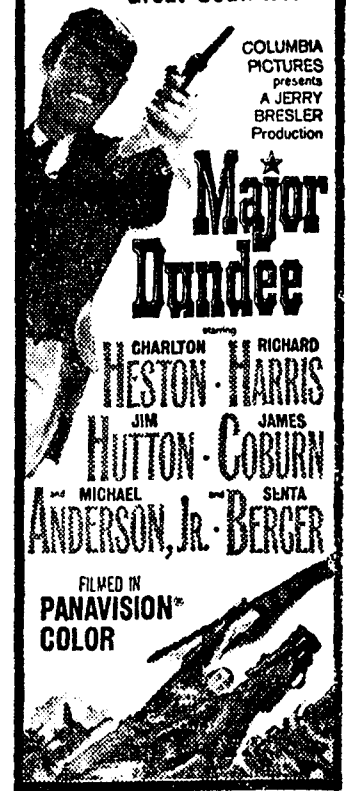

The public library in Mt. Sterling will temporarily serve as headquarters for Tourism. For six days a week and one Sunday members of the Chamber will be on duty at the library to provide information and directions for tourists.

The meeting was conducted by the chamber president, Fred Bessell.

The Roodhouse Record Inc. is a firm with Senator Paul Simon, Troy, as head and Elmer Fedder of Winchester, Secretary, and took over the operation of the local paper on Monday, April 19.

Henry M. Jones and George R. Livingstone, both having over thirty years with the paper, will continue in their present occupations.

Brown Co. Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Krupps

MT. STERLING — Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Krupps are making their home at 323 Edmond street in East Peoria. They were married at St. Mary's Catholic church here on March 27th.

Mrs. Krupps is the former Lenora Lee Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark of Meredosia and Mr. Krupps is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Krupps of Mt. Sterling route two.

Father Rathgeb performed the double ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Linda Krupps, sister of the groom, and Dave Krupps, cousin of the groom, attended the couple. Frank Clark, brother of the bride and Donald Krupps, another cousin of the groom, seated guests.

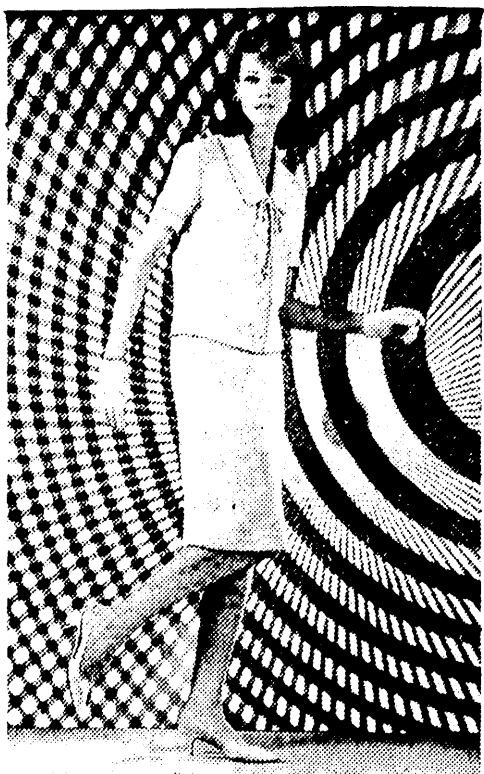

The bride wore a conventional length white lace shift dress. Her white headdress had a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of blue pompons centered with a white orchid.

Miss Krupps wore a pastel blue knit suit with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations and pompons. The bride's mother wore navy blue silk with pink accessories and the groom's mother was in navy blue lace with black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

The bride attended Meredosia-Chambersburg High School and Western Illinois University at Macomb. The groom graduated from St. Mary's Academy in Mt. Sterling and is employed at Caterpillar Tractor Company, Peoria.

There's nothing more attractive or useful than a knit ensemble. Navy and white, three-piece tailored suit (left) wins its way into many fashionable wardrobes for girls on the go. The rounded-neck sweater worn with straight skirt is topped by a cardigan jacket piped all around. The dainty, white flower trim gives and added fillip of freshness. Classic in feeling, fit and looks, the pastel knit suit (center) can go almost anywhere at any time. It won't sag or bag and the pleasure of packing it makes it a world traveler. Two-piece outfit (right) has just the right amount of feminine trim. The skirt in pale blue or pink is topped by a white pullover. Skirt and top have open-work crocheted hem. Flowers on over-blouse stand out as though handmade. These designs are from Bond's.

Musical Program Given At Bluffs Women's Meeting

BLUFFS — The Bluffs Women's Club met Tuesday afternoon in Fellowship Hall with 24 members and two guests.

Mrs. George Krusa and Miss Marie Pahlmann, attending Mrs. William Chambers opened the meeting, the pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. Clarence Northrup and the prayer by Mrs. I. D. Mueller.

Program chairman Mrs. Harvey Vortman presented Gretchen Vannier and Jane Ann Merriman, who played a clarinet duet accompanied by Brenda Likes. This special music was secured by Mrs. Paul Vannier and Mrs. Paul Welch.

Mrs. George Krusa was introduced and gave an interesting talk on "Gardening". She spoke of the various new varieties of fruits, vegetables and shrubs, especially those fruits and vegetables that freeze well.

She also spoke of the new rose varieties and told of their ratings along with the ratings of the older ones. Several attractive floral arrangements, using the flowers of the season, were displayed.

Hear Reports During the business with Mrs.

reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and chairman of the Band Boosters Carnival cake walk project.

Mrs. Margaret Hatfield reported for the community project committee and the club voted to purchase children's books for the Bluffs Public Library. Mrs. James Baird, chairman of the by-laws committee, asked for suggested changes to be voted at the next meeting. Mrs. Harvey Vortman asked for suggestions for the May meeting.

To Serve Banquet The club voted to serve the Civic Club Athletic banquet on April 26 in the school lunch room. The committee includes Mrs. Margaret Watson, Mrs. Clarence Northrup and Mrs. James Baird.

Mrs. Wendell Brackett gave a report of the district convention with Mrs. Oliver Chambers. Mrs. I. D. Mueller, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Floyd Hart, Mrs. Edward Albers and Mrs. Harvey Vortman also making brief reports. The Scott County Federation meeting is planned May 15 at Sibert Hall, Winchester.

Name Committees The president-elect, Mrs. I. D. Mueller, named some of the committees for the coming year to be: program, Mrs. Guss Anderson, Mrs. Margaret Hatfield, Mrs. James Baird, Mrs. Clarence Northrup, Mrs. Herbert

MEREDOSIA GIRLS RECEIVE AWARD AT SCIENCE FAIR

MEREDOSIA — Mary Jane McCartney and Beverly Black's project, "Effect of Alcohol and Glue," won them first place honors at the Southwestern District Junior Academy of Science exposition held at Illinois College April 10. The girls are now eligible to enter the state competition May 7 at Champaign.

A second place award went to Joe Caldwell, Roger Hester and Charles Koch for their "Anatomy of a Cow," to Bruce Dawson's "Wild Life Habitat," and David Dawson's "Steadiness Test."

Boes, Mrs. Floyd Hierman; sunshine friend, Mrs. Edward Albers, Mrs. Clyde Arnold and Mrs. Paul Welch; press book, Mrs. Oliver Chambers and membership committee, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Kenneth Potter and Mrs. Paul Vannier.

During the social hour a plant exchange was enjoyed. The hostesses, Mrs. Ruth Main, Mrs. Margaret Edlen and Mrs. Paul Welch served refreshments in keeping with the season with Mrs. Welch and Mrs. James Baird pouring. Mrs. Everett Neese, a hostess, was unable to attend.

Face Of The Moon

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

PASADENA, CALIF.: Photo taken by Ranger 8 from 270 miles above moon shows shore line of Sea of Tranquility, Sabine in NW corner, two parallel rills crossing center part (similar to Terrestrial graben). Several elongated craters probably due to Theophilus, 250 miles to the southeast. —UPI Telephoto

MAN IN THE MOON

You have probably noticed that when the moon is full it appears to have a face. The markings that cause this face are the broad, flat dark planes that cover half the moon's surface.

Because these planes are darker than the craters and mountains on the moon many scientists think that they were created by seas of lava when the moon was young. This idea is backed up by the fact that there are many craters which appear to have been drowned by a flood of lava. Mt. Pico, on the north east side of the Mare Imprimus (the large round area in the upper right of the picture), is all that remains of one of these drowned craters.

As further proof many of the craters along the edges of the seas have dark floors. The most noticeable of these is the broad, flat crater Plato, just north of Mt. Pico.

Moonquakes

The moon's plains show that our big natural satellite has had its share of earthquakes—rather, moonquakes. Astronomers have seen a number of faults (places where parts of the plane have dropped away from each other). As the sides of a fault slip apart, their movements cause the quakes.

Most of the faults take the form of long trough-like areas called rills. Ranger VIII took close-ups of two rills, the Sossigenes I Rill and the Ross I Rill (shown in the photo).

These rills run half way around Mare Tranquillitatis looking much like super highways several feet below the level of the planes.

Straight Wall

One of the most unusual faults on this side of the moon is the Straight Wall on the west side of the Mare Nubium. Actually, it's not very straight and it's not a wall. It is really a cliff about 50 miles long. But when the low slanting rays of the setting sun cause this cliff to cast a long shadow across the plane, it does look very much like a straight wall.

The moon has many rugged mountains, most of which are as high as any on earth. The loftiest peaks on the moon are in the Leibnitz range near the South Pole. A large number of these mountains reach a height of 30,000 feet or more. The highest mountain on earth, Mt. Everest, is only 29,002 feet high.

Rounded Peaks

Although the mountains on the moon are more rugged than those on earth, they are not as steep. Many of them even have rounded tops. This may be because there is no water to seep into the rocks, freeze and split them off at sharp angles. (You remember that water expands

Let's Go Birding

Warning! Look Again

By Emma Mae Leonhard

"Goosey, goosey, gander! Whither shall I wander?" We imagine that the geese felt that way too: Where can I wander without getting in my neighbor's way? For several weeks we could not miss seeing the geese, mostly Canada

Geese or Honkers; there were flocks of them, sometimes sunning themselves on ice promontories, sometimes sitting on the open water, and sometimes grazing in fields. Always the sentinels were with the flocks, their long black stocking-like necks held straight upright.

At other times wedges of geese or long sloping lines of them, headed by veterans, moved through the sky, large grayish bodies with long black necks outstretched in a slight downward curve silhouetted against the blue heavens. Whether they were in the sky or on the water or land, their well-known honking announced their presence many times before we were aware of it. And what person is so absorbed in these thoughts or emotions that he doesn't pause to pay his respect to the grandest of all water fowl—the Canada Goose?

Accustomed to seeing flocks of these geese for several weeks, we took for granted, the morning of March 27, that we were approaching another such flock on our bird hike at Lake Jacksonville. After stealing as quietly as possible toward the flock relaxing on the ice, we paused to admire these majestic birds and perhaps to outwit their wariness.

But the tables were turned. We were gazing at a flock of White-Fronted Geese, not our old friends the Canada Geese. These geese, rare in our area, stood quietly and patiently for us to admire. Unafraid, they faced us so that we were able to see the characteristic markings: the black or brownish gray bars on the belly. Because of these marks they are often called Speckle-belly or Checkered-belly. They could not have cooperated any more liberally with us. We counted what we thought were twenty or so.

After due time they pushed themselves off the ice, rose into the air, circled over the lake, and dropped down farther away. We eagerly tried to count them and agreed that there were at least seventy. They did not honk like our Canada Geese; they cackled or tooted in a higher pitch. Peterson describes the call as "kah-lah-a-luck."

Because of this they are sometimes called Laughing Geese. Once again, we had learned the birder's lesson: look twice or even more before identifying a bird. Otherwise we may cheat ourselves.

Three Good Friends

By John Rankin

Mark and his dog Duke like to visit Mr. Jake the retired attorney who lives alone in a small cottage. They are three good friends, and it is seldom that anyone else ever comes to the rustic place. Today, however, is different.

"Probably looking for stray cattle or maybe some traveler has got himself lost in the mountains," Mr. Jake said as he moved to the door to admit the unexpected guest. A beady-eyed and sinister looking little man in his late fifties followed the sheriff into the cabin.

Accuses Mark's Collie "This is Jeff Twigs from over on Spring Valley," the lawman began. "He's looking for the dog that killed one of his calves last night." Then pointing an accusing finger at Duke the officer added, "He's pretty sure it's this big collie!"

"It is him," Twigs declared, his beady little eyes piercing Duke with an accusing glare. "Thought so all along but wanted another look at him in daylight." Then turning to Mark he blustered, "Your dog killed one of my prize calves last night and your father will have to pay for the animal!"

Mark's face flushed scarlet and then turned white as he groped for words. Finally he managed weakly, "There's a big mistake somewhere, Mister. Duke wouldn't harm a calf or nothing and besides he'd never get way over to your place on Spring Valley."

Where Was Duke? "Can you prove he wasn't there last night?" Twigs snapped.

"Can you prove he was?" Mr. Jake bristled. "Of course I can," the little rancher shot back. "I saw him."

The old lawyer stared straight at the beady-eyed man. "Very well, you saw the Atherton dog at your ranch last night. 'What time, exactly?'"

Twigs stalled briefly as he glanced nervously about the room. "I'm not sure," he admitted, "but it was sometime between ten o'clock and midnight."

What Kind Of Light? "I see," Mr. Jake nodded. "But at that hour you must have had the aid of an artificial light of some kind. A floodlight, perhaps?"

Twigs shook his head impatiently. "Of course not. There was a bright moonlight when I went out to check on the herd and this big dog was right in the corral with the calves."

"Did you drive him from the corral?" Mr. Jake pressed. "No. He was burying a bone when I saw him and I supposed he was some harmless stray and went back to bed. But early this morning I found that he'd slaughtered one of my best calves."

Mr. Jake's features glowed with new interest and his tone softened when he asked his next question.

How Come You Care?

By Patty Knight

Editor's note: The following story was written by a fifth grader in Mrs. Corey's Sight-Saving class at IBSSS. The class was studying the problem of the south, and each one wrote his own views. Other work by this class will appear on this page on future Sundays.

THREE NEGRO ORPHANS Liza May Neme lived with her twin brothers, Timmy and Tommy. They were negro children who did not have a mother or father.

Tommy and Timmy earned about five dollars a week and that was used for food. They cleaned yards, emptied garbage, and washed cars. This helped some but not enough.

Liza, Timmy and Tommy wanted to go to school. Mostly when they went any place people hissed and laughed.

Liza Falls Down One day, as Liza was going to the store for the weekly supply of food she tripped and some boys saw her and laughed. Liza was hurt, she was crying.

A girl named Susanah, came walking along. When the boys saw Susanah coming, the quickly ran away.

Liza was still crying, Susanah heard her and ran over to her. Liza told her that her arm and ankle hurt very much.

Susanah told her not to move because she might have broken her arm and twisted her ankle. Puzzled Child

Susanah went to get a Doctor, but before she left Liza asked, "How come you cared?" Susanah smiled, and then ran off to get a doctor. Soon Susanah came back. Liza noticed that no one came with her. She was on a horse now and was carrying a blue blanket and a box.

Liza asked, "Why this?" Susanah said, "Today is Thursday I could not find a doctor so I brought some gauze and adhesive tape the blanket is for you to lie on as we go home."

"You mean I'm again with you?" "Yes," said Susanah. Liza then told Susanah about Timmy and Tommy.

Help For All Susanah thought for a while then she said, "Tell me where you live and I'll see to it that they are well taken care of."

Liza tried to smile. Six weeks later Liza was well and very cheerful. Liza, Timmy and Tommy are now going to school and church. But every day after that she wondered, and said to herself "How come you cared?"

Prayer Poem

Bethlehem To Calvary

By Mary Pence Claywell

Lovely Lord Jesus, Who died on the Cross . . . to cleanse and save every soul that is lost . . . if, only in "Faith," we accept and believe . . . Thou art Able and Willing, our souls to receive:

At Christmas, we smile on the Sweet, Holy Child . . . Born of a Virgin, so gentle and mild . . . and kneel in remembrance, each Christmas night, besides a Small Manger . . . all Hallowed with Light:

Yet often, Dear Jesus, The Babe's Trail is lost . . . some, where betwixt The Manger and Cross; and The Star that Shone down on The Child's Humble Manger . . . The Sweet Baby Face of The Dear Little Stranger . . . we find them so fair, but we store them away, from the dust and the grime, until "next" . . . Christmas Day:

When we leave, Lord, The Manger, a chapter is lost . . . unless, step by step, we go on to The Cross, with Jesus, The Babe, the long years to span, and see Him press onward from Childhood to Man:

The Preacher, The Teacher, The Babe Christmas Man, His Schooling in Heaven, before He was Born, when He left Heaven's Glory, our sins, to erase, Born of The Spirit . . . Housed in The Flesh; that we might BELIEVE and REPENT of our SINS . . . by walking The Trail that He Blazed for us then:

But man has a habit, Dear Jesus, 'tis true . . . and Father, it must be displeasing to You . . . We look for the "sweet," the "bitter" pass by; 'tis the "weakness" of flesh, but O, we should try, to emulate Thee, or "all" may be lost, if we pause by THE MANGER and PASS BY THE CROSS:

We must feel the sharp sting of the "thorns" in Thy Crown, and see Thy BLOOD trickle and fall to the ground; Thy Hands and Feet wounded by cruel and hard men, as You hung there suspended, and died for our sins:

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week rose to a series of historic highs, ending a couple of months of "consolidation" in the previous peaks made early in February.

It looked like a "traditional spring rally" to Wall Streeters. In the short pre-Easter trading week of four days, all the popular market averages climbed to records Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. They declined slightly on Thursday when profits were taken prior to the market holiday for Good Friday and the three-day Easter weekend.

The market was buoyed by an increasing parade of earnings reports from leading corporations, most of them showing sharp increases over a year ago. Such corporate giants as Du Pont, Radio Corp. and International Business Machines reported quarterly records.

Another factor — a very strong one — said analysts — was the end of stock selling to raise cash for April 15 income tax payments. Most of this was taken care of by Friday of the previous week because of the "regular way" delivery system on the New York Stock Exchange, which provides for delivery within four business days.

By Wednesday's close, the market had completed six straight sessions of advance, the latter three putting the list at record highs.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week rose 10.6 at 911.91. It posted a record high of 912.82 at Wednesday's close. The previous record closing of 906.30 was made Feb. 3.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week rose 2.4 to 329.33 after making its record closing of 329.75 on Wednesday. This topped the previous record closing of 327.6 made Feb. 4.

Analysts saw these new highs by the averages as made in convincing fashion — that is, on heavy volume and by sufficient margin to make it look like an emphatic declaration. A spirit of optimism prevailed in the street for the intermediate term.

Volume for the holiday short end week was a husky 25,195,600 shares — not much less than the turnover of 26,351,970 shares in the previous trading week of a full five days.

Of 1,520 issues traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange, gainers outnumbered losers by the wide margin of 812 to 708.

General Motors, the "biggest" stock on the exchange, inspired its fellow blue chips by rising to a string of historic highs, the last one 108 1/2. It ended the week's trading a little below this at 107 1/2, a net gain of 2 1/2.

Bond prices advanced during the past week and traders attributed the tone of the market to the underlying strength of the U.S. economy.

U.S. Treasury securities dealers went up despite an adverse report on British trade during March. Corporate bond prices generally reflected the advance of the stock market.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $44.18 million, compared to $47.67 million the previous week.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—The supply of slaughter steers continued to dwindle this week at the 12 major markets and prices held steady to 25 cents a hundredweight higher with good and choice grades showing the advance.

After a decline on Monday, the market tilted toward firmness and at midweek the prime grade topped at $29, equal to the high of last week and the highest in more than two years. On Friday, one load brought $29.10.

Buyers said a stronger whole sale market for dressed beef also contributed to the firmness. With the 12 market supply at a 12-year low, the average price of slaughter steers for the week was estimated at $25.05 compared with $21.33 a year ago.

In the butcher hog market, prices twice topped at $19, the highest since last August. The new peak was first paid on Monday and for more than a hundred head on Friday. At midweek, though, the high was $18.25. The supply for the period was little changed from last week and the average price of $17.70 was the same but it was up $3 from a year ago.

Some mixed choice and prime spring slaughter lambs brought $27 in the sheep market and a few lots of 44-60 lb mostly prime for the Greek Easter trade cleared at $26 and $25. Choice woolled offerings brought $26.50 and the good to mixed good and choice $23.50-26.

While this group's demonstration was taking place, a delegation from the University of Wisconsin signified support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam in a paper presented at the White House to President Johnson's foreign affairs adviser, McGeorge Bundy. They said the paper contained the names of 6,000 students and faculty members of the university.

The Wisconsin declaration opposed U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam at this time, saying it "would lead to a Communist takeover of that country."

Following the picketing near the White House, the demonstrators walked to the Washington Monument grounds for a rally at which the featured speaker was Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska.

"The United States has humiliated and humbled along in Viet Nam for over ten years now, disregarding our international obligations and commitments," Gruening said.

He said the United States should immediately announce cessation of the bombings of North Viet Nam and should seek to negotiate an immediate cease-fire.

The signs carried by the students, most of them professionally printed, declared such things as "End the war in Viet Nam now," "Escalation means annihilation," and "War on poverty, not people."

The names of many colleges were among those on the pickets. Among them were Harvard, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Williams, Brown, the University of Massachusetts, Boston University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Michigan State, the University of Nebraska and the University of Virginia.

200 Injured As Riots Continue In South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Mobbed fought police in street battles Saturday after 10,000 persons poured from a rally where speakers denounced government negotiations with Japan, Korea's old overlord. More than 200 police and demonstrators were injured.

Police announced the arrest of 227 demonstrators, including an opposition party lawmaker. More than 700 persons have been detained since disorders began Tuesday.

Police reported 15 policemen injured, 11 seriously. Among the injured were about 20 opposition lawmakers who bore the brunt of the initial charge of club-swinging police.

Alarmed by the fifth straight day of street rioting, President Chung Hee Park called in his top security officers, presumably to discuss possible martial law.

Later, Home Minister Yang Chan-Wood accused opposition politicians, who called the rally, of starting the riot. He said the politicians had "base political designs to seize power."

In another statement, Information Minister Hong Chong-chul declared the government is "fully prepared to crush any riotous acts."

The demonstrators were egged on by Red China. Peking Radio said 150,000 persons rallied in P'yo-yang, capital of Communist North Korea, in support of the South Korean demonstrators.

Peking's People's Daily said the situation "is most favorable for the struggle of the South Korean people against U.S. imperialism."

While Communist agitators may have been in the mob, the protest rally was called by the opposition Civil Front party. It is not Communist-influenced.

A government spokesman accused the Civil Front party and the opposition Democratic party of plotting an uprising by agitation among students. The parties denied the charge.

Most of those who attended the rally in Kyochang football stadium took no part in the disorders. The attack on police was led by about 500 students and other demonstrators.

Vietnamese policy were preparing to demonstrate — at some distance.

In remarks directed at such opponents, and in explanation to the world, Johnson said: "I regret the necessities of war have compelled us to bomb North Viet Nam."

"We have carefully limited those raids. They have been directed at radar stations, bridges, and ammunition depots, not at population centers; at concrete and steel, not at human life."

"I understand the feelings of those who regret that we must undertake air attacks. I share those feelings. But the compassion of this country, and the world, must go out to the men and women and children who are killed and crippled by the Viet Cong every day in South Viet Nam."

"The outrage of this country, and the world, must be visited on those who explode their bombs in cities and villages, ripping the bodies of the helpless. The indignation of this country, and the world, must extend to all who seek dominion over others with a violent and ruthless disregard for life, or happiness, or security."

To critics in Congress, Johnson said the purpose of his proposed international aid program for Southeast Asia must not be misunderstood.

"We do not seek to buy peace," he said.

"It is the price of ending aggression in blood and men we are ready to pay that price."

Standing on the porch, taking in every word, was Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He and his wife, guests at the ranch since Thursday night, left shortly afterward to fly back to Washington.

Johnson said that this Holy Week has been one of tragedy, disappointment and progress.

It was tragic, he said, because hundreds of Vietnamese and many Americans were struck down in the cruel course of battle.

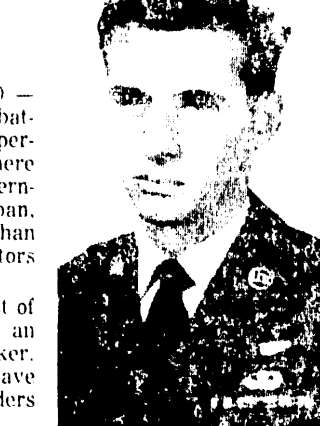

"On this, of all weekends," he said, "We must feel a deep sadness that men must still die, and families still be left homeless, in the brutality of war."

He said the week has been one of disappointment "because we tried to open a window to peace, only to be met by tired men and slogans — a refusal to talk — 'They want no talk with us — no talk with a distinguished Briton — and no talk with the United Nations. They want no talk at all — so far. But our offer stands. We mean every word of it.'"

"We stand to peace is still open. We are still ready to impose no conditions, of any kind, on any government willing to talk. Nor will we accept any."

"On this basis, we are ready to begin discussion next week, tomorrow or tonight."

Dean Saves JHS Split, 1-5, 7-5

John Dean's two out single in the bottom of the fifth inning of the second game Saturday afternoon here gave the Jacksonville Crimsons their share of a twin bill with Quincy 1-5, 7-5.

The Blue Devils jumped on Joe Wilkerson in the first game for a 3-0 lead in the first frame, and added to their margin with two more in the fourth. Jacksonville batted around in their five-run second frame taking advantage of Larry Welch's bases-loaded triple to pick up a 5-1 edge.

Sample in the fifth on three singles and one error to come within two runs before Dean cooled the first three men he faced.

John Vineyard started off the five-run second with a single. Steve Herrin followed with another single and catcher Dan Brooks brought Vineyard home. Gary Zimmer's single loaded the bases and set the scene for Welch's three run-triple with one out.

Tom Woods brought Welch in with a single to end the scoring. In the fifth, Vineyard opened the frame with a walk, and with two down, Brooks was issued a free pass from Miller, setting up Dean's two-run blow.

Welch scored the Crimsons' only run in the first game with a home run in the second inning.

Quincy tagged Wilkerson with a three run lead in the first frame on Finney's three run double.

Jacksonville was playing without the services of two regulars, Creston Whitaker and Dennis Wegelhof, both of whom were out-of-town.

BISHOP ENTRIES

FINISH 1-3

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — The William H. Bishop entry of Flaminio and Strong Salient ran 1-3 in the $20,000 Inaugural Handicap Saturday as Sportsman Park opened the 1965 Chicago thoroughbred racing season.

An all-time record crowd of 25,351 saw Valiant Man finish second in the 6 1/2-furlong race. Saturday's handle was $1,903,627. This was a record for a spring opener, but short of the track record of $2,115,322 established on the final day of the 1963 fall meeting.

The previous high of 24,363 was set on opening day last spring. Flaminio's winning margin was three-quarters of a length, with Valiant Man a neck clear of Strong Salient.

These three horses dominated the race from start to finish. Valiant Man was a slight favorite over the Bishop pair.

Strong Salient took the early lead and led into the backstretch, followed by Flaminio and Valiant Man. Flaminio, ridden by Ronnie Baldwin, went to the front near the far turn and stayed there the rest of the way. Valiant Man made a good challenge in the stretch but couldn't quite get past Flaminio.

The winning entry paid $6.20, $3.40 and $3.80 (co). Valiant Man returned $3.60 and $3.20. Flaminio earned $11,000.

Baldwin escaped injury in a two-horse spill in the fifth race. Apprentice jockey Danny Soccia was not so fortunate, however. The lad from Charlestown, Va., suffered a fractured left collarbone, a fractured nose and facial cuts. He was taken to St. Anthony De Padua Hospital.

HEAVY WEAPONS MAN — Jacksonville's right fielder Larry Welch picks his weapon in the opener of the doubleheader with Quincy Saturday. Welch's home run in the first game was the lone tally for the Crimsons. In the 7-5 Crimsons win in the second game, Welch stroked a bases-loaded triple for a 6-4 afternoon.

Gibson Spins Cards First Victory 8-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Big Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' World Series pitching hero, hurled an eight-hit shutout Saturday night against Cincinnati as the Cards posted their first 1965 baseball victory, 8-0.

Gibson, who beat the New York Yankees in the final game of the 1964 World Series, struck out 11 while his mates collected nine hits.

The Cardinals, who lost three games and played a tie with Chicago took out their frustration on four Red pitchers.

Nicklaus Faces Big Selling Job

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's wrote another. 'He doesn't easy for some people to smile. He lacks the color it just comes natural to them.' of men such as Walter Hagen, Jack Nicklaus said. 'For me, Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey.' This is the sort of criticism it's a project. Must be my face. Nicklaus has had to live with something, but I have to bring new muscles into motion since he started to challenge the when I smile."

The big, blond youngster who shattered Ben Hogan's 12-year-old record in winning his second Masters Golf Tournament a week ago, was talking frankly about the oft-criticized Nicklaus always came back stronger personality.

"Everybody is different. Jack added. 'Take Arnie Palmer—he has great facial expression. He tugs at his glove, hitches up his pants and walks fast when he's charging a golf course."

"This is not natural for me. I'm a big, slow-moving guy who doesn't show emotion. But that doesn't mean I'm not concentrating or don't want to win as much as the next man."

He'll Be Around People are going to have to get used to Jack Nicklaus. Barreling accident or injury, he threatens to dominate golf for the next 10 or 15 years. We are embarking on the Nicklaus era.

In amassing the greatest collection of national and international championships ever won by a golfer of his age, the 25-year-old Golden Bear has had a hard time selling himself to the fans—but he's winning the fight. While he is plodding the Augusta National course last week, dropping birdies in clusters, one sports writer likened him to a St. Bernard dog with sore feet.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Northern Illinois snapped a three game Illinois winning streak Saturday by taking the opener of a double-header 5-3.

The Illini rebounded in the nightcap for a 1-0 triumph.

Northern pitchers John Bonney and Steve Ruskin scattered five-Illini hits in the opener, but Illini hurler Ken Holtzman struck out 14 Huskies to gain the nightcap win.

Holtzman, a sophomore, walked two and gave up three hits. He got all the margin he needed in the sixth when Dan Humay slammed a triple and stole home for the game's only run.

Clemente Single Stops Houston In Tenth Frame

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente singled home the winning run in the 10th inning, giving the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday.

Clemente's single off Houston reliever Jim Owens scored Dick Schofield, who had opened the inning with a double.

Eloy Face, the third Pittsburgh pitcher, was the winner. He relieved Al McBean in the 10th.

Houston had tied the score 2-2 in the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and a single by Joe Morgan that sent home pinch-runner Al Spangler.

Before getting into trouble in the eighth, Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale had let only one Astro reach second after the first inning.

CACHE SEEKS CASH-SUPPORT FOR COLLEGES

Committee For Advancement of Community Higher Education
 207 Gibson Building • Jacksonville, Illinois
MACMURRAY COLLEGE FOUNDED 1846
GORDON E. MICHALSON, President
ILLINOIS COLLEGE FOUNDED 1829
L. VERNON CAINE, President

Dear Citizen:
 The continuing financial support by the Jacksonville business community through the Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education (C.A.C.H.E.) has been heartening. Both MacMurray College and Illinois College express their gratefulness for this support.
 You know that current expenses at independent, church-related colleges — such as Jacksonville's own — exceed student fees. The difference is made up through gifts from numerous sources, one of which is C.A.C.H.E. Our area is richly blessed when we consider that our sons and daughters, as well as adults, are provided educational and cultural opportunities of highest magnitude right at our doorstep.
 Annual expenditures of nearly $6-million by the two colleges, their staffs, and their students lend considerable strength to Jacksonville's economy. This in itself merits special endorsement by your Chamber of Commerce, which was responsible for the formation of C.A.C.H.E. four years ago. This is an annual business-support program for community higher education, and not a fund drive for buildings or capital funds.
 We ask your support of Illinois and MacMurray Colleges as growing institutions, knowing that we all will be richer as the Jacksonville community and the colleges progress together.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES C. COULTAS
 C.A.C.H.E. Co-chairmen

Business and professional men and industries in the Jacksonville area for the fourth successive year are raising funds for support of the city's two colleges, Illinois College and MacMurray College. The board of directors of the Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education is directing the current campaign through the leadership of Co-chairmen James C. Coultas and Martin Newman, both local businessmen.
 All of the funds which are received through C.A.C.H.E. at the Chamber of Commerce office are divided equally for the two colleges to use in helping to meet their annual costs of operations. The C.A.C.H.E. campaigns do not replace the individual college alumni or special building fund drives, but are designed to be "business-support programs for community higher education."

WHAT IS CACHE?

C.A.C.H.E., Inc. (Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education) was established in 1962 as a community campaign for dollar-support of the annual budgets of the two colleges in Jacksonville. The original plan was presented to local trustees of both Illinois College and MacMurray College and to members of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was enthusiastically adopted as an opportunity for the business and professional community to express their confidence and support of higher education in Jacksonville.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR?

In the previous three years, the following amounts have been raised for the two colleges in Jacksonville through the C.A.C.H.E. campaigns:

1962	$ 9,105.00
1963	$11,540.00
1964	$15,665.00

THE ALTRUISTIC CASE FOR CACHE.

C.A.C.H.E. deserves your support. The two colleges are substantial corporate citizens—in terms of the jobs they create, in terms of the trained young people they make available, in terms of their payrolls, in terms of the "new money" they pump into Jacksonville's economy.
 Here's an idea of the spending the two colleges will generate this year, July 1, 1964 through June 30, 1965:

Combined operating budgets	$4,000,000.00
Planned capital projects during the year	$1,150,000.00
Student expenditures	$ 500,000.00
Expenditures by visitors and others	$ 200,000.00

WHERE DO THE CACHE DOLLARS GO?

Your contributions to C.A.C.H.E. will help to underwrite the current expenses of the two colleges. In no college do the fees and tuition charges paid by students cover the total costs of education. In state-operated schools, taxes make up the difference between what the student pays and the actual costs; in independent, church-related colleges such as Illinois College and MacMurray College the difference is made up through gifts—gifts from alumni, parents of students, churches, national foundations, and business and industry.
 The C.A.C.H.E. campaign is an effort to help our colleges fill the dollar gap. It's your opportunity to direct your gift-dollars to colleges whose programs you endorse...from which the community directly benefits.
 This is your opportunity to sustain and preserve the unique contributions which private institutions like Illinois and MacMurray provide in the education of tomorrow's leaders. If there were no Illinois College or MacMurray College in Jacksonville, we would not have the benefits we now gain.

HOW MUCH SHOULD I GIVE?

Consider for a moment a Jacksonville without our two colleges. Then answer this question: "What would I be willing to pledge each year to bring a college to my city?"
 This year's C.A.C.H.E. campaign formally begins on April 20. Gifts are tax-deductible.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT YOUR COLLEGES?

Enrollment Growth
 The combined enrollment of the two colleges in Jacksonville currently is 1,600 — double the 840 students enrolled in the two colleges in 1951-52. The two colleges together expect by 1970 combined enrollment of 2,000.

Building Programs
 Some of the tangible growth can be seen in the recent building programs. Since the opening of MacMurray's College for Men in 1957, MacMurray has added 40 acres of land to its campus and has invested $1,500,000 in the construction of three new men's residence halls. MacMurray's progress is further exhibited in the opening this year of the new Chemistry Building and the Campus Center, the completion of a faculty housing project, the addition of 28 student rooms within two of the men's residences, and four new tennis courts; the total cost of these projects is $1,741,061. Another half-million dollars or more will be spent by MacMurray during 1965-66 for planned renovations in MacMurray Science Hall and for construction of the fourth men's residence hall.
 In the same period Illinois College has built Rammelkamp Chapel, Crispin Science Hall, Jones Little Theatre, a gymnasium natatorium, and other campus improvements including this year a language laboratory, new classrooms in Sturtevant Hall and in the lower floor of the Chapel, the tennis courts. Over $1,500,000 has been spent for "Forward Step Campaign" capital improvements, and now other construction of new service facilities is being planned. A new men's residence hall and an addition to Baxter Dining Hall are currently under way.

Curricula
 Both of the colleges are liberal-arts institutions offering courses in the humanities and the natural and social sciences. Graduates may receive the bachelor's degree at Illinois College and MacMurray College.

Employment and Payroll
 The two colleges are major employers and their combined payrolls help substantially to prime the business pump of Jacksonville:
 Present combined total employment . . . 347 persons.
 Present combined annual payroll . . . $1,400,000.00

Dear Fellow Citizen:
 Each year the people of Jacksonville are offered the opportunity to tangibly support the two colleges which are at the top of the list in our community assets.
 I am sure you have read of the tremendous support the colleges afford the community on a direct-return basis — such as combined payrolls which are in excess of one and a half million dollars annually, and student purchases which are in excess of half a million dollars a year.
 But what about their by-products? Did you know that one of the prime reasons for Capitol Records locating in Jacksonville was our colleges? Did you realize that our other industrial considerations are largely due to our colleges? What else? They afford many cultural opportunities to the citizens in our area. For example, how many communities our size have art instruction offered by qualified college instructors? How many communities have symphony orchestras? How many communities have top artists, lecturers, personalities in all fields performing for them?
 Our colleges in their expansion programs are constantly replacing worn-out buildings and uplifting rundown sections of the community. They add much to the physical assets of Jacksonville. We live on a cultural campus but it takes money, and your support is vitally needed to continue this wonderful program of work.
 You can help sustain and improve the progress of Jacksonville by supporting C.A.C.H.E.

Sincerely,
WILLARD G. CODY
 President,
 Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce

A language laboratory was constructed this year in Illinois College's new Egerton L. Crispin Science Hall. An aural-response method of instruction and practice is available to students of French, German, and Spanish languages, as well as students in music-appreciation courses.

Illinois College Comments

 President, Illinois College

The mission of Illinois College is dictated not only by the needs of the present and the future but also by its 136 years of extraordinarily successful experience. If one thing more than anything else characterizes Illinois College it is that over the generations the college has produced distinguished and useful alumni out of all proportion to its size. This is evident in Jacksonville among leaders of all sorts — in medicine, the law, business, education, and community affairs. On the national and state level in journalism, education, politics, business, and religion Illinois College men and women have brought solid fame to their alma mater.
 While tastes and emphasis fluctuate, some things do not really change. Good liberal arts training, which was for a long time in eclipse, is now back in favor, but at Illinois College this salient emphasis has never wavered. The kinship of "religion and learning" first propounded by the founders still characterizes the program.
 A surprising number of the most distinguished alumni of the past and the present have come from homes of modest means. Some have even come out of near-poverty. Although the honor of being one of a comparatively small number of colleges with a Phi Beta Kappa chapter is a most prized possession, the college recognizes that many of the most useful people from this college have been of more modest academic achievement. This college in the Land of Lincoln has always been an institution of opportunity.
 In 1959 the Trustees of Illinois College decided to establish the facilities for a college of 800 students. The money for the academic facilities for that program was raised chiefly in one campaign, and since that time campus construction projects have been in progress constantly and will continue for some time to come. The building for the mental and spiritual requirements of a student body with the full complement of men and women will soon be at hand. When this time comes about, the college may again examine its part in caring for the increasing demands of the educational population budge.
 The college seeks funds for current operations and for capital needs in order that it may keep its charges at a reasonable level, so as not to eliminate its traditional role as a place of opportunity for those of limited financial means. While selective in its admissions, it also believes that students of better than average academic achievement but below the genius category are entitled to an opportunity to receive a good liberal arts education.
 The service of Illinois College is designed for the people of this area as well as for those from other areas of the nation and world. The college is fortunate to be situated in Jacksonville, a community which provides such a fine setting for an educational institution.

Illinois College students pause for a "conversation-break" between classes. IC's student body is increasing, and at the present time about 87% come from homes in Illinois; the remaining 13% come to Illinois College from 21 different states and four foreign countries.

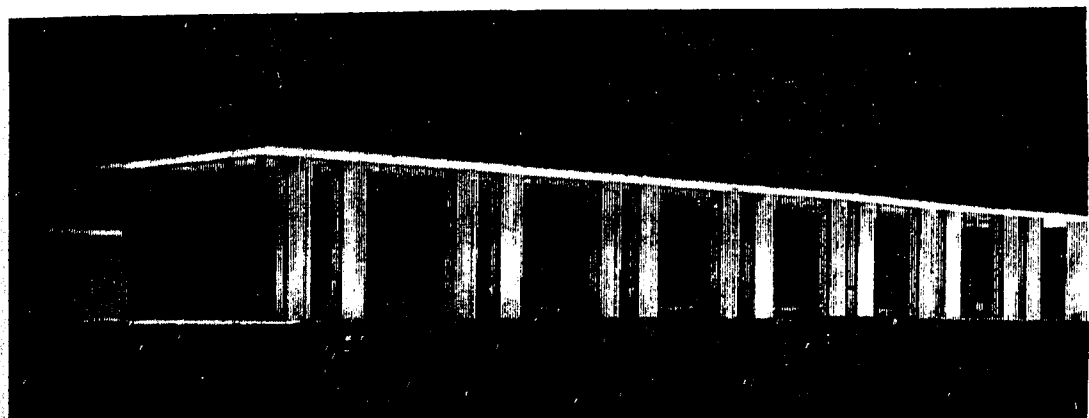

MacMurray College Comments

 President, MacMurray College

Our days witness a limitless explosion of knowledge. They confront an incomparable throng of college-bound students. A college is required to decide what aspects of this explosion it can most competently address. Moreover, it operates in a national climate in which the public institution is generously prepared to expand its responsibilities in an effort to meet the crisis of explosion.
 MacMurray has chosen a limited role on both counts.
 This choice has been dictated by a conviction that what MacMurray attempts to do she must do well. She proposes a broad exposure of her students, whatever their career objectives, to the significant areas of the human experience depicted in the literature and culture of the race. She promises to make the chemist or the physician, the mathematician or the businessman or the teacher, who has based his professional study upon a MacMurray education, a person of sensitivity to the human situation.
 MacMurray's intention can be best achieved by expanding her student body to a modest maximum of 1,200 resident students by 1971. Students who can profit by this venture are measured in the neighborhood of 600 on the College Board Scores.
 As MacMurray has sought to identify her collegiate role, she also has sought to relate her fiscal affairs to the character of the mission and to the realities of the financial context in which the college may presume to operate. MacMurray's long-range planning makes certain assumptions about the possibilities of achievement. One of these assumptions is that a college of quality — on any decided level — is determined by the quality of students, the quality of faculty, the quality of curriculum, and the quality of plant, and in that order!
 That MacMurray is reflecting her intentions and moving toward her goal are evidenced by the growth of the student body in both quality and number, by the increasing number of graduates in the sciences as well as in the humanities who are accepted and succeed in the best graduate schools, and by the development and orderly expansion of facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crabtree of Jacksonville are shown through the new MacMurray Campus Center by Stephen Roderick of Auburn. The $800,000 building, which was opened in January, has 27,000 square feet of space and includes a large games area with four bowling lanes, the campus book store and post office, a large snack bar and informal lounge, smaller lounges, and a formal dining area. Located on the corner of Beecher and Lorton streets, the brick and stone-trimmed structure is air-conditioned.

The new Chemistry Building at MacMurray College contains 22,000 square feet of space and combines maximum functional efficiency with structural economy. Future campus construction includes the remodeling of MacMurray Science Hall, a $167,000 project; and a fourth men's residence hall housing 148 men, to be built this summer.

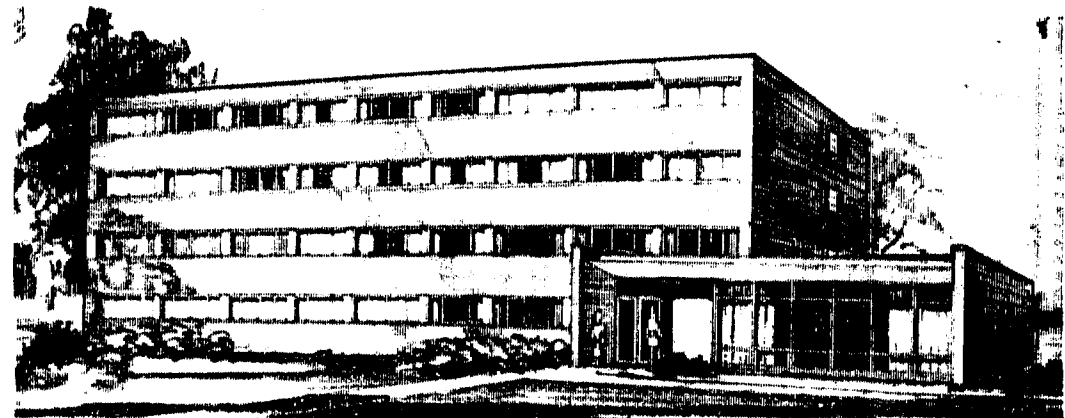

1965 C.A.C.H.E. CAMPAIGN TIMETABLE

NOTE: The Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education is a not-for-profit corporation organized by Jacksonville businessmen in 1962 "as an opportunity for the business and professional community to express their confidence and support of higher education in Jacksonville." C.A.C.H.E. is primarily a business support program for community higher education and it does not replace the local Illinois College Alumni Fund or the MacMurray College Loyalty Fund. A community having one or more colleges shares in the educational, cultural, and economic growth of their respective institutions. The 1965 C.A.C.H.E. drive will have personal solicitation of about 200 business and professional persons; others may make contributions to the two colleges through C.A.C.H.E., C/O Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, 207 East Morgan, Jacksonville, Illinois 62250.

March 8 - April 19
 1965 organizational meeting with campaign co-chairmen and representatives from the Jacksonville colleges. Team captains selected and prospect list prepared for the 1965 C.A.C.H.E. campaign; team members assigned. Preliminary letters distributed.

April 20
 C.A.C.H.E. annual meeting and kick-off luncheon meeting at the Dunlap Motor Inn.

 Closing of solicitations; report session at 4:30 p.m., Dunlap Motor Inn.

A new Illinois College residence hall housing 107 men, now under construction on Mound Avenue, will be ready for occupancy in September. It is the sixth campus dormitory and the third for men students. A new addition to Baxter Dining Hall is also under construction, and will include enlarged dining rooms and serving facilities. At the present time renovations for new classrooms and faculty offices are being built in Sturtevant Hall and in the lower floor of Rammelkamp Chapel.

Farm Cooperative Associations Seek Aid In House Bill

By DICK EMERY
Legislative Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — House Bill 944 is bound to stir up a hornets nest in the House when it comes up for debate, probably next week. It is aimed at curbing interference with membership of farm cooperative associations.

Introduced by Rep. Robert Craig, D-Indianola, the bill is favored by the Illinois Agricultural Association and hotly opposed by the National Farmers Organization of Illinois.

The bill reads in part: "It shall be unlawful for any person who purchases, agricultural products from a producer, or a producers' cooperative association to interfere with the exercise of the (producer's) rights to join and belong to a producers' cooperative association."

"What intra-state farm commerce does exist, is already covered by the Illinois Co-op Act," Kramp says. "The Capper-Volstead act does provide penalties to terminate its membership with such an association. The bill further forbids use of money or other value to induce a grower to refuse to or cease to belong to such an association."

It provides a fine of up to $1,000 and up to a year in jail for violators.

Paul E. Mathias, of Bloomington, lobbyist for the IAA, says Illinois farmers who grow and sell produce within the state need this protection.

"We need to penalize the processor who rejects the grower because he belongs to an association," he said. "Under the federal Capper-Volstead Act, farmers can join together to try to raise prices without violating the Federal anti-trust laws."

No Overall Protection
It protects growers in interstate commerce, but not farmers who produce and sell within the state, he added. "Neither does the Capper-Volstead Act penalize the processor for refusing to deal with a grower because he belongs to an association," Mathias stated.

Leonard W. Kramp of Alexander, state chairman of the NFO, says the bill "puts many groups of people in jeopardy. We believe that the term 'interfere with' in the bill can be taken to jeopardize almost any conversation between a member of one production group and a member of another," he said.

"This bill would help certain interests set a trend. If farmers can be inhibited from group activity, labor also can be inhibited under parallel legislation," Kramp said.

He says that protection offered by HB 944 is already afforded by the Illinois Agricultural Co-Operatives Act of 1929 which provides for injunctive relief and for civil damages.

"Secondly, any penalties not provided by the Illinois Co-op Act are provided by the Illinois

CITY ELECTION
TO BE APRIL 20

ROODHOUSE — The city election on Tuesday, April 20 will find incumbent Mayor Ray Prather opposed by Ward K. Ballard, present alderman, for mayor for the coming term.

There will be races for alderman from each of the three city wards. Incumbent City Clerk Donald Moore and incumbent City Treasurer Merle Mackey are unopposed.

In the first ward alderman race, John V. Todd and Dean H. Taylor are seeking seats on the council while the second ward, Earl Newingham, incumbent, and Jack Whitehead are both seeking the post of alderman.

The third ward has five men vying for the post: Delbert C. Overby, George O. Fay, Velda Myers, Edward E. Waltrip and Lee Keller, not one of whom is an incumbent.

The polls will be open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

ASHLAND BOARD NAMES JUDGES FOR ELECTION

ASHLAND — Judges for the election to be held Tuesday, April 20 were selected at the April 13th Village Board meeting.

Judges are Margaret McDonald, Wilma Dorsett, Edgar Thornley, Rose Hinds and Yvonne Hager.

On other action the board approved the proposal to put into use a new water billing and bookkeeping system.

A request by Albert Terry for a raise in pay was tabled until the next meeting. An application for job as nightwatchman submitted by Purdie Boner was also tabled.

Tavern licenses for three months were issued to Don Richmond, Teddy Flinn and Jack Davisson.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas Plattner, Pittsfield, became the parents of a son born at 2:49 a.m. Saturday at Passavant hospital.

Harry Birdsell Dies Suddenly, Funeral Monday

Harry J. Birdsell, 1710 South Main street, pioneer operator of large drive-in restaurants in Jacksonville and prominent businessman, died suddenly at Passavant hospital at 11:55 p.m. Friday. Mr. Birdsell had entered the hospital on April 7 but his death was unexpected.

He was born in Morgan county on Dec. 6, 1903, son of James and Ida Margatroyd Birdsell. He was married at St. Charles, Mo. on Jan. 11, 1942 to Alice Rimbey. She survives with two children, a son Jimmy J. at home and a daughter, Jane Ann, wife of Charles Heitbrink of this city. There is one grandchild, Robbie Heitbrink. Three sisters also survive, Mrs. Effie Wolter, Mrs. Mae Ferguson and Mrs. Ethel Cruise, all of Jacksonville. His parents, one sister and two brothers preceded Mr. Birdsell in death.

The deceased was a member of the White Hall Presbyterian church and the local UCT chapter.

The remains were taken to the Gillham - Buchanan Funeral Home where friends may call after noon today. The family will receive friends at the funeral home 7 to 9 p.m. this evening.

Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 2 p.m. Monday with Rev. W.A. Gardner officiating. Interment will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

House Bill 944 is very similar to Findley's proposal which was rejected in Washington," Kramp continued. "It is significant that interests supporting the Findley effort are now attempting to change this law through legislation in state."

Rowe Backs Off
Rep. Harris Rowe, R-Jacksonville, withdrew his name from the list of sponsors last week. He said he hasn't decided how he will vote on the bill, but "There is enough question about the need for such legislation that I don't want to be a sponsor."

"At first, I understood the bill to be aimed at the food canner who might refuse to do business with a grower because of the grower's affiliation with one organization or another," Rowe said.

"But the bill does more than this. It restricts activity such as the NFO is engaged in," he said. "This is not a legislative problem, and I don't believe we should pass such laws."

Rep. John Lewis, R-Marsball, former Speaker of the House, and often outspoken champion of farm legislation, is deeply concerned about the controversy rising up over this bill.

"The bill is needed, but I don't like to see farmers fighting one another over it," Lewis said. "By broad interpretation, the NFO maintains that the bill is directed against themselves and against organized labor. This is not the intent of the bill," he added.

"If it can be interpreted this way, then I'm in favor of amending it so that it will be clear that the sponsors are not aiming it against the NFO or any other farm organization," Lewis said.

CHAPTER HEARS STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE HEAD

Mrs. Mary Flagge Dies Saturday, Funeral Monday

Mrs. Mary Alice Flagge, wife of the late Reverend George W. Flagge, died at 8:15 a.m. Saturday, at her residence, 203 South Fayette street, where she and her sister, Mrs. Douglas Hunt, have lived for many years.

She was born near Beardstown Nov. 18, 1870, daughter of William H. and Emlin Dunn Paschall. In 1884 the family located in the Markham community, west of Jacksonville.

On Sept. 14, 1893 she was married to Rev. Flagge, who accumulated 43 years as an active minister in the Illinois Methodist Conference. Rev. Flagge died in 1932. One of Rev. Flagge's early pastorates was at Centenary Methodist church in this city. He later served as Superintendent of the Quincy District and still later was supply pastor at the Riggs Methodist church.

The deceased was educated in the public schools and attended Chadlock College. As a member of Grace Methodist church she belonged to the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Opportunity Class.

Mrs. Flagge is survived by her sister, Mrs. Hunt, the last member of the immediate family. Three sisters and two brothers preceded her in death, Mrs. Ellen Coleman, Robert Paschall, John Paschall, Mrs. Emlin Cully and Miss Myrtle Paschall. There are a number of nieces and nephews.

The body was taken to the Williamson Funeral home where the family will meet friends 7 to 9 p.m. this evening.

Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 2:30 p.m. Monday with Dr. C. P. McClelland, Dr. Frank Nestler and Dr. McKendree Blair in charge. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Nancy Ellen Ring

Mrs. Albert Ring, 428 South Mauvaisterre street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Nancy Ellen, to Frederick Peter Ott of Boston, Massachusetts.

They will be married on Saturday, April twenty-fourth at St. Jude's Catholic church in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin.

Miss Ring graduated from Winchester High School and received her science degree from Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. She is a physical therapist at Milwaukee General Hospital.

Mr. Ott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Ott of Norheim, Germany, holds two masters degrees, one in language and one in literature from universities at Paris, France and Mainz, Germany. He is presently attending Harvard University working toward his Ph.D.

19 Young Girls Will Make Bows At Queen's Coronation April 24

Nineteen young girls will make their bows to society during the ceremony to be held next Saturday evening, April 24th, when the 1965 Beaux Arts Queen will be crowned. The identity of the Queen is kept secret until her appearance at the Ball. The ceremony will be held at 8 p.m. at the Jacksonville High School gymnasium.

All of the senior maids are senior high school age. Their pictures are seen on accompanying pages in this edition of the Sunday Jacksonville Journal and Courier. The group includes the following:

Susan J. Fricke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert F. Fricke, 7 Duncan Place. Miss Fricke will be presented by her father.

Mrs. Byron Lee Taylor

Patricia Nell, Byron L. Taylor Wed In Greene

WHITE HALL — Miss Patricia Nell of Hillview became the bride of Byron Lee Taylor of White Hall in an afternoon ceremony Saturday, April tenth at the local First Baptist Church.

Greenery and white gladioli adorned the candlelight altar where the Reverend E. Harris Paulson performed the ceremony. Miss Nita Ford was at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Dan Matthews. Candles at the altar were lighted by Paul Nell and Neil Fansler.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ernest Nell, Sr. of Hillview and the groom is the son of Mrs. Kenneth Taylor of White Hall and the late Mr. Taylor.

Mrs. Janet Powell of Elgin was matron of honor and Miss Charlene Williams was bridesmaid. Robert Taylor of St. Louis, Missouri attended his brother as best man and A. W. Taylor, Jennings, Missouri, another brother of the groom, was groomsmen. Ushers were Sam Taylor, Jack Taylor, Ronald Conrod and Edward Baker.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white peau de soie fashioned train. A head-dress of organza blossoms embellished with crystals and pearls held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white moth orchids with stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's attendants were dressed alike in white Chantilly lace over mint green taffeta. Their headresses were of matching material with nose-veils. Each carried a cascade of white spider mums, yellow roses and ivy.

The mother of the bride wore a beige silk costume with turquoise colored accessories. The groom's mother chose a black knit suit dress with corresponding accessories. Both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

During the reception held in the church basement the following friends assisted with courtesies, Doris Heady, Connie Spencer, Linda Taylor, Lois Conrod, Kate Lister and Helen Taylor.

Both young people graduated from White Hall High School in 1962. The bride attended Southern Illinois University and is presently a bookkeeper at Jenkinson Grocers in Jacksonville.

The groom was employed by N. F. Fansler in White Hall following his high school education and is now serving with the U.S. Army, stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Among the many guests were Mrs. Mary Rader, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Mary Nell, another grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Charles Arena, great-uncle of the bride.

Carnations and pompons adorned the palm decked altar. Miss Donna Douglas sang and Cleve Curry was at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Allen and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmoyn Craven.

Miss Carolyn Allen was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Cheryl Allen, aunt of the bride was bridesmatron. Little Rhonda Allen, the bride's cousin, was flower girl and Mark Heberlein, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Local Student From India Is CWJ Speaker

Miss Tina Nag, an exchange student from Calcutta, India, a student at Jacksonville High School and presently living in the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Kanatkar was the speaker April 14 at the regular meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Central Christian Church.

Mrs. Wm. Sturgess, in the absence of Mrs. Steven Hills, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Miss Nag spoke on India, "My Country and My People" telling of her religion and the schools in India compared to the churches and schools here.

Mrs. J. D. Bunting was in charge of the devotions and presented Norma Armstrong, Bettie Doolin, Lola Hickey, Eloise Plouer, Lorene Ray, and Lois Rust who sang "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" and "Christ Arose," accompanied by Katherine Ray.

Mrs. John Watson, president, presided and during the business meeting called on Mrs. LeRoy Fairchild of the nominating committee who announced the slate of officers for next year:

President — Mrs. Herschel Hickey; first vice-president, Mrs. Russell Vernon; second vice-president, Mrs. Layo Flick; secretary — Mrs. Roy Newberry; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Fanning; study, Mrs. Howard Patterson; service, Mrs. Emma Wilding; courtsey, Mrs. Wilbur Patterson; hospitality, Mrs. Wilbur Cully; budget and finance, Mrs. Lowell Dodson and membership, Mrs. J. D. Bunting.

Delicious refreshments in keeping with the Easter season were served by the Thompson-Newberry Group.

The couple has been living for the past four years in Chesterfield, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, in the home of their son Bill.

They will remain at the Dunlap Motor Inn through April 25 to visit with their many friends.

Former Jacksonville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean P. Curtis, will observe their 48th wedding anniversary Sunday, April 18. Open house was held Saturday, April 17 at the Dunlap Motor Inn.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

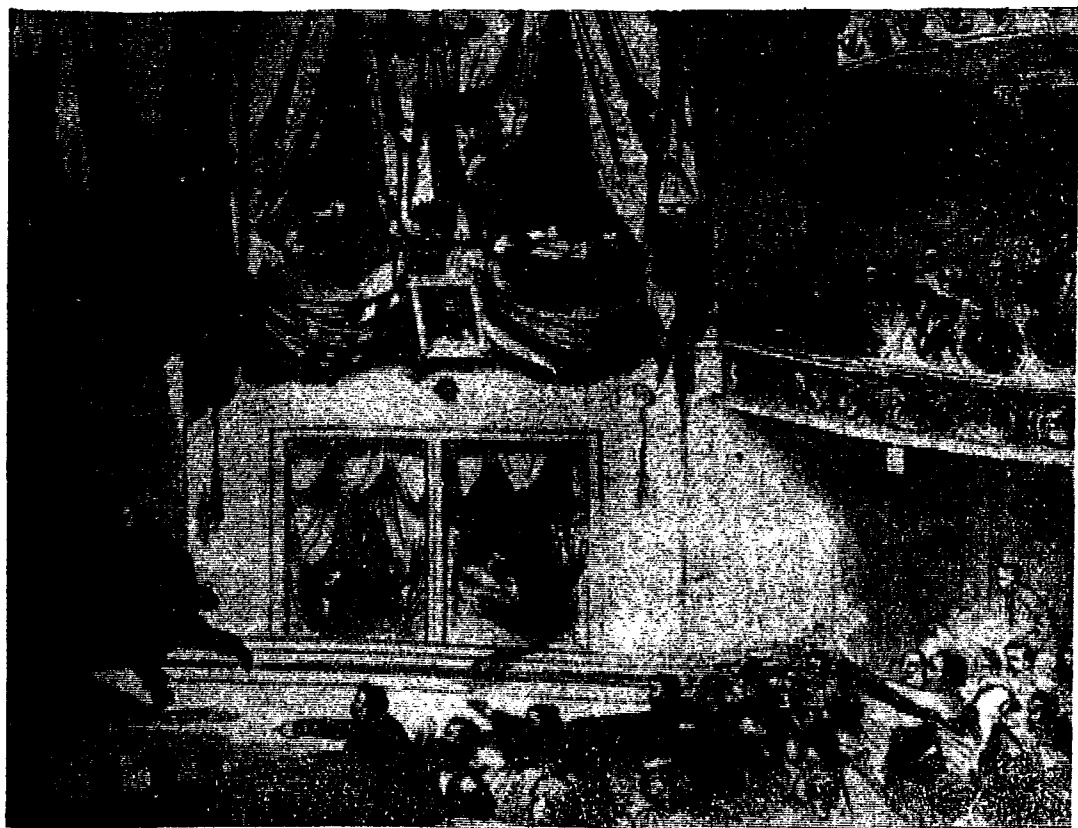

Gamma and Xi Alpha Upsilon chapters met April 12th at the home of Miss Janette Powell. The president, Lilo Sullivan, conducted the business session. Correspondence was read and a donation approved for the American Field Service.

Miss Powell introduced the speaker, Mrs. Norma Davidsmeyer, who presented the program on Hats. Her collection was started by her mother and made an interesting exhibit. The speaker briefly followed the practical origin of the hat and dealt with several passages from Lily Dache and Sally Victor, noted designers.

Mrs. Ruth Delaney and Miss Elsa Kimball were guests. At the close of the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess from a beautifully appointed table in keeping with the Easter season.

The next meeting will be the Founders' Day banquet April 26th at the Jacksonville Country Club.

The Civil War -- 100 Years Ago

THE ASSASSINATION of President Lincoln at Ford's Theatre—After the Act. — HARPER'S WEEKLY.

ROCKING-CHAIR in which President Lincoln was sitting when assassinated. Appearance of the Chair, with the blood of the President upon it, when sketched in the theatre by A. Berghaus, April 16 — FRANK LESLIE'S NEWSPAPER.

At Ford's Theatre That Night

A president of Illinois Woman's College, later MacMurray College, attended Ford's Theatre in Washington, D.C., the night Booth shot Lincoln and in his later days Dr. William H. DeMotte wrote an account of the event as he remembered it and this account was printed in the Illinois Historical Journal in 1928.

DR. W. H. DeMOTTE

At the time DeMotte was 35 years old and had taught in schools for the deaf after graduating from DePauw University, Indiana. In 1864 Governor Morton of Indiana appointed him a military and sanitary commission agent and he spent most of his time in the central office in Washington.

"On the evening of Friday, Good Friday, April 14, 1865, after dinner a number of us were seated about the door of the office when the cry of the news-boy, 'Evening Star, President Lincoln and General Grant will attend Ford's Theatre tonight,' started the suggestion that we make use of the occasion to see these noted men. Finding that two of the men present, one from Indiana, had never seen either man I readily consented to go with them."

Hail To The Chief
The first act of the play was interrupted by the arrival of the President's party, without Grant, DeMotte wrote. After the orchestra played "Hail to the Chief," everybody returned to their seats and the play went on.

"then to the right a pistol shot was heard, I do not doubt, most there for the moment thought it was in the play. In a moment a tall, dark man, neatly dressed in black, sprang lightly over the front of the box occupied by the President and his party, holding to the front with his hands, lowered himself to the stage floor, some twelve feet below. As he passed, his foot caught in the flags which draped the box and he alighted upon the floor below with one foot bent under him in such a position as to strain or break the ankle. He rose instantly and hissing in a coarse stage whisper, 'Sic semper tyrannis,' stalked deliberately and in a highly tragic manner diagonally across the stage, going out through the flies at the northeast corner. I remember no other words. I have seen it stated that the assassin added, 'The South is avenged.' I did not hear it."

"For an instant, it seems to me now like a much longer time than I am sure it must have been, there was a breathless silence. Some rose to their feet, others sat, all were startled. The screams of Mrs. Lincoln and perhaps words she spoke, I do not recall any, gave notice of the tragedy which had occurred. The man at my left said, 'The President is shot,' and the one on my right said, 'That was Wilkes Booth. I saw him play here a few nights ago.'"

Victory At Mobile

We belatedly turn to the notebooks kept by Thomas S. Chandler, 16 year old drummer boy from Chandlerville, Co. K, 33rd Illinois Infantry. The regiment was celebrating the fall of Mobile, the last major Confederate center, on April 12 after the Union forces had successfully taken the two forts protecting the city.

The attack on Spanish Fort began March 27:
March 27 — 4 miles from the Fort. Reveille at 4. Marched at 5 a.m. Run in the enemy pickets at 9 a.m. Our corps has run the enemy inside their fort and with the 13th formed on our left, forming a complete line around the works. One man from Co. H wounded by a sharpshooter.

March 28 — Camp in front of Spanish Fort, Ala. Firing resumed this morning. One man wounded from Co. C. one from Co. B. We have a great many guns playing on their works. Busv throwing up earthworks.

March 29 — Since still going on, cannonading still going on both sides quite brisk. Our gun boats are doing their part throwing shells into the City of Mobile. A shell exploded on the road killed some horses and one man from Co. H wounded. Weather clear.

March 30 — Spanish Fort still progressing fine. Ball and shell are still finding their way on this way and wounding a great many. One shell wounded five. Their sharpshooters do good shooting.

April 1 — Weather fine. I dressed a wound for a Reb today. His name is Frank Watkins. Co. A 62d Ala. We have several pieces playing on them that is doing lot of good.

April 6 — Spanish Ft. — I did not get to go down to the Regt. today. I was busy at the Hospital. None of our Regt. wounded today.

April 9 — We took Spanish Fort at 11:30 last night. How many prisoners and cannon is not known.

April 10 — We were Ordered to march at 9 a.m. We camped in sight of Fort Blakely. The Rebs will soon be routed out of that place, you know.

April 11 — Fort Blakely, Ala. — Dan and myself went around by the works and saw plenty Torpedoes. We had to move camp on account of the shell from the Reb gun boats.

April 12 — Mobile Evacuated. A Salute of 100 guns to be fired from our gun boats for recent Victories.

April 14 — near Blakely — Marched at 9 a.m. Our Regt. marched in front to-day. Marched 9 Mls. On a nice stream by an old Mill.

DOMESTIC

On the 5th inst. messages were sent direct from New York to San Francisco, a distance of nearly 4,000 miles; the largest length of wire ever worked over a single circuit.

Mrs. Catherine Brarenberger, of Pittsburgh, has recovered $3,250 damages from Dr. George Cleis, in consequence of his negligence or lack of skill in treating her husband's broken leg. The wound was patched up, and the man died from the effects of gangrene.

The guns captured at Richmond — and left uninjured — are stated to be from 450 to 500, many of them of large calibre.

The Missouri State Convention has adjourned. The new constitution (abolishing slavery) was passed by a vote of 38 to 13. It is to be voted upon by the people on the 6th of June, and if ratified will go into effect on the 4th of July. The soldiers will vote upon it in camp.

The suggestion that great economy would be effected if petroleum could be substituted for coal on Board steamships, is likely to be brought into practice.

HUMORS

The difference between the married and divorce is exceedingly slight, consisting merely of the exchange of a couple of letters, the married being united, and the divorced united.

OUTRAGEOUS — An old bachelor, being asked by a pert young miss if he could account for the application of the term "belle" to handsome young ladies, promptly replied that it was owing to the goodly proportion of brass in their composition.

A CHROMATIC CONUNDRUM — What is the color of a scream? Yell-ho, of course.

A bird that always faces the storm. The weather-cock.

— Harper's Weekly

"Mrs. Lincoln's screams continued and she leaned over the front of the box and said something and there was a movement within the box which I could not see plainly on account of the flags."

"In a moment several men took places upon the stage directly under the box and they assisted a man, whom we understood to be a surgeon, to climb up to the box, the same way the assassin had come down."

"By this time there was an increase of stir among the occupants of the theatre, but no loud talking. People began to go out. I do not remember any rush or crowd toward the box. I do not recall any authoritative statement or announcement. I think none was made. The fact soon spread among them that the President had been shot in the back of the head or neck, and the wound was serious. In a short time men came out of the box along the aisle toward the outer door carrying the apparently lifeless body of the President."

Wait In The Rain
After the President had been taken across the street to the Peterson residence "a large crowd collected and soon Tenth street for F to E was packed. And though the rain fell continuously all night there was no diminution. People wandered away in the dark only to return in a few minutes to ask anxiously if there was any information. But no word came from that guarded chamber and we knew of the fatal result only when an undertaker arrived next morning about seven."

"The reactions to the terrors of the night were appalling. As business hours approached on Saturday morning the banks, stores and shops were not open or if a door stood half open here and there one saw few customers and few salesmen. I remember going to one of the larger stores to get something black to drape our door and passing down the long room to quite the rear to find some one to wait on me and then it was difficult to make him understand just what I wanted. But soon every fabric that could be used to designate sorrow and mourning, from finest crepe down to black muslin was sought for. Foolish prices were paid. But the demand was for days far beyond the supply. As I passed about Washington there was some token of sorrow everywhere, on government buildings, on many of the better residences, and on tents and shacks. The expression everywhere was as if each had suffered a great personal loss, the appearance as if a father, a guardian, a protector lay dead in every house."

Dr. DeMotte served as president of IWC from 1868 to 1875 and he died in 1910 in Indianapolis at the age of 79. He is buried in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Couldn't Believe The Rebs

From the Jacksonville Journal, April 17, 1915:

Today, April 17, is the 50th anniversary of Captain J. M. Swales' release from Andersonville prison after several months' confinement in that infamous death trap. When he entered the stockade in the summer of 1864 he weighed 185 pounds and when released he tipped the scales at 83 pounds.

In the fall of 1864 when Sherman was moving through Georgia he was taken to the prison at Macon, Ga., and there he saw Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, and Captain Henri Wirz, who was the keeper of the prison stockade and was tried by a military court and sentenced to be executed by hanging on the charge of murdering Union prisoners, the execution taking place in November following the close of the war at the old capitol jail in Washington, D.C.

April 17 was after the close of the war, though the poor fellows in the prison hell were not aware of it. A large lot of them were loaded like cattle on a freight train and were told that they were being taken to the Union lines. The captain said they had lied to him so many times he didn't believe them then, so he said to a comrade who had been captured with him that he meant to leave the train at the first opportunity and do the best he could for liberty and begged the comrade to go along but the latter was too emaciated and depressed to undertake it, but a prisoner from Ohio, Charles Alden, said he would try it and they did succeed in jumping from the train and for once made a mistake in not accepting a rebel statement as truth, but could they be blamed?

Something seemed to say to them, "go westward," and they did and after four days in swamps and cold and nearly starved they came across the 7th Ohio cavalry belonging to Gen. Wilson's brigade, which had concluded a raid through the south and one of more importance, than that of Gen. Grierson. Every possible kindness was shown to the poor fellows and soon they began to pick up, but it was a close shave from death. Had they remained on the train they would have reached home several weeks sooner than they did.

was sustained, excepting a delay of several hours. We learn that in the confusion that ensued a gentleman passenger was robbed, but we did not learn particulars.

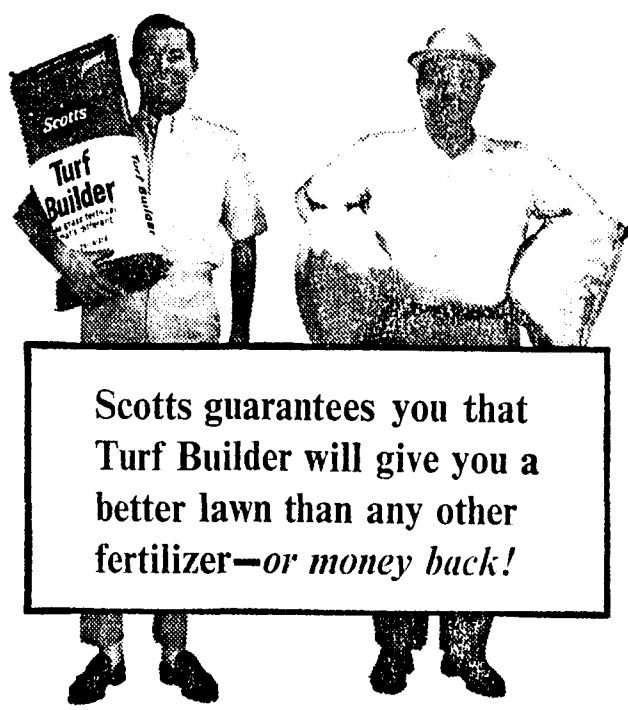

FAST DRIVING — On Wednesday afternoon several College boys were out buggy riding, and returning to the city, two of them tried the mettle of their horses in a race around the square, resulting in a run-off with one of them, and the upsetting and breaking up of the buggy, much to the danger of several citizens, but fortunately resulting in no serious damage. For this veridancy and disregard of the city ordinance against fast driving, the young gents were arrested and fined to the tune of fifteen dollars and costs.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

A NATION IN MOURNING — On last Saturday morning the terrible news was transmitted here by telegraph that the President of the United States had been basely assassinated, and that an attempt had also been made to assassinate Mr. Seward, the Secretary of State. No event in the varied history of our country has ever so shocked the public mind, or cast a deeper gloom upon every heart. Occurring just at a time when the skies were brightening, when the prospect of permanent peace and a re-united country gladdened every heart, the blow has impressed every mind with horror and gloomy forebodings. The dastardly act has overwhelmed the nation in grief and mourning.

We have widely differed with the late President in many of his policies, but his more recent acts revived our confidence in his ability to guide the country safely through the trials which for four years have threatened the existence of the government. His removal therefore is a great national calamity. No one, under existing circumstances, could so well have guided our national storm-tossed bark into the haven of safety.

Mr. Johnson is now the President of the United States, and around him the hopes of the nation will cluster. God grant that he may be enabled, wisely and in the spirit of true patriotism, to properly respond to the heavy responsibilities resting upon him. It will be the duty of all parties, in this sad crisis, to rally around the new President in all his acts tending to promote the welfare of the country.

From the Jacksonville Journal: SERVICES — The Rev. Dr. Glover will hold services at Strawn's Hall on Sabbath next, according to previous announcements, suitable to the sad occasion of the death of the President.

ACCIDENT ON THE RAILROAD AND ROBBERY — The 11:15 train from Springfield was thrown from the track, near Alexander Station on Tuesday evening, last, several cars getting off, but no serious damage

On this Easter Sunday, as we join with our many friends in reaffirming our faith, we extend to you our greetings and sincere good wishes.

At the same time, I, Fred Gray, wish to reassure all the people of our community that as a candidate for MAYOR, I have only the best interests of all the people at heart. If elected, I will serve all of our community to the best of my ability.

Thank you,
Fred

The Promise Of Easter, 1965

If ever the world needed Easter, it is in the Year of Our Lord 1965.

Far too much of everything Easter symbolizes has been washed away by a torrent of suspicion, conflict, hatred and selfishness.

The one thing nations and people seem to have in common today is mutual distrust.

It isn't hard to build a strong case against the future, against any real hope of peace and understanding and the power of God.

The scoffers are ever more vocal as they deride fundamental precepts of decency and morality and good taste. The haters are ever more vicious as they seek to infect others with their poisonous philosophies.

Is there really any hope?

The promise of Easter says there is. It says there is always hope for those who want hope, that there is always comfort for those who seek comfort.

If this were not so, the hope of mankind would have ended with the crucifixion. But it didn't. There was the resurrection.

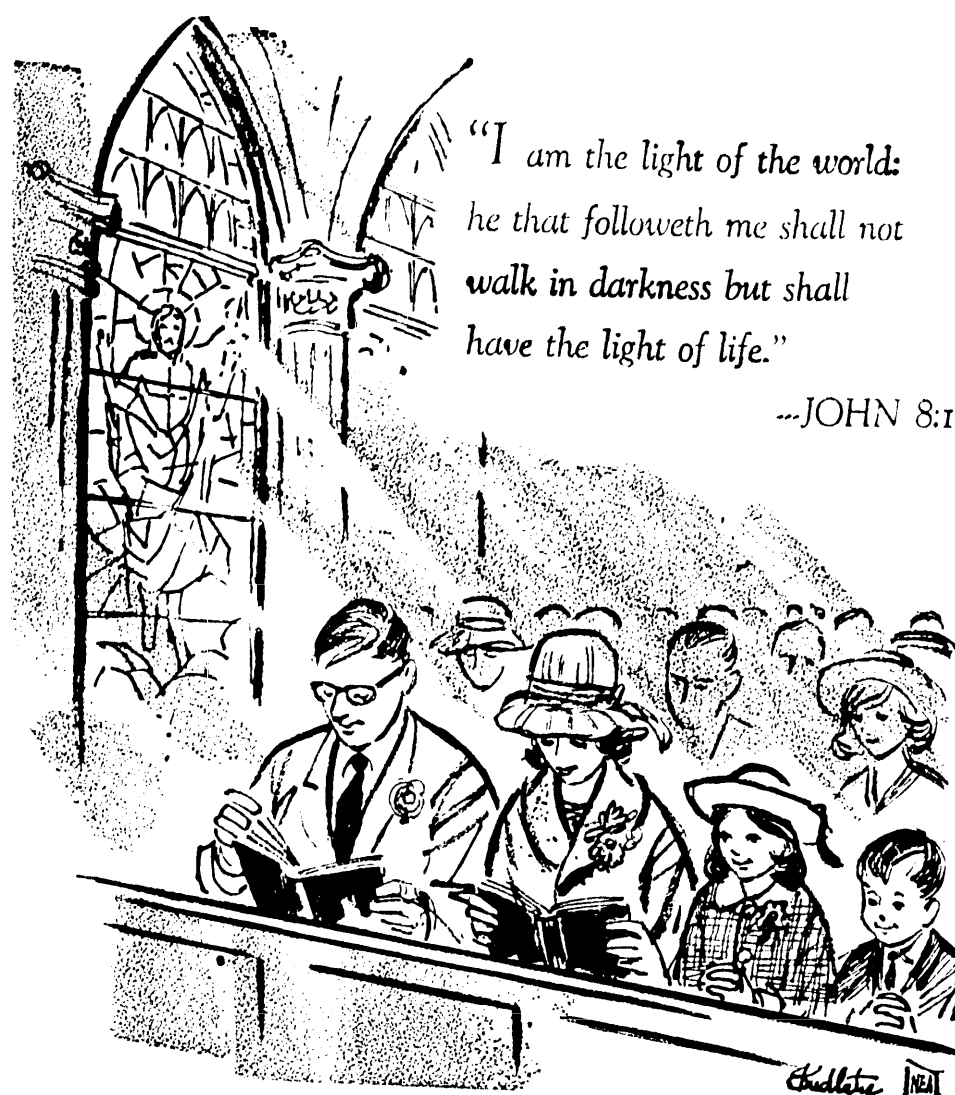

Even today in a troubled world, a shaft of light pierces the gloom of discontent, disbelief and distrust. It is the eternal and indestructible hope of man that the power of good surpasses the power of evil.

The truth of this hope has been proved again and again. It is being proved today amidst almost overwhelming strife and turmoil.

If this truth is to prevail—and it must and will—it will prevail more easily if men of good will, faith and courage put their trust in it completely, confidently and joyously.

Good over evil, love over hate, hope over despair—these are ours for the asking, today as always, if we but believe in them and are willing to work for them.

This is the promise of Easter in 1965.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sexy Joi Lansing took up singing a few years ago during the actors' strike and now she's a top night club act.

"I just had to look for a temporary means of support," recalls the well-endowed blonde. "I had never sung professionally in my life but I figured: Why not?"

"So now I'm making more money than I ever have in my life and finally getting noticed here in Hollywood, my home town."

She's been so busy on the saloon circuit that she hasn't had time for movies. But Frank Sinatra, an old friend, asked her to play Dean Martin's swinging secretary in "Marriage on the Rocks."

"Since I've been singing in clubs," says Joi, "producers have started to look at me differently."

Some of her gowns may have had something to do with that. When she opened in a New York club recently, she wore a gown cut below the navel. Miss Lansing, for the statistical minded, measures 39-23-35.

"I'm more sure of my singing now," she says. "So I'm wearing high-necked gowns from now on in."

One Washington critic, catching her act at the Shoreham, admitted that he just turned out for a night of girl watching. "I was completely taken by surprise," he wrote. "Miss Lansing can sing."

She just cut her first record album—a group of songs written especially for her by composer Jimmie Haskell and actress Stella Stevens, no mean looker herself.

"Singing," says Joi, "is like lovemaking. You never know whether you will be good at it until you try it. If it hadn't been for a strike and some overdue bills, I never would have ventured out."

"Now, I'm seeing the world and getting paid more money than I ever dreamed existed for doing so."

The city council Monday granted a 25 year franchise to the Illinois Power Co. to operate a natural or artificial gas system in Jacksonville.

Dan Lair is the new president of the Union Grove Community club. Other officers are Kenneth Cline, Irene Martin, Roy Lair and Murray Duncan.

Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland was reelected Tuesday, defeating Russell L. Dumas, Democrat, by a vote of 2,676 to 903. Only one Democrat was elected to the city council, James J. Flynn of the first ward.

The village of Woodson will remain wet as a result of a hard fought battle Tuesday which ended with the following tally: Wet, 61; Dry, 56.

George A. Holzbach, 78, a retired butcher and a mayor of Greenfield for three terms, died Tuesday.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says money being spent to put a man on the moon could be better spent for ending water pollution in the United States.

The costs for equipping the nation with adequate sewage disposal is about equal to that of sending a man to the moon in the Apollo project, Douglas told a group of 500 Rotary Club members Wednesday.

FINDING THE WAY

World Needs 'Easter Christians'

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Stand at the Berlin Wall and stare at the crooked, guarded entrances, the menacing guards, the sealed border. To breach the wall seems impossible. To attempt it seems incredible. Yet the young man speaking with us had come through that wall!

Talk to some neighbors who normally are gentle and cultured but who, from time to time, share harsh attitudes about human relations. To break down that wall seems impractical and impossible. Yet there is a new spirit at work and the new breakthroughs are obvious. Ideas have breached the wall.

These are events in our time. Easter marks the event in another time that breaks into our time. Some men had seen their friend die on the Cross. They were paralyzed with fright and frustration. Yet within days they were out on the highways with the bold word of undefeatable life. They had faith that he had broken the sealed tomb. Easter had breached the wall.

Our world needs Easter Christians. We've chided these people who crowd the churches in an annual pilgrimage. Suppose they didn't come—even on Easter. Suppose that there was no one to share the word that there had been a breakthrough of the wall of fear and suspicion.

The real Easter Christian is the undefeatable believer who refuses to accept the verdict of death to men's hopes. Even a "one-in-a-year" tradition admits this: there's the chance that the gesture could become a commitment!

The mystery of life beyond the grave is as real today as it was in times past. Easter is an assurance that man can refuse to make the tomb his horizon and death his goal. Life is not a camera that smashes into the craters of death. Easter proclaims that life can be met with courage and death with dignity. It is the refusal to be walled in this angry world. The walls are everywhere. You'll always find the cynical or the defeated or the fear-paralyzed.

Yet you'll always find the undefeatable, the hopeful and the persistent lovers of righteousness. They're the real Easter Christians. They refuse to take a wall—or a sealed tomb—as the final verdict.

The Colleges And The Community

Illinois College and MacMurray College have been a part of the Jacksonville community for so many years that most of us are inclined to take them for granted. We seldom stop to think about the financial problems of these privately supported institutions. Nor do we worry about the economic consequences and cultural loss which would result if, like Carthage College, the local campuses were abandoned.

Fortunately there is a group of business men and women which has demonstrated a genuine concern for the sound development of higher learning here at home. Four years ago this group organized a "Committee for Advancement of Community Higher Education," which came to be known as CACHE. This group has worked in close cooperation with the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce in an annual effort to publicize both the needs of the colleges and what the colleges mean to the life of the city.

Every year through the combined operations of Illinois College and MacMurray there is expended locally approximately $6,000,000 by the staffs, students, parents, visitors and by the institutions themselves. This is a most significant item in the economy of the entire area.

While the annual CACHE program is not a widespread capital fund raising effort it is nonetheless a vital part of the current support needed by our colleges. These private institutions lack the tax support of the public schools. They depend each year upon gifts to balance their budgets. Informed businessmen will not shirk their fair share.

Red View of Treaties:

'We Play by Our Rules'

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — By coincidence, at this time when some people are advocating a treaty with the Communists on Viet Nam, a study of the history of treaties with Red dictators is now circulating among government policy makers.

The study warns: Beware of treaties that depend on "neutral" enforcement or inspection agencies. Experience has shown the Reds won't accept such "neutral" teams unless they include Communist representation. Then the Red members inevitably go all-out to subvert the team's ability either to enforce or inspect.

Treaty violations aren't likely to be corrected satisfactorily through a coalition government which includes Communists. The Communist government officials will invariably work to take over or immobilize the government.

World opinion can't be counted on to get a Communist dictatorship to stop violating a treaty. Democratic states may be sensitive to the pressures of public opinion. But self-contained powers with a controlled press can usually ignore the opinion of other states.

In particular, widespread disapproval will seldom, if ever, alienate the people of a violating nation from their government; more often than not the reverse will occur and the people of the offending nation will rally behind their government.

Economic sanction: will rarely be effective in preventing treaty violations. They are almost certain to fail against major self-contained powers.

The concepts of truth, logic and precedent can be of little or no concern to Communists in their approach to treaty negotiations and compliance if these are not consistent with their national or ideological objectives. In negotiations with Communists, it is generally desirable to deal on a tough good pro quo (something for something) basis.

When a treaty is made with Communist countries, it is essential to be prepared to respond determinedly whenever the Reds violate the pact. The Communists would probably consider failure to respond to a violation as an invitation to go ahead and unilaterally modify the agreement to suit their fancy.

It is essential that this response to treaty violations be both speedy and effective and be carried out with a clear demonstration of U.S. will.

To assure this prompt and adequate response, detailed contingency planning should be undertaken on precisely what action should be taken when violation occurs.

The study concludes: With the stakes so high, it is necessary to think seriously about the possible consequences of reliance on instruments so historically fragile as treaties have been.

Dear Ann:

Plain Gals Deserve Tumble Too

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for teen-age boys because they are mainly to blame for the misery of teen-age girls.

At every party, whether at school or in somebody's house, you always see clumps of girls, sticking together, laughing and talking. They appear to be having a blast, but the truth is, they are having a perfectly lousy time and they wish they had stayed home.

Why do you fellows run after two or three of the best looking girls in the crowd? Always it's the same girls who get the big (rue) the plainer ones (like me) never get a tumble and it's just rotten.

So what if a girl is a little too thin, or too heavy? What if she isn't the greatest dancer in the world? I'll bet she'd appreciate you more than the doll who is zeroed in on by every guy in the room.

The next time you go to a party or to a dance, fellas, ask a plain gal to dance or join you at the refreshment table. You may discover she is great company and that you've been missing something. —BITTER 16

Dear 16: Thank you for an excellent letter. I'd like to add this: The boy or girl who is quick to judge a book by its cover often cheats himself out of some fascinating and worthwhile reading.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think about a husband who carries on a correspondence with a college friend even though he knows his wife does not approve of it?

Edwin and I were married a few weeks ago. He never spoke much about Nanette except to say she was fun and had a terrific sense of humor. They used to work together on the college yearbook so far as I know it was just pal stuff.

Three days ago Edwin received a letter from Nanette. I opened it by accident. The letter was full of tired jokes and references to people I don't know. I answered it from both Edwin and me, saying "I'd love to meet you sometime."

I handed Edwin the open letter and told him I had opened it by mistake. I also told him I had answered it because from now on we would be doing everything as a couple.

He said I had humiliated him and that I had no business replying to a letter addressed to him. I say there should be no secrets between a man and his wife. You always emphasize in your column that the more things a couple can share, the stronger the marriage will be. Please comment. —WILTED ROSE

Dear Wilted: It is possible to open a letter by accident, but you can only answer a letter on purpose. This was out of line and I don't blame Edwin for blowing his top.

Sharing is important but it's equally important to respect one another's privacy. To be "one," yet to remain separate and distinct entities may seem a contradiction but it is the secret of a good marriage.

Sitting like a pretzel does little for anyone's image.

Dear Ann Landers: I am planning on being married this summer. Mother has been married four times. Daddy is now married to his second wife. My fiancé's mother is on her fourth husband and his father is on his third marriage.

You may think this is crazy but all the ex's get along fine together and they see each other socially. Mother insists that we invite all the ex's to the wedding. What do you think this will look like? —B. B. B.

Dear B. B. B.: It will look like the discarded pages from a number of old wedding albums. But don't let it spoil "your" day. The looks will probably have a lovely time.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Only very light infections were found on another 1,200 acres in six other southern Illinois counties. University of Illinois extension plant pathologist M. C. Shurtleff (above) examines ears of corn infected by MDM. Early-infected corn plants produce only nubbins with scattered kernels.

SINCE MDM is a problem in the southern part of the state researchers take every precaution to prevent its spread. All MDM research at the U. of I. is under strictly quarantined condition as H. H. Thornberry, plant pathologist, explains to J. J. Feight, assistant extension editor, left.

Seek A Corn Hybrid Resistant To Disease

Maize dwarf mosaic (MDM) described as potentially the most serious disease of corn ever to invade the Corn Belt is the object of intensive research by land-grant universities like the University of Illinois and by the USDA and commercial seed corn companies. Universal concern about this problem has produced the highest degree of cooperation among all interested groups.

What are researchers fighting? Maize dwarf mosaic is a disease caused by a sap-transmissible virus spread primarily by aphids. Johnsongrass appears to be the main reservoir host plant in which the virus overwinters and from which it spreads via aphids to healthy plants. Other perennial and winter annual grasses are probably also implicated in the spread of this disease.

Last year in southern Illinois, crop specialists found about 2,000 acres of corn infected with maize dwarf mosaic, most of it in Alexander and Pulaski counties. The disease was also found in Massac, Union, Jackson, Calhoun and Wabash counties. Illinois corn growers can expect maize dwarf mosaic to be much more widespread and destructive this year and in future years than it was last year if the pattern here follows that found in Ohio, Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. U. of I. plant pathologist M. C. Shurtleff says aphid numbers, the winds blowing them in and other climatic factors will help to determine how serious MDM will be this year. Scientists therefore can't make an accurate prediction.

Resistance Sought
Crop specialists agree that resistant corn hybrids and varieties offer the best and most lasting method of controlling MDM. Probably tolerance to the disease is simply inherited, say U. of I. corn breeder D. E. Alexander. A considerable number of inbreds and crosses in common use by commercial experiment station and USDA sources have shown a high degree of field resistance to the virus.

In Illinois and throughout the Corn Belt, researchers will screen corn breeding material to further determine resistance and adaptation. They will test 90 percent of the germ plasm available for corn breeding inbred lines will get a closer look this summer when U. of I. researcher R. V. Lambert enters them in a screening nursery near McClure, Alexander county.

U. of I. research is dovetailed with that of the USDA and other experiment stations to avoid duplication in studying the biology of virus vectors, working with the virus, making host-range studies and handling other facets of the MDM problem.

The USDA is coordinating a uniform nursery test in at least 13 states this year where crop specialists are studying 20 selected lines of corn—resistant and susceptible to both MDM and corn stunt, a similar virus originally confused with MDM—and corn stunted with MDM only—to resolve the problem of virus strains and "escapes," or rejections by migrating aphids, and to get some idea about whether both viruses are present in an area.

Don't Know!
Corn lines that were rated resistant in field plots last year may actually be escapes. Researchers don't know how many virus strains are involved or whether hybrids that were highly resistant in Ohio or Kentucky in 1964 will also be highly resistant in Iowa, Illinois or Missouri this year.

For maximum yields, farmers outside areas that are seriously affected with MDM should plant well-adapted varieties and use the same cultural practices that they have used successfully in the past, advises Shurtleff.

Outlook Meeting Set For Tuesday
All interested persons are invited to attend the annual livestock and economic outlook meeting to be held Tuesday at Farm Bureau hall. It will begin at 8 p.m.

Both speakers are very well known by farmers and livestock producers of this area. Harry G. Russell, U. I. livestock specialist, will speak on current livestock numbers, feeding, management and marketing trends. Ed Lamb, fieldman for the St. Louis Producers Livestock Marketing association, will report on the cooperative livestock survey and indicated marketing intentions.

Questions And Answers From New Swine Book

A booklet that answers some of the most common questions asked by swine producers in recent months is now available from the University of Illinois Department of Animal Science. In the booklet, which is entitled "Your 1965 Hog Management Suggestions," U. of I. animal scientists discuss swine management, swine breeding systems, selection standards for herd replacements and boar selection. They also answer 47 swine producer questions.

Here are some of the questions swine growers asked and the answers given by U. of I. animal scientists Harry Russell, Dick Carlisle, Terry Greathouse and Gary Ricketts.

Does beef tallow or lard have any place in swine ration?

It depends on the price of these animal fats. They do have the advantage of eliminating dust in ground rations. Also, fat is about 2½ times as concentrated as carbohydrates. Therefore, feeding 5 percent or more of animal fat in the ration materially reduces the amount of feed required per 100 pounds of gain.

What is the value of oats in hog rations?

Oats may replace all of the grain in rations for bred sows. For growing pigs and nursing sows, oats work best if they do not make up more than one-third of the grain fed. Fine grinding will boost the value of oats by 30 percent. Oats should not replace corn unless they are cheaper pound for pound.

What about wheat and barley for hog feed?

If ground or cracked, wheat is worth slightly more, pound for pound, than corn, but is usually too expensive to use. Barley is worth 90 percent as much as corn if it is ground. Don't feed scabby barley.

Do I need a mixture of animal and plant proteins in my protein supplement?

No. Several years of work at the U. of I. have shown that the protein in soybean meal will produce gains as fast and efficiently as a mixture of proteins from several sources. Soybean meal has some deficiencies, but that must be corrected before it will satisfactorily supplement corn in hog rations.

Do I need alfalfa meal in my hog drylot ration?

If you can buy synthetic B-vitamins and vitamin A premixes, you do not need to have alfalfa meal in drylot rations. Although alfalfa meal is a good source of these vitamins, it is usually more expensive than the synthetic sources. Also the fiber in alfalfa meal may tend to slow down gains.

Have you done any work on soaking corn for hogs?

In one U. of I. trial, pigs fed soaked shelled corn and supplement free choice gained no faster or cheaper than pigs fed dry shelled corn and supplement free choice.

Preliminary results of recent work that checked the value of soaking limited rations, look promising. However, more work needs to be done before any final conclusion can be drawn.

Does drying corn affect its feeding value?

In Illinois tests, corn harvested at 21 percent moisture was dried to 12 percent moisture at temperatures of 140 degrees F., 180 degrees F. and 220 degrees F. Drying temperature had no effect on feeding value of corn fed to either two-week-old or weaning pigs. The artificially dried corn was just as good for these pigs as field-dried corn.

The hog business management suggestions booklet and a companion leaflet entitled "Your 1965 Hog Business—Ration Suggestions," which gives recipe-type information on swine feeding, are available from your county farm adviser or from the University of Illinois Department of Animal Science in Urbana.

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

Pre-Cast, Insulated Wall Panel Approved

IS THE U.S. REALLY ON GOLD STANDARD?

Two of our recent reports concerned our monetary system, especially the relation of gold to money and prices. Some of our friends responded by sending this one: "Is the United States still really on the gold standard?"

This surely is a good question for debate! Let's kick it around a bit.

There are many variations of the gold standard. The purest form would be the use of only gold for money. There would be no paper currency or check accounts. Probably no country has ever used such a simple gold standard, but many countries formerly used silver in almost this same fashion.

The gold standard is a monetary system in which the monetary unit (1) is a fixed amount of gold or (2) is kept at the value of a fixed amount of gold.

Off And On

Our country has been on and off the gold standard several times during its history. For many years it maintained a two-metal standard, in which 15 or 16 ounces of silver were equal to one ounce of gold. Gold and silver payments were suspended during the Civil War. In 1873 Congress stopped the minting of silver dollars. This action had the effect of putting the U.S. on the gold standard exclusively. The silver interests and others who opposed it called it the "Crime of '73."

Most nations were forced to abandon the gold standard during World War I. Heavy demands for gold depleted their stocks. They stopped paying out gold, locked up their remaining stocks, and used only paper currency.

The United States went halfway. We prohibited the export of gold, but continued to pay out gold to our own banks and citizens.

Both farm and home builders may benefit from low-cost, pre-cast, continuously insulated concrete wall panels that have been developed by University of Illinois agricultural engineers.

E. L. Hansen, professor of agricultural engineering, said that two types of panels had been designed in U. of I. tests, incorporating the following features:

1. The size of the panels is limited only by the capacity of the equipment to lift and transport them.

2. They are suitable for homes, livestock buildings and other small buildings and are particularly adaptable for use where insulated walls are required.

3. They are small and simple to be fabricated and erected without expensive forms and equipment.

4. The panels can be cast right on the farm or in a plant.

Face Or Core

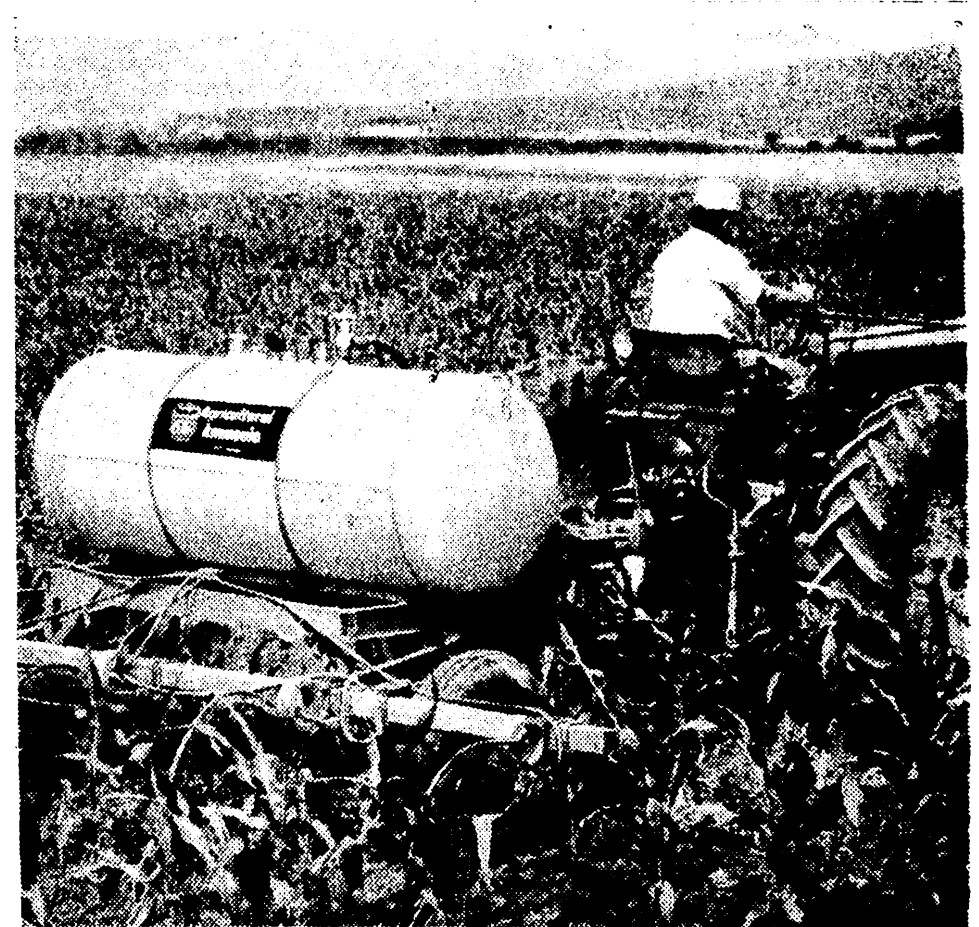

"One type has a concrete face on the exterior, with polystyrene exposed on the interior as insulation," he noted. "The other type has a polystyrene core between two faces of concrete."

Hansen explained that each panel is anchored to the foundation by two anchor bolts and is self-supported. This arrangement makes it possible to incorporate expanded polystyrene in concrete panels so that the polystyrene insulation will be continuous between panel sections. "This is done by letting the polystyrene extend 3/16 inch past the edges of the concrete panel. When the panels are erected, the polystyrene inches are butted, leaving a 3/16-inch-wide joint between the concrete edges of the panels," Hansen pointed out.

Hansen figures that the material will cost only $19.50 for a panel measuring 48 inches wide, 11 1/2 inches tall and 5 1/2 inches thick.

Information Available
He advises farmers and builders who want more information on such panels to write to the Agricultural Engineering Department, University of Illinois, for the booklet "Casting and Erecting Self-Anchored, Continuously Insulated Concrete Wall Panels." Architects or engineers interested in the design specifications of the panels should write for "Design of Self-Anchored, Continuously Insulated Concrete Wall Panels."

More plants per acre? Why not!

It's just plain good business in many corn growing areas to seed 16,000 to 18,000 plants per acre. And it's also smart management when Phillips 66 Ammonia is used to support heavier stalk population.

Thousands of farmers are using this 82% nitrogen fertilizer to hit peak yields... and higher net income per acre. The nitrogen also boosts the protein feeding value of corn, promotes earlier maturity and aids plants in utilizing more available moisture.

See us today! We will be glad to help you work out a complete fertilizer program for all your crops.

IT'S YOUR LAWN!

Ever wonder how many individual tufts of grass there are per square foot of thick turf? The number varies of course, but if you have a fine lawn of permanent grasses, it might well exceed 20,000 per square foot. In addition, there are over 10 trillion bacteria and 10 billion fungi per square foot as well as billions of other forms of life such as yeast and protozoa. Your lawn is a living thing!

Fortunately, most of the life in the soil is beneficial. Some of the bacteria and fungi are changing last year's clippings into organic matter for this year's grass. Other bacteria are fixing nitrogen from the atmosphere into a form plants can use. Whole sections of libraries are filled with research on soil and lawn grasses.

You can help yourself to the benefits of this knowledge by following these key steps. First, you have half a lawn or better, keep it. Rake the bare areas so that the soil is crumbly to the depth of two or three inches. Second, fertilize as directed. Don't skimp on fertilizer — on the other hand, don't overdose.

Third, seed with top quality permanent lawn grass. Bluegrass is by far the preferred grass, especially the newer improved strain called Merion Kentucky Bluegrass.

FBYP Meets Legislators

A delegation of 14 leaders of the Morgan County Farm Bureau Young People were in Springfield Wednesday conferring with members of the Illinois House and Senate.

They particularly enquired of Representative Harris Rowe how they could help him in the stalled reappointment bill and sought his support for HB944, which provides penalties against any purchaser of agricultural commodities who discriminates the producer because he is, or is not, a member of a cooperative.

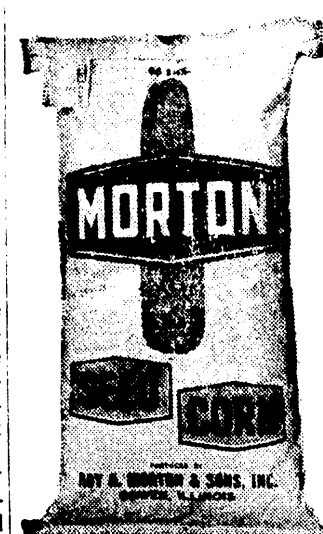

The delegation was accompanied by John Chambers, organization director, and before returning home had a conference with John Cox, I.A.A. secretary of Legislation, and Dean Sears, I.A.A. secretary of local government.

Rockets And Space— Face Of The Moon

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

PASADENA, CALIF. Photo taken by Ranger 8 from 270 miles above moon shows shore line of Sea of Tranquility. Sabine in NW corner, two parallel rills crossing center part (similar to Terrestrial graben). Several elongated craters probably due to Theophilus, 250 miles to the southeast.

MAN IN THE MOON
You have probably noticed that when the moon is full it appears to have a face. The markings that cause this face are the broad, flat dark plains that cover half the moon's surface.

Because these plains are darker than the craters and mountains on the moon many scientists think that they were created by seas of lava when the moon was young. This idea is backed up by the fact that there are many craters which appear to have been drowned by a flood of lava. Mt. Pico, on the north east side of the Mare Imprimus (the large round area in the upper right of the picture), is all that remains of one of these drowned craters.

As further proof many of the craters along the edges of the seas have dark floors. The most noticeable of these is the broad, flat crater Plato, just north of Mt. Pico.

Moonquakes
The moon's plains show that our big natural satellite has had its share of earthquakes—or rather, moonquakes. Astronomers have seen a number of faults (places where parts of the plane have dropped away from each other). As the sides of a fault slip apart, their movements cause the quakes.

Most of the faults take the form of long trough-like areas called rills. Ranger VIII took close-ups of two rills, the Sossigenes I Rill and the Ross I Rill (shown in the photo). These rills run half way around Mare Tranquillitatis looking much like super highways several feet below the level of the planes.

Straight Wall
One of the most unusual faults on this side of the moon is the Straight Wall on the west side of the Mare Nibium. Actually, it's not very straight and it's not a wall. It is really a cliff about 50 miles long. But when the low slanting rays of the setting sun cause this cliff to cast a long shadow across the plane, it does look very much like a straight wall.

The moon has many rugged mountains, most of which are as high as any on earth. The loftiest peaks on the moon are in the Leibnitz range near the South Pole. A large number of these mountains reach a height of 30,000 feet or more. The highest mountain on earth, Mt. Everest, is only 29,002 feet high.

Rounded Peaks
Although the mountains on the moon are more rugged than those on earth, they are not as steep. Many of them even have rounded tops. This may be because there is no water to seep into the rocks, freeze and split them off at sharp angles. If you remember that water expands

Let's Go Birding

Warning! Look Again

By Emma Mae Leonhard

"Goosey, goosey, gander Whither shall I wander?"
We imagine that the geese felt that way too. Where can I wander without getting in my neighbor's way? For several weeks we could not miss seeing the geese, mostly Canada Geese or Honkers; there were flocks of them, sometimes sunning themselves on ice promontories, sometimes sitting on the open water, and sometimes grazing in fields. Always the sentinels were with the flocks, their long black stocking-like necks held straight upright.

At other times wedges of geese or long sloping lines of them, headed by veterans, moved through the sky, large grayish bodies with long black necks outstretched in a slight downward curve silhouetted against the blue heavens. Whether they were in the sky or on the water or land, their well-known honking announced their presence many times before we were aware of it. And what person is so absorbed in these thoughts or emotions that he doesn't pause to pay his respect to the grandest of all water fowl—the Canada Goose?

Accustomed to seeing flocks of these geese for several weeks, we took for granted, the morning of March 27, that we were approaching another such flock on our bird hike at Lake Jacksonville. After stealing as quietly as possible toward the flock relaxing on the ice, we paused to admire these majestic birds and perhaps to outwit their wariness.

But the tables were turned. We were gazing at a flock of White-Fronted Geese, not our old friends the Canada Geese. These geese, rare in our area, stood quietly and patiently for us to admire. Unafraid, they faced us so that we were able to see the characteristic markings: the black or brownish gray bars on the belly. Because of these marks they are often called Speckle-belly or Check-erbelly. They could not have cooperated any more liberally with us. We counted what we thought were twenty or so.

After due time they pushed themselves off the ice, rose into the air, circled over the lake, and dropped down further away. We eagerly tried to count them and agreed that there were at least seventy. They did not honk like our Canada Geese; they cucked or tooted in a higher pitch. Peterson describes the call as "kah-lah-luck." Because of this they are sometimes called Laughing Geese.

Once again, we had learned the bird's lesson: look twice, or even more before identifying a bird. Otherwise we may cheat ourselves.

Three Good Friends

By John Rankin

Mark and his dog Duke like to visit Mr. Jake the retired attorney who lives alone in a small cottage. They are three good friends, and it is seldom that anyone else ever comes to the rustic place. Today, however, is different.

"Probably looking for stray cattle or maybe some traveler has got himself lost in the mountains," Mr. Jake said as he moved to the door to admit the unexpected guest. A beady-eyed and sinister-looking little man in his late fifties followed the sheriff into the cabin.

"Accuses Mark's Collie," "This is Jeff Twigs from over on Spring Valley," the lawman began. "He's looking for the dog that killed one of his calves last night." Then pointing an accusing finger at Duke the officer added, "He's pretty sure it's this big collie!"

"It is him," Twigs declared, "his beady little eyes piercing Duke with an accusing glare. I went out to check on the herd and this big dog was right in the corral with the calves."

"Did you drive him from the corral?" Mr. Jake pressed. "No, he was burying a bone when I saw him and I supposed he was some harmless stray and went back to bed. But early this morning I found that he'd slaughtered one of my best calves."

Mr. Jake's features glowed with new interest and his tone softened when he asked his next question.

Editor's note: The following story was written by a fifth grader in Mrs. Corey's Sight-Saving class at IBSSS. The class was studying the problem of the south, and each one wrote his own views. Other work by this class will appear on this page on future Sundays.

THREE NEGRO ORPHANS
Liza May Neme lived with her twin brothers, Timmy and Tommy. They were negro children who did not have a mother or father.

Tommy and Timmy earned about five dollars a week and that was used for food. They cleaned yards, emptied garbage, and washed cars. This helped some but not enough.

Liza, Timmy and Tommy wanted to go to school. Mostly when they went any place people hissed and laughed.

Liza Falls Down
One day, as Liza was going to the store for the weekly supply of food she tripped and some boys saw her and laughed. Liza was hurt, she was crying.

A girl named Susanah, came walking along. When the boys saw Susanah coming, the quickly ran away.

Liza was still crying, Susanah heard her and ran over to her. Liza told her that her arm and ankle hurt very much.

Susanah told her not to move because she might have broken her arm and twisted her ankle.

Puzzled Child
Susanah went to get a Doctor, but before she left Liza asked, "How come you cared?"

Susanah smiled, and then ran off to get a doctor. Soon Susanah came back. Liza noticed that no one came with her. She was on a horse now and was carrying a blue blanket and a box.

Liza asked, "Why this?" Susanah said, "Today is Thursday I could not find a

Bethlehem To Calvary

By Mary Pence Claywell

Lovely Lord Jesus, Who died on the Cross... to cleanse and save every soul that is lost... if, only in "Faith," we accept and believe... Thou art Able and Willing, our souls to receive.

At Christmas, we smile on The Sweet, Holy Child... Born of a Virgin, so gentle and mild... and kneel in remembrance, each Christmas night, besides a Small Manger... all Hail, loved with Light.

Yet often, Dear Jesus, The Babe's Trail is lost... somewhere between The Manger and Cross; and The Star that Shone down on The Child's Humble Manger... The Sweet Baby Face of The Dear Little Stranger... we find them; so fair, but we store them away, from the dust and the grime, until "next"... Christmas Day.

When we leave, Lord, The Manger, a chapter is lost... unless, step by step, we go on to The Cross, with Jesus, The Babe, the long years to span, and see Him press onward from Childhood to Man.

The Preacher, The Teacher, The Babe Christmas Morn, His Schooling in Heaven, before He was Born, when He left Heaven's Glory, our sins, to erase, Born of The Spirit... Housed in The Flesh; that we might BELIEVE and REPENT, of our SINS... by walking The Trail that He Blazed for us then.

But man has a habit, Dear Jesus, 'tis true... and Father, it must be displeasing to You... We look for the "sweet," the "bitter" pass by; 'tis the "weakness" of flesh, but O, we should try, to emulate Thee, or "all" may be lost, if we pause by THE MANGER and PASS BY THE CROSS.

We must feel the sharp sting of the "thorns" in Thy Crown, and see Thy BLOOD trickle and fall to the ground; Thy Hands and Feet wounded by cruel and hard men, as You hung there suspended, and died for our sins.

THE ASSASSINATION of President Lincoln at Ford's Theatre—After the Act. — HARPER'S WEEKLY.

DOMESTIC

On the 5th inst. messages were sent direct from New York to San Francisco, a distance of nearly 4,000 miles; the largest length of wire ever worked over a single circuit.

Mrs. Catherine Brannenberger, of Pittsburgh, has recovered $3,250 damages from Dr. George Cleis, in consequence of his negligence or lack of skill in treating her husband's broken bones.

The guns captured at Richmond — and left uninjured — are stated to be from 450 to 500, many of them of large calibre.

The Missouri State Convention has adjourned. The new constitution (abolishing slavery) was passed by a vote of 38 to 13. It is to be voted upon by the people on the 6th of June.

The suggestion that great economy would be effected if the petroleum could be substituted for coal on Board steamships, is likely to be brought into practice.

—Frank Leslie's Newspaper

Couldn't Believe The Rebs

From the Jacksonville Journal.

April 17, 1915:

Today, April 17, is the 50th anniversary of Captain J. M. Cleis, in consequence of his negligence or lack of skill in treating her husband's broken bones.

The guns captured at Richmond — and left uninjured — are stated to be from 450 to 500, many of them of large calibre.

The Missouri State Convention has adjourned. The new constitution (abolishing slavery) was passed by a vote of 38 to 13. It is to be voted upon by the people on the 6th of June.

The suggestion that great economy would be effected if the petroleum could be substituted for coal on Board steamships, is likely to be brought into practice.

HUMORS

The difference between the married and divorcee is exceedingly slight, consisting merely of the exchange of a couple of letters, the married being united, and the divorced untied.

OUTRAGEOUS — An old bachelor, being asked by a pert young miss if he could account for the application of the term "belle" to handsome young ladies, promptly replied that it was owing to the goodly proportion of brass in their composition.

CHROMATIC CONUNDRUM — What is the color of a scream? Yell-ho, of course.

A bird that always faces the storm. The weather-cock.

—Harper's Weekly

At Ford's Theatre That Night

A president of Illinois Woman's College, later MacMurray College, attended Ford's Theatre in Washington, D.C., the night Booth shot Lincoln, and in his later days Dr. William H. DeMotte wrote an account of the event as he remembered it and this account was printed in the Illinois Historical Journal in 1928.

DR. W. H. DeMOTTE

At the time DeMotte was 35 years old and had taught in schools for the deaf after graduating from DePauw University, Indiana. In 1864 Governor Morton of Indiana appointed him a military and sanitary commission agent and he spent most of his time in the central office in Washington.

"On the evening of Friday, Good Friday, April 14, 1865, after dinner a number of us were seated about the door of the office when the cry of the news-boy, 'Evening Star, President Lincoln and General Grant will attend Ford's Theatre tonight,' started the suggestion that we make use of the occasion to see these noted men. Finding that two of the men present, one from Indiana, had never seen either man I readily consented to go with them."

"The first act of the play was interrupted by the arrival of the President's party, without Grant, DeMotte wrote. After the orchestra played 'Hail to the Chief,' everybody returned to their seats and the play went on."

"then to the right a pistol shot was heard. I did not doubt most there for the moment thought it was in the play. In a moment a tall, dark man, neatly dressed in black, sprang lightly over the front of the box occupied by the President and his party, holding to the front with his hands, lowered himself to the stage floor, some twelve feet below. As he passed, his foot caught in the flags which draped the box and he alighted upon the floor below with one foot bent under him in such a position as to strain or break the ankle. He rose instantly and hissing in a coarse stage whisper, 'Sic semper tyrannis,' stalked deliberately and in a highly tragic manner diagonally across the stage, going out through the flies at the northeast corner. I remember no other words. I have seen it stated that the assassin added, 'The South is avenged.' I did not hear it."

"For an instant, it seems to me now like a much longer time than I am sure it must have been. There was a breathless silence. Some rose to their feet, others sat, all were startled. The screams of Mrs. Lincoln and perhaps words she spoke, I do not recall any, gave notice of the tragedy which had occurred. The man at my left said, 'The President is shot,' and the one on my right said, 'That was Wilkes Booth. I saw him play here a few nights ago.'"

— Cecil Tendick

Victory At Mobile

We belatedly turn to the notes kept by Thomas S. Chandler, 16 year old drummer boy from Chandlerville, Co. K, 33rd Illinois Infantry. The regiment was celebrating the fall of Mobile, the last major Confederate center, on April 12 after the Union forces had successfully taken the two forts protecting the city.

The attack on Spanish Fort began March 27:

March 27 — 4 miles from the Fort. Reveille at 4. Marched at 5 a.m. Run in the enemy pickets at 9 a.m. Our corps has run the enemy inside their fort and with the 13th formed on our left, forming a complete line around the works. One man from Co. H wounded by a sharpshooter.

March 28 — Camp in front of Spanish Fort, Ala. Firing resumed this morning. One man wounded from Co. C, one from Co. B. We have a great many guns playing on their works. Busy throwing up earthworks.

March 29 — Siege still going on, cannonading still going on both sides quite brisk. Our gun boats are doing their part throwing a shell into the City of Mobile. A shell exploded on the road killed some horses and one man from Co. H wounded. Weather clear.

March 30 — Spanish Fort still processing fine. Ball and shell are still finding their way into the city and wounding men and horses. One shell wounded five. Their sharpshooters do good shooting.

April 1 — Weather fine. I dressed a wound for a fellow. His name is Frank Watkins. Co. A 62d Ala. We have several pieces playing on them that is doing lot of good.

April 6 — Spanish Ft. — I did not get to go down to the Regt. to-day. I was busy at the Hospital. None of our Regt. wounded today.

April 9 — We took Spanish Fort at 11:30 last night. How many prisoners and cannon is not known.

April 10 — We were Ordered to march at 9 a.m. We camped in sight of Fort Blakely. The Rebs will soon be routed out of that place, you know.

April 11 — Fort Blakely, Ala. — Dan and myself went around by the works and saw plenty Torpedoes. We had to move camp on account of the shell from the Reb gun boats.

April 12 — Mobile Evacuated. A Salute of 100 guns to be fired from our gun boats for recent Victories.

April 14 — near Blakely. We marched at 9 a.m. Our Regt. marched in front to-day. Marched 9 Mls. On a nice stream by an old Mill.

Paris, with a population of 1,693,141, possesses over 5,500 acres of open ground, planted with more than 1,000,000 trees. A book on vagabonds, by M. Mario Proth, has been published in Paris. The first vagabond mentioned in the book is the Wandering Jew. Humboldt is included as a scientific vagabond.

"Enoch Arden" has been translated into German and French. The German translation is said to be good, but the French has not hit the spirit and pure idiom of the original. The poem has turned out to be the most lucrative, in point of pecuniary returns, of all Mr. Tennyson's beautiful productions.

A Canadian journal states on information that it has reason to believe is correct, that the number of Canadians who have enlisted in the United States army since the beginning of the war, is 45,000. Of this number 35,000 are French Canadians, no less than 14,000 of whom have died on the battlefield.

In the newly discovered territory of North-Western Australia the baobab-tree grows to an enormous size. The diameter of one in the Camden Harbor region is nearly fifty feet, and by the number of stones in some of the branches, was estimated to be 8,000 years old.

While the Prince of Wales was witnessing the Chertsey steeplechase, his Royal Highness had his pocket picked of a valuable gold watch presented to him by the Queen. The prince's solemn joke is that the thief will henceforth take the title of Pickpocket of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

— Frank Leslie's Newspaper

The regiment began a march to Montgomery, arriving at the outskirts of the city April 27. They found the area desolate and completely isolated from the world.

April 27, near Montgomery — We drew corn meal and Bull Beef. This is the kind of grub we will get until the boats come up.

April 28 — I and Dan have been getting a shade around our Dog Tent to-day. We have got her fixed up in style.

April 28 — The boats arrived to-day and such a hollering you never heard. We had Dress Parade to-day.

April 30 — Montgomery, Ala. — Today we heard that President Lincoln had been assassinated. There were minute guns from 12 to 1 p.m. and 30 minute guns from sunrise till sunset.

It is hard today to believe that Montgomery, the capital of Alabama, could have been so isolated that it didn't hear of the death of President Lincoln until two weeks afterwards.

But that was the way it was.

— Cecil Tendick

was sustained, excepting a delay of several hours. We learned that in the confusion that ensued a gentleman passenger was robbed, but we did not learn particulars.

FAST DRIVING — On Wednesday afternoon several College boys were out buggy riding, and returning to the city, two of them tried the mettle of their horses in a race around the square, resulting in a run-off with one of them, and the upsetting and breaking up of the buggy, much to the danger of several citizens, but fortunately resulting in no serious damage. For this veridancy and disregard of the city ordinance against fast driving, the young men were arrested and fined to the tune of fifteen dollars and costs.

If you thoroughly chill a cheese spread, you'll find you can usually roll it into balls off with one of them, and the Then the balls may be rolled up in minced nutmeats and served as an hors d'oeuvre.

George he was taken to the prison at Macon, Ga., and there he saw Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, who was tried by a military court and sentenced to be executed by hanging on the charge of murdering Union prisoners, the execution taking place in November following the close of the war at the old capitol jail in Washington, D.C.

April 17 was after the close of the war, though the poor fellows in the prison hell were not aware of it. A large lot of them were loaded like cattle on a freight train and were told that they were being taken to the Union lines. The captain said they had lied to him so many times he didn't believe them then so he said to a comrade who had been captured with him that he meant to leave the train at the first opportunity and do the best he could for liberty and begged the comrade to go along but the latter was too emaciated and depressed to undertake it, but a prisoner from Ohio, Charles Alden, said he would try it and they did succeed in jumping from the train and for once made a mistake in not accepting a rebel statement as truth, but could they be blamed?

Something seemed to say to them, "go westward," and they did and after four days in swamps and cold and nearly starved they came across the 7th Ohio cavalry belonging to Gen. Wilson's brigade, which had concluded a raid through the south and one of more importance, than that of Gen. Grierson. Every possible kindness was shown to the poor fellows and soon they began to pick up, but it was a close shave from death. Had they remained on the train they would have reached home several weeks sooner than they did.

By this time there was an increase of stir among the occupants of the theatre, but no loud talking. People began to go out. I do not remember any rush or crowd toward the box. I do not recall any authoritative statement or announcement. I think none was made. The fact soon spread among them that the President had been shot in the back of the head or neck, and the wound was serious. In a short time men came out of the box along the aisle toward the outer door carrying the apparently lifeless body of the President."

Wait In The Rain After the President had been taken across the street to the Peterson residence "a large crowd collected and soon Lenth street for F to E was packed. And though the rain fell continuously all night there was no diminution. People wandered away in the dark only to return in a few minutes to ask anxiously if there was any information. But no word came from that guarded chamber and we knew of the fatal result only when an undertaker arrived next morning about seven."

"The reactions to the terrors of the night were appalling. As business hours approached on Saturday morning the banks, stores and shops were not open or if a door stood half open here and there one saw few customers and few salesmen. I remember going to one of the larger stores to get something black to drape our door and passing down the long room to quite the rear to find some one to wait on me and then it was difficult to make him understand just what I wanted. But soon every fabric that could be used to designate sorrow and mourning, from finest crepe down to black muslin was sought for. Foolish prices were paid. But the demand was for days far beyond the supply. As I passed about Washington there was some token of sorrow everywhere, on government buildings, on many of the better residences, and on tents and shacks. The expression everywhere was as if each had suffered a great personal loss, the fered a great personal loss, the appearance as if a father, a guardian, a protector lay dead in every house."

Dr. DeMotte served as president of IWC from 1868 to 1875 and he died in 1910 in Indianapolis at the age of 79. He is buried in Diamond Grove cemetery.

—Cecil Tendick

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

A NATION IN MOURNING — On last Saturday morning the terrible news was transmitted here by telegraph that the President of the United States had been basely assassinated, and that an attempt had also been made to assassinate Mr. Seward, the Secretary of State.

No event in the varied history of our country has ever so shocked the public mind, or cast a deeper gloom upon every heart. Occurring just at a time when the skies were brightening, when the prospect of permanent peace and a re-united country gladdened every heart, the blow has impressed every mind with horror and gloomy forebodings. The dastardly act has overwhelmed the nation in grief and mourning.

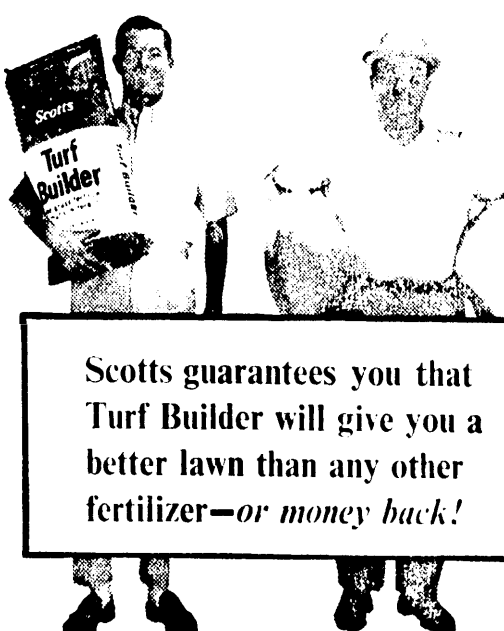

We have widely differed with the late President in many of his policies, but his more recent acts revivied our confidence in his ability to guide the country safely through the trials which for four years have threatened the existence of the government. His removal therefore is a great national calamity. No one, under existing circumstances, could so well have guided our national storm-tossed bark into the haven of safety.

Mr. Johnson is now the President of the United States, and around him the hopes of the nation will cluster. God grant that he may be enabled, wisely and in the spirit of true patriotism, to properly respond to the heavy responsibilities resting upon him. It will be the duty of all parties, in this sad crisis, to rally around the new President in all his acts tending to promote the welfare of the country.

From the Jacksonville Journal: SERVICES — The Rev. Dr. Glover will hold services at Strawn's Hall on Sabbath next, according to previous announcements, suitable to the sad occasion of the death of the President.

ACCIDENT ON THE RAILROAD AND ROBBERY — The 11:15 train from Springfield was thrown from the track, near Alexander Station on Tuesday evening, last, several cars getting off, but no serious damage

Veterans' Mobility A Problem For VA

The main barrier to the smooth delivery of veterans pension, compensation and insurance checks is the tendency of the American veteran to change his place of residence, VA pension, compensation or William J. Driver, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said today.

More than half (53.9 per cent) of all the veterans in the United States were living in a different house in 1964 than in 1955, according to studies of the Bureau of the Census.

In addition, one veteran in every ten was living in a different state.

This shift in location would pose no problem if the veterans would notify promptly the VA or their former postmasters of their new address. They don't, however, and, as a result, many VA pension, compensation or insurance checks are undeliverable and are returned to the Treasury disbursing office.

If the following month's check is also returned, no further monthly mailing may be made. Thus the veteran has unintentionally cut off his own VA payment, until he later makes his whereabouts known.

During January 1965, the records at the VA Data Processing Center, Hines, Illinois, show

MISS THORPE IS HOSTESS FOR GREENFIELD CLUB

GREENFIELD — Miss Effie Thorpe entertained members of the Fleur de Lis club April 13 assisted by her sister Mrs. J. B. Thornton.

Members attending were Mrs. Louis Tendick, Mrs. Howard Parks, Mrs. Charles Burroughs, and Mrs. Cleta Harr. Guests were Mrs. Dean Foster and Mrs. S. W. Thornton.

The group was entertained with readings by Mrs. Foster. Plans were made for the May 18 meeting to be held in Jerseyville with Mrs. Walter J. Tendick, hostess.

Greenfield Notes

Editor and Mrs. James McKenzie attended the Advance Night party held at Agnes Wickfield Chapter of Order of Eastern Star at Chesterfield Friday night. Mr. Cole served as Associate Patron and Mrs. McKenzie was Guest in the east.

Mrs. Esther Lorton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lorton and children of Greenfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Piper and Susan, Palmyra, Mr. and Mrs.

Mavin Hull and children, Modesto, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lucy Lorton, daughter, Miss Martha Lorton in Jacksonville. All attended the First Baptist Church where a cantata "No Greater Love" was presented by the church choir, of which Miss Lorton is an active member. A family dinner was held at Blackhawk. Mrs. Lorton is recovering from a fractured arm received in a fall several weeks ago and will soon return to her home in Greenfield.

Mrs. Ethel Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Spencer, Mrs. Donald Moore and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Spencer spent the weekend in Normal and attended a dinner at the Cimerac Smorgasbord in Bloomington honoring Steven Kirstein. Mrs. Ethel Spencer and Mrs. Donald Moore on their birthday. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Marion Voyles, Kemper, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Smock, Champaign, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kirstein and Kenneth of Normal. Mrs. Spencer remained for a visit with the Kirstein family.

GREENFIELD CLUBS MEET JOINTLY FOR POTLUCK

GREENFIELD — The Greenfield Woman's club joined the Junior Woman's club at its Thursday potluck supper meeting held at the Baptist Church Annex.

It was Crazy Hat Night. Many members had created hats from miscellaneous materials such as laundry baskets, plastic containers, flower pots, newspaper, straw, etc., with trimmings of artificial chickens, birds, rabbits, sewing equipment or toys.

Winners were Mrs. Kenneth Winters and Mrs. J. M. Hedgecock. Mrs. Hedgecock's hat was designed by Mrs. Charles Metcalf. Mrs. Charles Burroughs, Veteran's Service Chairman, presented Percy Gash of St. Louis, Mo., who sang before explaining recent laws which concern veterans and how they are interpreted. Mrs. Clover Hackley, Greene County Red Cross chairman and Miss Myrtle Fisher, County Blood chairman, were guests. The latter spoke about the many uses of blood donated. The Blood Mobile will be in Greenfield on April 30.

The 64th annual meeting of the 20th District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs was held Monday at the first Baptist Church, Winchester. Attending from Greenfield were: Mrs. Richard Cole, Mrs. Byron Hill, Mrs. W. D. Spencer, Mrs. Leo Price, Mrs. Kenneth Bowman, Mrs. Clarence Cunningham, Mrs. Fay Melvin and Mrs. Wilhelmina Hebler.

At the business meeting of the Junior Woman's club following the potluck supper with the Senior club, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Wallace Davenport, president; Mrs. Kenneth Winters, treasurer; Mrs. Russell Finney Jr., ways and means chairman; Mrs. Richard Goodman, press and publicity; and Mrs. Ed Kahl, public welfare.

Officers will be installed at the Spring Banquet May 13 at the Blackhawk in Jacksonville. The tour of Boys Town has been set for Saturday, April 24. Those wishing to go should contact Mrs. Bruce Haven.

Fresh and beautiful as a spring morning are these designs from Mr. John's Toulouse-Lautrec collection. Snowy lily of the valley scatters over a base of polished green silk leaves (left). Sleek cloche of Can-Can pink silk shantung (center) has high, rounded crown and parquet-stitched brim ending in knotted profile tabs. Classic Breton (right) is in gold and red silk with tufts of absinthe green regimental ribbons.

FOR CITY TREASURER

VOTE FOR

ROSE COSGRIFF

My late husband, Thomas Cosgriff, and I owned and operated the Cosgriff Cafe on West State Street for many years. He was manager of the Jacksonville Country Club for a number of years, and later we operated the Cosgriff Wholesale Company. My experience as cashier and treasurer of these businesses and having charge of the records, plus my training at Brown's Business College, qualify me to fill the office of City Treasurer. I have always enjoyed meeting the public, and believe this is an important part of the City Treasurer's job.

I am a charter member of the Pilot Club and was active in getting the Morgan County Blood Bank started. I have always been interested in and supported projects aimed at the betterment of Jacksonville. I am the mother of two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Bast and Mrs. Donald Blesse.

Your vote on April 20 will be greatly appreciated.

Where's Wilma, your good customer?
She's beat from the heat. Yes, she likes your store. But wishes it were air conditioned. Since it's not, she's heading for your competitor's place.
It's comfortable there. She'll enjoy it. Probably spend a bundle. Too bad. She'll be back next fall. Maybe.

This is the year to air condition your business

MR. BUSINESSMAN, this really is the year for air condi-

The takeout double should show good support for the high-est unbid suit and it is silly indeed to make a weak takeout double of a spade opening with-out four hearts or of any other suit opening without four spades, but you can't have ev-erything. Sometimes your hand is so powerful that you have to double on high cards alone and hope for the best.

North has one of those hands. He holds half the high cards in the deck including two aces and three kings. He can't bid no-trump without a diamond stopper, his hand is too good for a four card suit overall and a pass is unthinkable. He must double.

South looks at his collection of leftovers and responds one spade. North's two diamond call would be dangerous in many places. Once upon a time people used to double and then bid their opponent's suit to show that they held it. Today the bid shows a strong double and begs partner to show another suit if he possibly can.

South's two heart bid also represented the bottom of the barrel but North persisted to three hearts. He wanted to go all the way to game, but he knew that he had forced both bids from his partner.

It was well that North re-strained himself. There was no play at all for four hearts but South had very little trouble making three.

He ruffed the third diamond and led a spade toward dum-dummy's fourth club before conceding a trick to East's jack of hearts.

"He was lying on the bed with the bottle on the floor beside him and an empty glass in one hand. He frightened me, he was so deathly pale, and shivering with a chill. I put a blanket over him and asked him what I could do. He said it was just a bad case of nerves. He'd had these spells before, but he thought he'd be all right after he'd rested a while. "Then he began talking a sheet into strips and tie me again. He was leaving Myra. He'd scraped up every last cent he could get his hands on. He was heading for St. Louis. He'd been angling hard for a new business connection, all over the map, and he'd finally found a good possibility there. He had to try for it—it was the best opening he'd dug up in many months—but he honestly didn't think he'd make it."

"He was right," David said flatly.

Diane asked her father almost piteously. "Do I have to tell every little part of it?"

"You must certainly do."

She lifted her chin. "There is no need. It should be obvious—but all right. Howie began asking me, begging me, to come with him. He got off that bed and made me face him and pleaded as if his life depended on it. He poured flattery on me—how desperately he needed me and the sympathy I gave him—and got himself terribly worked up. Then—while he was absolutely raving at me—he had some sort of attack. Not his heart—it was probably a combination of too much liquor and overwrought nerves and this hysterical outburst

He went rushing into the bathroom and I heard him being sick. I ran out of that booth and back to the phone booth and called Cyn."

"We know how the next bit went. Dad," Clay said sparingly, "Howie came and hit him on the shoulders and arms, but on his head—"

"Then he acted as if he'd really gone off the deep end. He actually threatened to tear his hands and feet and gag me."

"He'd lock me up in the trunk and keep on going until he got me so far away I couldn't get back, or wouldn't want to. He gripped my arms and shook me and it hurt. I suppose that's where I found the strength to tear loose from him—sheer terror. I ran out of the room again and grabbed one of his golf clubs and—"

Diane drew a deep breath. "I hit him with it. He staggered away, covering his head with his arms, and I kept on hitting him, driving him back into the room. He stumbled and fell—fell on his back and didn't knock him out entirely but he couldn't get up either. I held him down while he squirmed and I got the keys out of his pocket, then I ran out for dear life."

Clay was reminded that this was almost exactly Barcello's reconstruction, except that he had put Cynthia in Diane's place.

Diane looked tearfully at Cynthia. "I wasn't sure my message had really gotten through to you. I didn't know whether or not you were really coming for me. So I just went."

It was possible, Clay thought, that Diane on her way home had actually passed David and Cynthia on their way to the motel. But she hadn't known her father's Jaguar was in the repair shop and his rented car, even if she had noticed it, would have meant nothing to her.

"The newspaper said—"

Diane drew in another shuddering breath. "Howie died of blows on the head. But I hit him on the shoulders and arms, but on his head—"

"Diane," David said tensely. "The newspapers are right. Howie Gould was killed by three powerful blows on the top of his head. I'm positive of it from my own knowledge. I found him. His skull beaten in."

John stared at her father, pale and still. "Dad, I did not do that."

He said slowly and carefully. "Diane, I believe you've told us the truth up to this point, but you're not telling the truth now."

"Dad"—she said slowly and distinctly—"I've told you the whole truth."

"Listen to me. When you talked with Cyn on the phone that same night, you were not sure."

"It came as such a shock, another shock on top of the others. I didn't know then just how—"

"Yes."

"Diane, if you didn't do it, who did? Who could have?"

"I don't know."

"Diane"—her father began. Suddenly she crumpled.

"Oh, please! Please, no more tonight. I've had it!"

David grunted. He passed one hand flat against his painful chest. "Haven't we had this before?"

XXX
"He was lying on the bed with the bottle on the floor beside him and an empty glass in one hand. He frightened me, he was so deathly pale, and shivering with a chill. I put a blanket over him and asked him what I could do. He said it was just a bad case of nerves. He'd had these spells before, but he thought he'd be all right after he'd rested a while."
"Then he began talking again. He was leaving Myra. He'd scraped up every last cent he could get his hands on. He was heading for St. Louis. He'd been angling hard for a new business connection, all over the map, and he'd finally found a good possibility there. He had to try for it—it was the best opening he'd dug up in many months—but he honestly didn't think he'd make it."

"He was right," David said flatly.
Diane asked her father almost piteously, "Do I have to tell every little part of it?"
"You must certainly do!" She lifted her chin. "There is no need. It should be obvious—but all right. Howie began asking me, begging me, to come with him. He got off that bed and made me face him and pleaded as if his life depended on it. He poured flattery on me—how desperately he needed me and the sympathy I gave him—and got himself terribly worked up. Then—while he was absolutely raving at me—he had some sort of attack. Not his heart—it was probably a combination of too much liquor and overwrought nerves and this hysterical outburst."

He went rushing into the bathroom and I heard him being sick. I ran out of that room and back to the phone booth and called Cyn."

"We know how the next bit went, Di," Clay said, sparing her a little. "Howie came after you and dragged you out of the booth and back into the room."

"Then he acted as if he'd really gone off the deep end. He actually threatened to tear a sheet into strips and tie my hands and feet and gag me. He'd lock me up in the trunk and keep on going until he got me so far away I couldn't get back, or wouldn't want to. He gripped my arms and shook me and it hurt. I suppose that's where I found the strength to tear loose from him—sheer terror. I ran out of the room again and grabbed one of his golf clubs and—"

Diane drew a deep breath. "I hit him with it. He staggered away, covering his head with his arms, and I kept on hitting him, driving him back into the room. He stumbled and fell—fell on his back and hit his head on the floor. It didn't knock him out entirely, but he couldn't get up either. I held him down while he squirmed and I got the keys out of his pocket, then I ran out for dear life."

Clay was reminded that this was almost exactly Bartello's reconstruction, except that he had put Cynthia in Diane's place.
Diane looked tearfully at him. "I wasn't sure my message had really gotten through to you. I didn't know whether or not you were really coming for me. So I just went."

It was possible, Clay thought, that Diane on her way home had actually passed David and Cynthia on their way to the motel. But she hadn't known her father's Jaguar was in the repair shop and his rented car, even if she had noticed it, would have meant nothing to her.

"The newspaper said—" Diane drew in another shuddering breath. "Howie died from blows on the head. But I hit him on the shoulders and arms, but on his head—not once."

"Diane," David said tensely. "The newspapers are right. Howie Gould was killed by three powerful blows on the top of his head. I'm positive of it from my own knowledge. I found him. His skull beaten in."

Diane stared at her father, pale and still. "Dad, I did not do that."

He said slowly and carefully. "Diane, I believe you've told us the truth up to this point, but you're not telling the truth now."

"Dad"—she said slowly and distinctly—"I've told you the whole truth."

"Listen to me. When you talked with Cyn on the phone, that same night, you were not sure."

"It came as such a shock, another shock on top of the others. I didn't know then just how—"

"Now, you're certain."

"Yes!"

"Diane, if you didn't do it, who did? Who could have?"

"I don't know!"

"Diane"—her father began.

Suddenly she crumpled. "Oh, please! Please, no more tonight. I've had it!"

David grunted. He passed one hand flat against his painful chest. "Haven't we said."

ELKS LODGE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Public installation of the newly elected officers of Jacksonville Elks Lodge No. 682 took place last Sunday. Connie Hanley was installed as the exalted ruler for the coming year by Ernie Stipp, acting as the Grand Exalted Ruler. Past exalted rulers from Macomb, Galesburg, Monmouth, Springfield and Jacksonville participated in the ceremonies.

Ladies in attendance were presented with orchids to wear and a buffet was served immediately after the ceremonies. George Foster, retiring past exalted ruler, conducted the opening of the meeting in which he expressed thanks and appreciation to the lodge members for serving the past year.

Connie Hanley, in a prepared speech, introduced all officers following the installation and pledged his support to further the lodge's work during the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Krupps

MT. STERLING — Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Krupps are making their home at 323 Edmond street in East Peoria. They were married at St. Mary's Catholic church here on March 27th.

Mrs. Krupps is the former Lenora Lee Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark of Meredosia and Mr. Krupps is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Krupps of Mt. Sterling route two.

Father Rathgeb performed the double ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

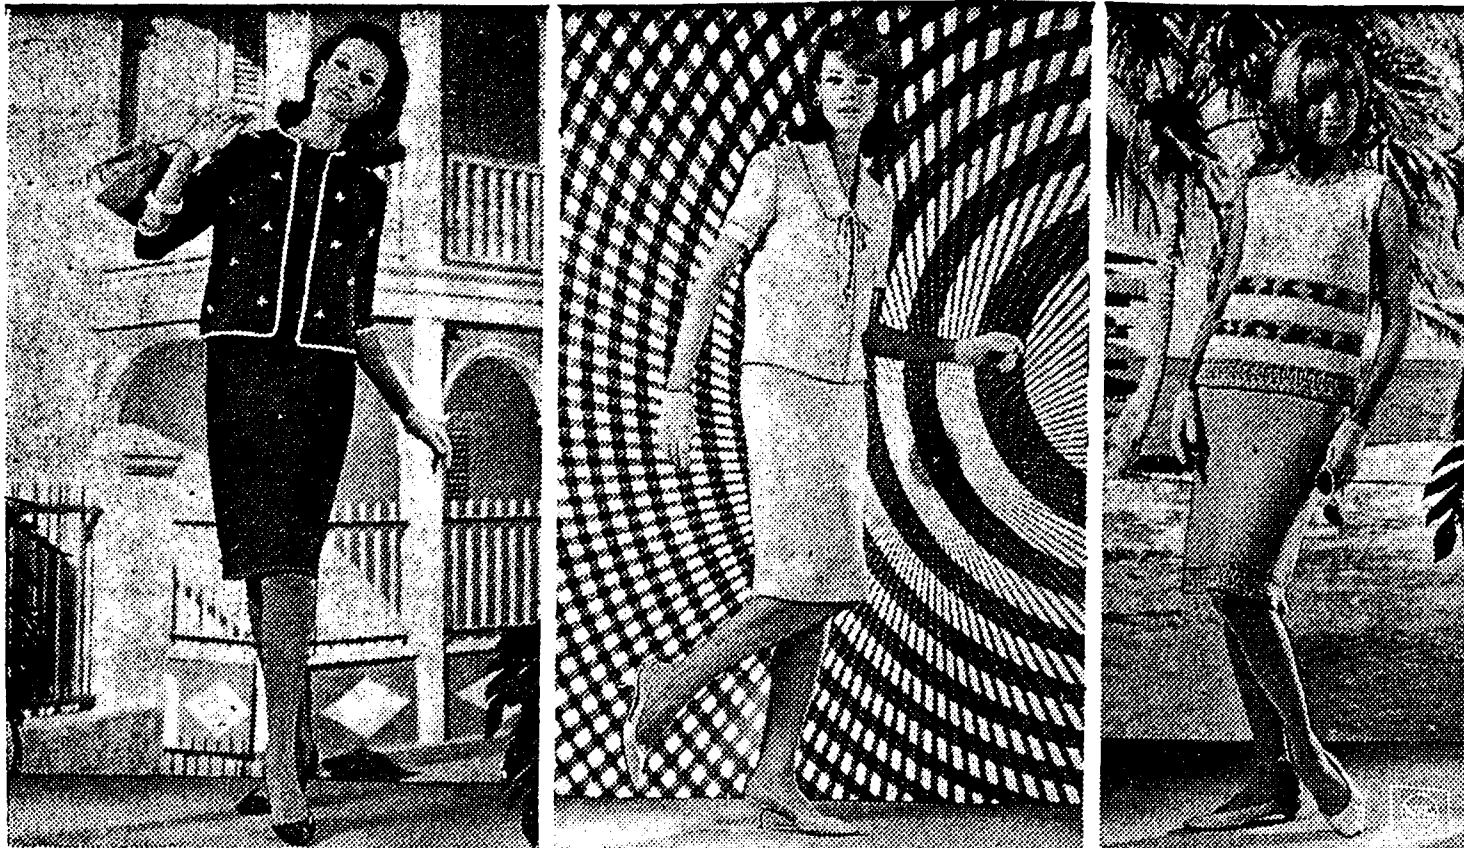

Miss Linda Krupps, sister of the groom, and Dave Krupps, cousin of the groom, attended the couple. Frank Clark, brother of the bride and Donald Krupps, another cousin of the groom, seated guests.

The bride wore a conventional length white lace shift dress. Her white headdress had a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of blue pompons centered with a white orchid.

Miss Krupps wore a pastel blue knit suit with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations and pompons.

The bride's mother wore navy blue silk with pink accessories and the groom's mother was in navy blue lace with black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

The bride attended Meredosia-Chambersburg High School and Western Illinois University at Macomb. The groom graduated from St. Mary's Academy in Mt. Sterling and is employed at Caterpillar Tractor Company, Peoria.

There's nothing more attractive or useful than a knit ensemble. Navy and white, three-piece tailored suit (left) wins its way into many fashionable wardrobes for girls on the go. The rounded-neck sweater worn with straight skirt is topped by a cardigan jacket piped all around. The dainty, white flower trim gives and added fillip of freshness. Classic in feeling, fit and looks, the pastel knit suit (center) can go almost anywhere at any time. It won't sag or bag and the pleasure of packing it makes it a world traveler. Two-piece outfit (right) has just the right amount of feminine trim. The skirt in pale blue or pink is topped by a white pullover. Skirt and top have open-work crocheted hem. Flowers on over-blossom stand out as though handmade. These designs are from Bond's.

Musical Program Given At Bluffs Women's Meeting

BLUFFS — The Bluffs Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon in Fellowship Hall with 24 members and two guests, Mrs. George Krusa and Miss Marie Pahlmann, attending.

Mrs. William Chambers opened the meeting, the pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. Clarence Nortrup and the prayer by Mrs. I. D. Mueller.

Program chairman Mrs. Harvey Vortman presented Gretchen Vannier and Jane Ann Merriman, who played a clarinet duet accompanied by Brenda Likes. This special music was secured by Mrs. Paul Vannier and Mrs. Paul Welch.

Mrs. George Krusa was introduced and gave an interesting talk on "Gardening". She spoke of the various new varieties of fruits, vegetables and shrubs, especially those fruits and vegetables that freeze well.

She also spoke of the new rose varieties and told of their ratings along with the ratings of the older ones. Several attractive floral arrangements, using the flowers of the season, were displayed.

Hear Reports During the business with Mrs.

To Serve Banquet The club voted to serve the Civic Club Athletic banquet on April 26 in the school lunch room. The committee includes Mrs. Margaret Watson, Mrs. Clarence Nortrup and Mrs. James Baird.

Mrs. Wendell Brackett gave a report of the district convention with Mrs. Oliver Chambers, Mrs. I. D. Mueller, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Floyd Hart, Mrs. Edward Albers and Mrs. Harvey Vortman also making brief reports. The Scott County Federation meeting is planned May 15 at Sibert Hall, Winchester.

MEREDOSIA GIRLS RECEIVE AWARD AT SCIENCE FAIR

MEREDOSIA — Mary Jane McCartney's and Beverly Black's project, "Effect of Alcohol and Glue," won them first place honors at the Southwestern District Junior Academy of Science exposition held at Illinois College April 10. The girls are now eligible to enter the state competition May 7 at Champaign.

A second place award went to Joe Caldwell, Roger Hester and Charles Koch for their "Anatomy of a Cow," to Bruce Dawson's "Wild Life Habitat," and David Dawson's "Steadiness Test."

Boes, Mrs. Floyd Hierman; sunshine friend, Mrs. Edward Albers, Mrs. Clyde Arnold and Mrs. Paul Welch; press book, Mrs. Oliver Chambers and membership committee, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Kenneth Potter and Mrs. Paul Vannier.

During the social hour a plant exchange was enjoyed.

The hostesses, Mrs. Ruth Main, Mrs. Margaret Edlen and Mrs. Paul Welch served refreshments in keeping with the season with Mrs. Welch and Mrs. James Baird pouring. Mrs. Everett Neese, a hostess, was unable to attend.

Name Committees The president-elect, Mrs. I. D. Mueller, named some of the committees for the coming year to be: program, Mrs. Guss Andres, Mrs. Margaret Hatfield, Mrs. James Baird, Mrs. Clarence Nortrup, Mrs. Herbert

Prin Collects 24 Hits In Twin Win Over I.C. 9-1, 11-7

ELSAH, Ill.—Principia pounded out 24 hits, including seven home runs and four doubles, here Friday afternoon, breezing to a 9-1 and 11-7 doubleheader sweep over the Illinois College Blueboys.

In the first game, a Prairie College conference tilt, the Indians jumped on a trio of IC hurriers for 16 hits, four home runs and two doubles among them. The hosts collected only eight safeties in the second contest, but three were for homers and two more were two-base blows. IC again used three pitchers.

Bright spots for the Blueboys, who are now 0-5 for the year, were the hitting of shortstop Bob Jenkins, who went five-for-seven including three RBIs, and the relief hurling of Wayne

Sildorff, who hurled two innings of scoreless relief in each game.

IC's run in the first game came in the opening frame when Jim Downers singled, reached second on a fielder's choice and scored on Jenkins' double.

The Blueboys collected only five hits off Max Foster in the nine-inning opener, with Jenkins and Downer getting two each.

In the second game they pounded out eight safeties, with Jenkins collecting three and Bob Rittenhouse two.

Principia got all the runs they needed in the opener in the three-run first, and sewed up the second contest with a big ten-run second frame in which they more than battled around.

IC's best inning of the day came in the sixth of the nightcap when singles by Dan Runkle, Rittenhouse and Jenkins, a walk, an error and a hit batter produced four tallies.

Errors Hurt Clan Cause In 4-2 Loss

SEWANE, Tenn. — Three costly errors in the eighth inning cost the contest with a two-

The loss leaves Mac with a 2-7 mark on the year. They expect to arrive back in Jacksonville Sunday and travel to Lincoln Monday for a twinbill.

MacMurray, concluding their six-game tour of the south, had rallied to tie the contest in the top of the 8th on an RBI single by Fred Lewis, but had their fielding fall apart in the home-half of the frame.

Gay, who hurled a 1-0 shut-out over Arkansas AMN for the Clan's only win on their trip, went the distance again, limiting the hosts to only four singles, striking out ten and walking three. Five MacMurray boots wiped out the performance.

After the University of the South jumped to a 2-0 lead in the fifth, Mac chipped away at the lead with one in the sixth and tied it in the 8th, both times on run-scoring singles by Lewis.

Charlie Capell scored both tallies.

With the three errors loading the bases in the bottom of the 8th, the winners' Ron Kirk de-

Spahn: Stengel Is Most Amazin' Met Of Them All

NEW YORK (AP) — They call them the Amazin' Mets. But everybody knows the only thing really amazin' about them is their manager.

Warren Spahn hasn't been around the club very long but there's no doubt in his mind who is the most amazin' Met of them all.

"I knew Casey Stengel years ago," said the pitcher-coach. "More than 20, in fact. I was just a green kid then trying to make good. Casey was my first big league manager, you know. But I was too young to understand him then."

"Now, that I've become re-associated with him, I can understand why he's become an image. Why he's so beloved. Why he's the greatest ambassador the game has ever known."

"That man is a marvel. He's unbelievable. I don't care how old he is. He's got all those young fellows beat a mile."

"I've never seen a more understanding person. Or a more dedicated baseball man. Sure, he's a comedian. Sure he double talks. But he's plenty deep. And nobody knows more about this game. If you listen to him carefully, and concentrate on what he's telling you, you can learn plenty. A fellow can get an education just being around him."

This comes from one who has won 356 games in 19 years and experienced 13 seasons winning 20 or more. Casey is not the only one who is amazin'.

At 44, Spahn is the oldest major league pitcher practicing his trade. He's also taken on the additional chores of pitching coach.

"Casey's been good to me, in that respect, too," said the indestructible left-hander. "He lets me run the pitchers and he's never second guessed me. He doesn't tell you 'you have to do this,' or 'do it that way. He leaves you on your own initiative. If you can't do it, then he takes over."

"Some of his know-how has rubbed off on our kids. We have 18 and 19-year olds on our club who know more about the inside of baseball than guys five or six years older on other clubs."

Tell Pairings For Elks Club Ping-Pong Event

Pairings for the 'Blind Bogey' ping-pong tournament for Elks Club members beginning Sunday at the local club have been announced by co-chairmen Dr. Ray Templin and Al Hall.

Enthusiasm has been running high among club members concerning the upcoming tournament.

The 16-team doubles tournament will begin at 3:00 p.m. Sunday and continue Monday at 7:40 p.m. The finals get underway Tuesday at 8:00 p.m.

The players were matched in doubles by drawing names at random from a hat, giving all teams equal opportunity.

Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places. All participants are encouraged to check the time for which they are scheduled to play and contact Dr. Templin if questions arise concerning the schedule.

Pairings: 1. Herr-Gibbs; 2. Lockman-Lukeman; 3. Agans-Beedles; 4. Dowling-Lewis; 5. Roach-Smith; 6. Jacques-Wither; 7. Brandt-Reed; 8. Hudson-Jones; 9. Templin-Reeve; 10. Banner-Ferguson; 11. Bye; 12. Hanley-Hill; 13. Bonjean-Sumpter; 14. Surratt-Jackson; 15. Racilla-Rowe; 16. Shouse-Ware.

TEAM COMITS 18 BOOTS IN 1 FRAME

CLACKAMAS, Ore. (AP) — How can you score 18 runs in one inning on only three hits?

It's easy, if the opposition makes 18 errors.

That's what happened Thursday when Hillsboro defeated Clackamas 11-0 in a high school baseball game.

Leading 1-0, Hillsboro scored 18 runs in the sixth inning on three hits, a balk, two wild pitches — and 18 Clackamas errors.

An explanation: the inning was played in rain and a strong wind. The game had been delayed briefly before the wild inning.

Said Clackamas Coach Dwayne Helbig: "I was hoping it would be called off. I had a feeling something was going to happen."

Celtics Go After 7th Title In Row

BOSTON (AP) — It's out of the broiler and into the deep fat for the Boston Celtics, who go after their seventh straight National Basketball Association title Sunday against the Los Angeles Lakers.

One thing's for sure: the temperature can't be any hotter than it was in the Eastern Division championship clash with the Philadelphia 76ers, a battle that ended Thursday night with a nerve-fraying 110-109 Celtics triumph.

The Lakers, with Jerry West wearing out scorekeepers on his basket bombardment, won the Western division title by taking four of six games from the Baltimore Bullets.

The meeting with West, who averaged 46.3 points per game in the Baltimore playoffs, and his playmates from the Pacific shores could be a letdown after the shuddering series with the 76ers.

The Celtics' victory Thursday night actually came in the last five seconds and here was the situation:

Score With :05 Left
The 76ers scored with five seconds remaining to pull within one point at 110-109. The superb Bill Russell was to toss the ball inbounds. But, as he tried to loop the ball in, it struck a wire supporting the backboard and the ball automatically went back to the 76ers. Philly called time out to devise a play for that one last shot but John Havlicek swiped Hal Greer's inbounds pass, flicked the ball to Sam Jones who dribbled away the vanishing seconds.

There's no Wilt Chamberlain in the Celtics' line-up.

That's the major question that should get its first answer Saturday when the American Broadcasting Co. lifts the curtain on its televising of major league baseball with three innovations — isolated cameras, stop-action shots and an umpire wired for sound.

It's guaranteed to add color for the viewer — and the umpire, who could get that blue feeling if he muffs a call caught by the television cameras.

Both the isolated cameras and stop-action techniques have been a popular feature on pro football telecasts. The technicians were employed for baseball during an exhibition game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers with these results:

Ken Boyer of the Cardinals lashed a hit to the outfield, pulled into second base and then suddenly headed for third, sliding in safely. What happened in the outfield that enabled Boyer to go to third?

An isolated camera trained on Tommy Davis showed that the Dodger outfielder had fallen down.

Points Out Faults
Later in the game, commentator Jackie Robinson noted that Dodger first baseman Wally Parker was swinging way out in front of the ball. Within seconds, the television cameras replayed Parker's swing in slow-motion, stop-action shots that proved Robinson right.

At various times during the season, the cameras may show an umpire wrong.

But the most dangerous innovation could turn out to be the use of a throat microphone by the plate umpire, enabling viewers to hear the crack of the bat, ball and strike calls — and arguments.

To insure against any blue language reaching the viewer in that situation, ABC will have a crew member assigned to the sound which will be given a three-second delay. That will allow him to censor any bad language before it is transmitted to the network.

Three games will be televised for different sections of the country each Saturday plus Memorial Day and the Fourth of July.

WILDCATS DOWN LEWIS
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — A single with two out in the ninth by Gary Rusk Friday drove in the decisive run in a 3-2 Northwestern win over Lewis College.

The hit scored Chuck Falk who opened the inning with a walk, was sacrificed to second and took third on a deep outfield fly. The win was the fifth in seven exhibition games for the Wildcats.

Lewis 000 100 100-2 6 2 Northwestern 002 000 001-3 6 4

Of the American League third basemen who played more than 100 games last season, Yankee Cleve Boyer and Max Alvis of Cleveland made the fewest errors. They made 13 each.

Grayson reports:

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (NEA) — "at least on my — Sandy Koufax, generally accepted."

Sandy feels that if it weren't for the injuries, he might have won 20 games a season, the magic mark for pitchers, the last four years. And he fell short by one last summer, with the elbow, though he had 19 in mid-August. He had 14 in mid-season of '62 when he pinked his finger with the foul tip. And in 1961, with two starts remaining, he had 18 victories, led the Phillies 1-0 going into the ninth inning and was beaten by two unearned runs (he skipped the last start then).

Most amazing statistic about the Dodgers is that though they're supposed to be loaded with great pitching, their big three of Koufax, Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres have a combined experience of 30 1/2 years in the majors. And only two 20-game seasons for any of all that (one each for Drysdale and Koufax).

Just six years ago, Koufax had gone to general manager Buzz Bavasi and requested that if the Dodgers weren't going to pitch him, he'd just as soon be traded to a team that would, Sandy had trouble finding the plate then. Now he's an old head (29) who counseled Claude Osteen, newest left-hander on the staff, that his early spring wildness was due to the fact he was picking up the hitter instead of the plate as a target.

But it bugs the Dodger ace to be called injury prone. The two major times he was knocked out of action in his Dodger career were the results of freak accidents. The hand injury came because he decided to bat left-handed instead of right-handed to protect his pitching arm—and immediately he got nicked by a foul tip on his throwing wing. Then last summer he strained his elbow — sliding into second base, of all things: I'm not even supposed to get that far."

"The pitcher is a defensive player," he explained, and Koufax respects Cincinnati as the best balanced team in the National League. When a skeptic wondered how the Reds could depend on Deron Johnson, last year's surprise slugger, who'd drifted around for years, Sandy shrugged. "That's right. But how many years did you see me before I did anything?"

Bits of this'n'data: Yankee manager Johnny Keane can claim honestly he was one of those who saw the Dempsey-Turner "long count" in 1926. His dad, railroad man, took him to Chicago from St. Louis for the fight, and a friend gave him a $35 seat in the 26th row.

Washington Senators' outfielder Frank Howard hasn't even seen six of the American League parks he'll be playing in this summer.

Between you'n'me, Baltimore Oriole soph pitcher whiz Wally Bunker is unusual for a kid—he throws a screwball as his bread and butter in tough situations, because "I have the worst curve in the league."

ASSIGN DISTRICT SITES FOR TENNIS
The Jacksonville High tennis team has been assigned to the Decatur Eisenhower IHSA District tournament. Other teams in the field are Decatur High, Decatur Eisenhower, Decatur MacArthur, Decatur Lakeview, Mt. Pulaski, Pana, Quincy High, Quincy Christian Brothers, Springfield Lanphier, Springfield High and Taylorville.

One hundred and fifty-three downstate and suburban high schools have entered the annual series of tennis tournaments to be held at fourteen district centers on May 1. Each school may enter two singles and two doubles teams.

The first and second place winners in singles and doubles from each district, together with four singles and four doubles teams advanced from the Chicago Public High schools, will compete in the state finals to be held at the University of Illinois in Champaign May 14-15.

Arlington High School, Arlington Heights, was the 1964 state champion and Hinsdale, Winnetka (New Trier) and Belleville (TWP) tied for runner-up honors.

OK PROFESSIONAL STATUS
PRAGUE (AP) — Pavel and Eva Roman, a brother-sister combination that four times won the world ice dance championship, was given permission Wednesday by Czechoslovakian authorities to turn professional. They will join a United States show immediately.

Other IRS contentions.
The court also overturned the IRS disallowance of a $2,000 deduction claimed by Robinson for lodging at his training camp for the fight.

But in finding against the bulk of the IRS tax claim of $352,140, the tax court did award the government a few rounds.

Robinson's contract, however, provided for installment payments over four years. Robinson reported the installments on his returns for 1957 through 1960.

The government, however, contended the installment plan contracted with the International Boxing Club

THIRD WARD CANDIDATE

WILLIAM A. YORDING

There are only 12 days left to serve you as Alderman. In these 4 years I've tried to do my best for the 3rd Ward and Jacksonville. It takes time to gain full knowledge of various committees and be able to help with our city's problems. Jacksonville still has a shortage of policemen, however, I am aware of the need for a Security Officer next September if I am re-elected. We have speed strip problems in the 3rd Ward. I will personally take an active part in controlling these strips with Radar. I have a list of alleys and secondary streets to be improved soon. There still are various projects to be completed and I would like to finish all that I intended to do.

I have served you on the following committees: Municipal, Personnel, Judiciary, Public Protection and at present as Chairman of Engineering Plan & Traffic. For the past 2 years I have represented the City Council on the Local Board of Improvements and the Plan Commission (Zoning).

Your Ward and your City will be well represented with 4 years of experience if you mark your ballot on the right side. I said it 4 years ago and now again that I would represent you, be conscientious, truthful and fair to all.

Because of recent surgery, I'm sorry I will not be able to contact you personally.

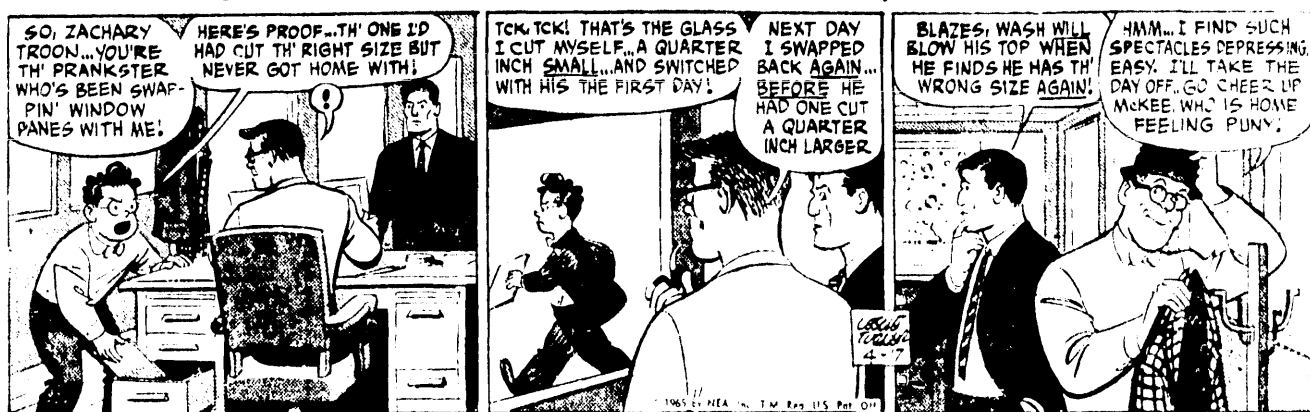

I will see you at the Polls. If you need a ride call 243-2552.

Keil Rites Set At Meredosa

MEREDOSA - Funeral services for Miss Flora Keil, former Meredosa resident who died Thursday at Passavant hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Shafter Funeral home, 1902 S. Main St., Jacksonville.

Home. Reverend George Bischoff, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church near Arenzville, will officiate and burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Keil was born at Meredosa, Wis., May 19, 1902; daughter of Charles W. and Louella Parrott Keil. The last surviving member of her immediate family, she leaves several cousins, nieces and nephews.

A member of St. John's Lutheran church, Meredosa, Miss Keil had been a resident of the Tower View Nursing Home at Camp Point for some time.

Sauteed green onions (scallions) are delicious added to cooked carrots. Include the green tops of the onions and cut them in about 1-inch lengths.

You should have your wheel alignment checked and corrected to prevent excessive, uneven tire wear.

WE USE

... equipment to perform our front-end inspections. This equipment assures you the utmost in precision alignment inspection and correction.

Even the best drivers scrape a curb or run off the pavement now and then... perhaps you have too! It doesn't take a real hard jolt to throw the wheels out of alignment enough to cause unnecessary, uneven tire wear.

YOU CAN ADD UP TO 50% TO YOUR TIRE LIFE by having your wheel alignment checked regularly.

Bring your car in today, or phone us for an appointment.

FAMOUS FOR FASHIONS

Reither On Beardstown

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN — Don Fletcher, who is a railroad trainman here for the "Q" but a resident of Frederick township in Schuylers county, was elected as a member of the board of supervisors in 1963. He has just resigned his position due to requirements of his job, making it difficult for him to attend the meetings of the supervisors. Reverdy R. Wilmot has been appointed to succeed Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Smedley, 1107 Clay street, were involved in an auto wreck in New Mexico last week while en route home following a visit in the west. Mrs. Smedley is suffering internal injuries and remains a hospital patient. Mr. Smedley, a retired "Q" railroad here, suffered a broken rib but has not been required to remain in the hospital. They are the parents of Gene Smedley, local painting contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Zane Allison have purchased the new home at 41 Sunset Drive from Mr. and Mrs. Ed Releford, but the Relefords continue to occupy the home until their new home in Florida is ready for occupancy. Releford is a river towboat captain.

VIRGINIA GROUP AT DISTRICT WSCS MEET

VIRGINIA — Mrs. Joe Drinkwater, Mrs. Seth McClintock, Mrs. Harry Watkins, Mrs. Chester Heidbreder and Mrs. Frank Bruno were in Quincy, on April 9, to attend the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Jacksonville District Annual Meeting held in Vermont Street Methodist Church.

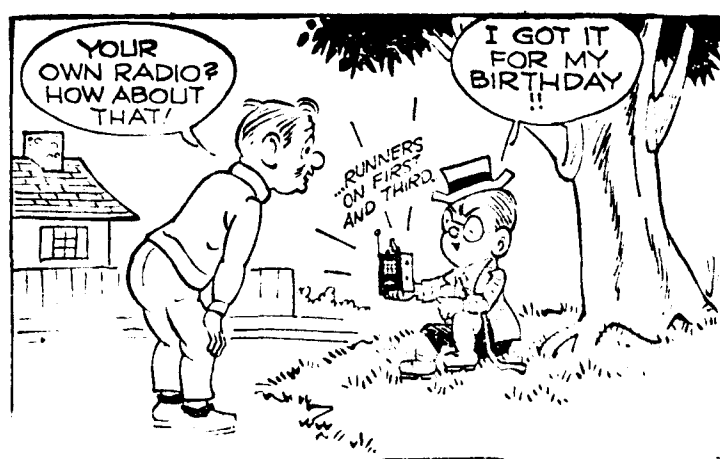

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Stucker are parents of a daughter born March 31, at Schmitt Memorial Hospital, Beardstown. She weighed 7 pounds, 5 ounces and has been named Angela Diane. Mrs. Stucker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Zillion, of Virginia.

All Home Economics 4-H leaders are invited to attend a District Training School which will cover room improvement projects and the grooming activity. The school will be held on Thursday, April 22, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., at the Agriculture Center in Havana.

Leaders from five counties, Cass, Logan, Menard and Tazewell, will be attending the meeting. Elizabeth Dean, an extension specialist in Health, and Arlene Wolfram, an extension specialist in 4-H club work, will be assisting with the day's activities. Room improvement projects to be covered will be flower arrangement projects and picture projects.

The Agriculture Center is located at the corner of Adams and High Streets in Havana.

To Display Copy Of 1857 Almanac

BEARDSTOWN — As one of the features of Courtroom Days scheduled for May 7 and 8, when the newly restored Lincoln courtroom in the city hall will be dedicated, Robert C. MacClinch has secured a copy of an 1857 "Old Farmer's Almanac" of the type used by Lincoln in refuting testimony against his client.

The Duff Armstrong trial, being photographed so that it can be used as the Almanac Trial because part of the theme in decorations of the use Lincoln made of an in store windows for the Court-almanac to prove that a room days observance.

witness was lying when he testified he saw Armstrong strike a fatal blow "by the light of the moon." The almanac showed that the moon, at the time of the murder, was setting and could not have furnished enough light for the witness to have seen a blow delivered. It is for this reason that Mr. MacClinch decided that there would be uncommon interest in an 1857 Almanac and he secured one through the publishers. The cover of the Almanac and Almanac of the type used by Lincoln in refuting testimony against his client.

NO WRONG TURNS with NEW GRACE SLURRY MIX

Your fertilizer program gets started in the right direction when you use Grace Slurry Mix. It's a brand new idea in fertilizer... made locally... to fit local soil conditions... to give you complete, balanced, full spectrum nutrition. Grace Slurry Mix is different. It's not a solid; not a liquid. Instead, it's a permanently uniform emulsified fertilizer, combining the economy of solid materials with the ease of liquid fertilizers. There's no work involved when you use Grace Slurry Mix. We broadcast it for you with special equipment—fast, efficiently, evenly. Slurry sticks to the ground like paint. Stays there until you plow it down. You can see it; you can feel it. You know it's there. Use Slurry Mix profitably on any crop... corn, wheat, oats, barley, soybeans—or give your pastures a real boost. For additional details,

Reither On Beardstown

By VIRGIL REITHER
BEARDSTOWN—Daryle Tegeder, Cass County farmer, who resides on a farm on route 100 near Meredosia, has just completed installation of a new $6,000 feed mixing mill which will enable him to greatly improve and speed up his hog raising business, according to Cass County Farm Adviser Russell Meredith. Mr. Meredith says this most modern operation can "meter" the right amounts of corn, oats, antibiotics and other ingredients for the best nourishment and disease resistant qualities for Tegeder's pigs.

Friends here have learned that a former Beardstown township clerk has been re-elected town clerk in Industry Township. She is Mrs. Mabel Newberry Standard, who served as town clerk here following the death of her husband, who had been in the same office. She is a Democrat and has been "out of office" only four years since 1944.

Leon Yancey and his brother Charley Yancey have returned to the United States after tours of duty in Viet Nam and in Japan. The brothers were honored at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morris. Leon has served in a number of Far Eastern stations, and Charlie has another assignment in Japan. He and his wife will leave by plane April 23 for the East, flying from San Francisco.

Lagniappe: Oscar Mayer & Company will pay an estimated $8,000 a year in taxes here, according to early predictions. Beardstown police say "Let the chips fall where they may" and have nabbed two aldermen here recently for traffic violations. The last city council meeting here was attended by practically all of the contend-

Install Slate At 1st Baptist Mission Society

Members of the Women's Mission Society of First Baptist Church enjoyed a sack lunch in Fellowship Hall at the church Thursday noon, April 15th. Mrs. H. W. Geuther had charge of arrangements.

The opening hymn was "In Christ There is No East Nor West." Prayer was offered by Mrs. Earl Davis.

ing candidates in the upcoming city election, getting a little info on what goes on. When Beardstown's new airport becomes a reality a couple of new airplanes are expected to be owned by Beardstownians, including Bob Hardwick. Former flyers John Musgrove and Gibbs Kell are on the airport committee.

During the business session, conducted by Mrs. Clyde McDaniel, president, officer's reports were given by Mrs. L. P. Hauck and Mrs. Claude Armstrong. Committee reports were made by Miss Anne Long, Mrs. Mae Tomlin, Mrs. Archie Brownell, Mrs. Claude Lewis and Mrs. A. J. Stewart.

Circle leaders reported meetings held in April. The Society's revised constitution was read by Miss Long. An impressive Love Gift Service was presented by Mrs. William Rigg.

Miss Long and Mrs. Anderson Kitchens conducted an installation service for the following newly elected officers and chairmen:

President, Mrs. Clyde McDaniel; secretary, Mrs. John Sauerwein; treasurer, Mrs. Claude Armstrong; vice president, and chairman of program, Mrs. Robert Allen. Chairman of communication, Mrs. Mae Tomlin; vice president of mission, Mrs. O. L. Westmorland; chairman of missionary education, Mrs. Don Worries; chairman of special interest missionaries, Mrs. Archie Brownell; chairman of White Cross, Mrs. Claude Lewis. Vice president of Christian Service and chairman of Christian social relations, Mrs. Randolph Little; chairman of Love Gift, Mrs. Earl Davis; vice president of leadership development and chairman of spiritual growth, Mrs. Leonard I. Wood; chairman of literature, Miss Anne Long.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week rose to a series of historic highs, ending a couple of months of "consolidation" of the previous peaks made early in February.

It looked like a "traditional spring rally" to Wall Streeters. In the short pre-Easter trading week of four days, all the popular market averages climbed to records Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. They declined slightly on Thursday when profits were taken prior to the market holiday for Good Friday and the three-day Easter weekend.

The market was buoyed by an increasing parade of earnings reports from leading corporations, most of them showing sharp increases over a year ago. Such corporate giants as Du Pont, Radio Corp. and International Business Machines reported quarterly records.

Another factor—a very strong one, said analysts—was the end of stock selling to raise cash for April 15 income tax payments. Most of this was taken care of by Friday of the previous week because of the "regular way" delivery system on the New York Stock Exchange, which provides for delivery within four business days.

By Wednesday's close, the market had completed six straight sessions of advance, the latter three putting the list at record highs.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week rose 10.6 at 911.91. It posted a record high of 912.82 at Wednesday's close. The previous record closing peak of 906.30 was established Feb. 3.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week rose 2.4 to 339.3 after making its record closing high of 339.5 on Wednesday. This topped the previous record closing of 337.6 made Feb. 4.

Analysts saw these new highs by the averages as made in convincing fashion—that is, on heavy volume and by sufficient margin to make it look like an emphatic penetration. A spirit of optimism prevailed in the street for the intermediate term.

Volume for the holiday-shortened week was a husky 25,195,680 shares—not much less than the turnover of 26,351,970 shares in the previous trading week of a full five days.

Of 1,520 issues traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange, gainers bettered losers by the wide margin of 812 to 542.

General Motors, the "biggest" stock on the exchange, inspired its fellow blue chips by rising to a string of historic highs, the last one 104 1/2. It ended the week's trading a little below this at 107 1/2, a net gain of 2 1/2.

Bond prices advanced during the past week and traders attributed the tone of the market to the underlying strength of the U.S. economy.

U.S. Treasury securities dealers went up despite an adverse report on British trade during March. Corporate bond prices generally reflected the advance of the stock market.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $44.18 million, compared to $47.67 million the previous week.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—The supply of slaughter steers continued to dwindle this week at the 12 major markets and prices held steady to 25 cents a hundredweight higher with good and choice grades showing the advance.

After a decline on Monday, the market tilted toward firmness and at midweek the prime grade topped at $29, equal to the high of last week and the highest in more than two years. On Friday, one load brought $29.10.

Buyers said a stronger wholesale market for dressed beef also contributed to the firmness. With the 12 market supply at a 12-year low, the average price of slaughter steers for the week was estimated at $25.05 compared with $21.33 a year ago.

In the butcher hog market, prices twice topped at $19, the highest since last August. The new peak was first paid on Monday and for more than a hundred head on Friday. At midweek, though, the high was $18.25. The supply for the period was little changed from last week and the average price of $17.70 was the same but it was up $3 from a year ago.

Some mixed choice and prime spring slaughter lambs brought $27 in the sheep market and a few lots of 44-60 lb mostly prime for the Greek Easter trade cleared at $30 and $35. Choice woolled offerings brought $26.50 and the good to mixed good and choice $23.50-25.

Lieutenant Boston, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to an Air Training Command (ATC) unit at Chanute AFB, Ill., for training as a missile launch officer.

The lieutenant is a graduate of Jacksonville High school. He received his B.A. degree in political science from the University of Illinois, and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Lieutenant Boston's wife, Rosalyn, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Wagner of 1333 S. Clay Ave., Jacksonville.

200 Injured As Riots Continue In South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Mobs fought police in street battles Saturday after 10,000 persons poured from a rally where speakers denounced government negotiations with Japan. Korea's old overlord. More than 200 police and demonstrators were injured.

Police announced the arrest of 227 demonstrators, including an opposition party lawmaker. More than 700 persons have been detained since disorders began Tuesday.

Police reported 15 policemen injured, 11 seriously. Among the injured were about 20 opposition lawmakers who bore the brunt of the initial charge of club-swinging police.

Alarmed by the fifth straight day of street rioting, President Chung Hee Park called in his top security officers, presumably to discuss possible martial law.

Later, Home Minister Yang Chuan-Wood accused opposition politicians, who called the rally, of starting the riot. He said the politicians had "base political designs to seize power."

In another statement, Information Minister Hong Chong-chul declared the government is "fully prepared to crush any riotous acts."

The demonstrators were egged on by Red China, Peking Radio said 150,000 persons rallied in Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, in support of the South Korean demonstrations.

Peking's People's Daily said the situation "is most favorable for the struggle of the South Korean people. U.S. imperialism is meeting with rebuffs in Asia and other parts of the world."

While Communist agitators may have been in the mobs, the protest rally was called by the opposition Civil Rule party. It is not Communist-influenced.

A government spokesman accused the Civil Rule party and the opposition Democratic party of plotting an uprising by agitation among students. The parties denied the charge.

Most of those who attended the rally in Hyeonchong football stadium took no part in the disorders. The attack on police was led by about 500 students and other demonstrators.

In remarks directed at such opponents, and in explanation to the world, Johnson said: "I regret the necessities of war have compelled us to bomb North Vietnam."

"We have carefully limited those raids. They have been directed at radar stations, bridges, and ammunition dumps, not at population centers; at concrete and steel, and not human life."

"I understand the feelings of those who regret that we must undertake air attacks. I share those feelings. But the compassion of this country, and the world, must go out to the men and women and children who are killed and crippled by the Viet Cong every day in South Vietnam."

"The outrage of this country, and the world, must be visited on those who explode their bombs in cities and villages, ripping the bodies of the helpless. The indignation of this country, and the world, must extend to all who seek dominion over others with a violent and ruthless disregard for life, or happiness, or security."

To critics in Congress, Johnson said the purpose of his proposed international aid program for Southeast Asia must not be misunderstood.

"We do not seek to buy peace," he said.

"If the price of ending aggression is blood and men we are ready to pay that price."

Standing on the porch, taking in every word, was Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He and his wife, guests at the ranch since Thursday night, left shortly afterward to fly back to Washington.

Johnson said that this Holy Week has been one of tragedy, disappointment and progress. It was tragic, he said, because hundreds of Vietnamese and many Americans were struck down in the cruel course of battle.

"On this, of all weekends," he said, "We must feel a deep sadness that men must still die, and families still be left homeless, in the brutality of war."

He said the week has been one of disappointment "because we tried to open a window to peace only to be met by tired names and slogans—a refusal to talk."

"The want no talk with us—no talk with a distinguished Briton, and no talk with the United Nations. They want no talk at all—so far. But our offer stands. We mean every word of it."

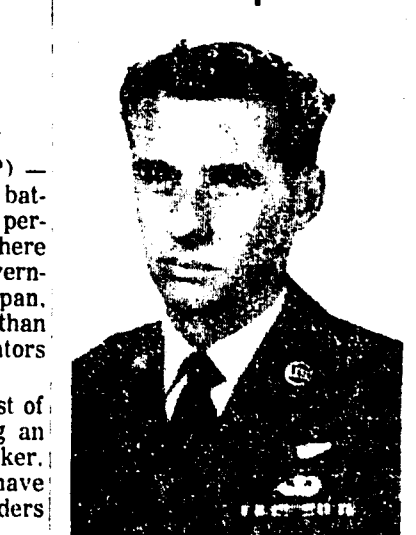

"The window to peace is still open. We are still ready for unconditional discussion. We will impose no conditions, of any kind, on any government willing to talk. Nor will we accept any."

"On this basis, we are ready to begin discussion next week, tomorrow or tonight."

A pot-luck supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. Members, guests and the public are welcome.

Dean Saves JHS Split, 1-5, 7-5

John Dean's two out single in the bottom of the fifth inning of the second game Saturday afternoon here gave the Jacksonville Crimsons their share of a twin bill with Quincy 1-5, 7-5.

The Blue Devils jumped on Joe Wilkerson in the first game for a 3-0 lead in the first frame, and added to their margin with two more in the fourth. Jacksonville batted around in their five-run second frame taking advantage of Larry Welch's bases-loaded triple to pick up a 5-1 edge.

Quincy mustered four runs off

Sample in the fifth on three singles and one error to come within two runs before Dean cooled the first three men he faced.

John Vineyard started off the five-run second with a single. Steve Herrin followed with another single and catcher Dan Brooks brought Vineyard home. Gary Zimmer's single loaded the bases and set the scene for Welch's three run-triple with one out.

Tom Woods brought Welch in with a single to end the scoring.

In the fifth, Vineyard opened the frame with a walk, and with two down, Brooks was issued a free pass from Miller, setting up Dean's two-run blow.

Welch scored the Crimsons' only run in the first game with a home run in the second inning.

Quincy tagged Wilkerson with a three run lead in the first frame on Finney's three run double.

Jacksonville was playing without the services of two regulars, Creston Whitaker and Dennis Wegehott, both of whom were out-of-town.

Kaat's Shutout Stops Tribe 3-0

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Kaat pitched a seven-hitter for the first Minnesota shutout of the season Saturday as the Twins blanked the Cleveland Indians 3-0.

Outfielder Bob Allison swatted his first home run of the season for the Twins, a 385-foot blast in the fourth inning.

Minnesota jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Soile Versalles doubled off Indian starter Dick Donovan and after Rich Rollins and Tony Oliva grounded out, Harmon Killebrew singled to left, scoring Versalles.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Big Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' World Series pitching hero, hurled an eight-hit shutout Saturday night against Cincinnati as the Cards' posted their first 1965 baseball victory, 8-0.

Gibson, who beat the New York Yankees in the final game of the 1964 World Series, struck out 11 while his mates collected nine hits.

The Cardinals, who lost three games and played a tie with Chicago took out their frustration on four Red pitchers.

SOUTHERN GYMNASI WINS ALL-AROUND

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Larry Lindauer, of Southern Illinois University, and Suzzi Thomson of the Washington, D.C., YMCA won all-around championships Saturday in class A competition in the United States Gymnastic Federation Meet.

Lindauer, the leader after the first day of compulsory exercises, turned in an outstanding parallel bar performance in the optionals Saturday for a total of 101.80 points to win the men's title.

Miss Thomson edged out Milwaukee's Sharon Kneale with 61.58 points compared with Kneale's 60.75 for the women's championship. Another Milwaukee girl, Judy Lenz, was third with 58.02 points.

In the men's competition, Dick Nicklaus of Pasadena City College was second with 98.40, while Rick Tucker, Lindauer's Southern Illinois teammate, was third with 96.80.

Other class A men's titles went to Southern Illinois' Fred Dennis in the still rings and Iowa State's Tim Clarke in the trampoline.

Vicki Bolinger, Springfield, Ill., won the trampoline, while Miss Kneale won the vaulting title and Miss Lenz won in floor exercise.

Chisox Rookie Singles In Win Over Solons 2-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie Ken Berry singled in Danny Cater with the winning run in the 10th inning Saturday as the Chicago White Sox edged Washington 2-1.

Cater singled to center with one out in the 10th and raced to third when Ron Hansen doubled down the right field line. Berry's line single brought him home.

The victory went to reliever Ed Fisher with Mike McCormick taking the loss.

Rookie Bruce Howard started for the White Sox and Phil Ortega for the Senators. The teams were tied 1-1 when both left in the ninth inning.

Nichols Leads At Houston

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Nichols, the 1964 PGA champion, birdied three back nine holes Saturday for a third round four-under-par 67 and a tie with young Bert Yancey after 54 holes in the $55,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Yancey, who held or shared the lead through two rounds, dropped even with Nichols by going one over on the 17th green.

Nichols missed taking the lead when birdie putts of 3 and 20 feet stopped short on the last two holes.

"It was the best round of golf I ever played from tee to green," Nichols said after posting a 10-under-par 67-69-67—203 for the 7,233-yard, par 71 Sharpstown Country Club course.

Yancey, a 26-year-old Florida native playing out of Philadelphia, settled for a 65-70-68—203.

Two strokes off the pace at 71-66-68—205 was Don January, Dallas, Tex., pro.

Tied at 206 were Billy Martin, lead, who shared the 38-hole lead with Yancey, and Bruce Devlin, the Australian who set a record 63 for Sharpstown in a Wednesday pro-am preliminary.

Marichal Twirls Four Hit Win 4-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Right-hander Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants pitched a four-hitter for his 10th straight victory over the New York Mets Saturday 4-0.

A crowd of 34,945 at Shea Stadium saw the Giants pound out 12 hits against a parade of Mets pitchers—rookie Tom Parsons, who went six innings in losing; Larry Bearnarth, Dennis Ribant and Jim Bethke.

Marichal struck out six men in subduing the National League tail-enders after the Mets got two hits in the first inning and one in the second. The fireballing Marichal did not allow another hit until Johnny Lewis singled with two out in the ninth.

The Giants ace has never lost to the Mets.

Nicklaus Faces Big Selling Job

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's wrote another. 'He doesn't easy for some people to smile come across. He lacks the color it just comes natural to them.' of men such as Walter Hagen, Jack Nicklaus said. "This is not natural for me. I'm a big, slow-moving guy who doesn't show emotion. But that isn't who I am. I'm not concentrating or don't want to win as much as the next man."

He'll Be Around

People are going to have to get used to Jack Nicklaus. Bar-ring accident or injury, he threatens to dominate golf for the next 10 or 15 years. We are embarking on the Nicklaus era.

In amassing the greatest collection of national and international championships ever won by a golfer of his age, the 25-year-old Golden Bear has had a hard time selling himself to the fans—but he's winning the fight, bold, brash, flamboyant. Canadiens Win Cup Opener 3-2

MONTREAL (AP) — Yvon Cournoyer's tip-in goal midway in the final period gave the Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night in the opening game of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup championship playoff.

Cournoyer, who made only seven goals in regular season play and one in the semifinal playoffs, scored the winning goal at 8:59 of the final period after the Chicago defense had slowed down a shot off the stick of Ted Harris on power play.

Standing to the left of the net, Cournoyer tipped the puck past goalie Glenn Hall who was protecting the cage against Harris' shot.

The second game in the best-of-7 series is in Montreal Tuesday night with the teams then moving to Chicago for games next Thursday and Sunday.

Montreal opened the scoring at 2:39 of the first period when Henri Richard took a pass from Red Berenson and fired into a Chicago goal, using Hawk defenseman Al MacNeil as a screen.

Chicago wasted little time in tying the contest. A little more than a minute after Richard's goal, Jean Bel

Eight Marks Fall In Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — He set a broad jump mark of 26-2 1/2 Friday. Scott, a 28-year-old sophomore from Perth, Australia, took the Glenn Cunningham mile in 4:08.9, his career best, after winning the 5,000-meter run Friday in 14:58.4.

Missouri, with Robin Lingle running a 4:06.8 anchor leg, broke the distance medley record 9:47.3. Lingle took the baton 12 yards behind Herald Hadley of Kansas and won by 20 yards.

Oklahoma State ran a meet record 7:21.2 in the two-mile relay, just 2.2 seconds of the world record. John Perry ran a 1:48.7 second leg and his brother Dave, a 1:48.9 anchor half mile.

New 440 Mark

Nebraska, anchored by Charlie Greene, set a meet record for the 440 relay around two turns with 40.5. Oklahoma's Jim Jackson, winner of the 100-yard dash in 9.7, anchored the Sooner 880 relay team to victory in 1:23.5, one-tenth second off the meet record.

A crowd of 14,000 turned out to watch Matson's effort to break his world mark of 67-11 1/4. The 6-foot-6, 258-pound sophomore threw, in order, 64-2 1/2, 65-8 1/2, 62-5 1/2, no official measurement but 65-1 unofficially, 65-10 1/4 and a foul on his last throw.

Here are the statistics on Illinois participants:

Kent Floerke of Sheridan placed third in the university and college triple jump.

Loyola of Chicago placed third in the college two-mile relay, in the college mile relay and fourth in the college 880-yard relay.

Southern Illinois won the university mile relay with the team of Robin Coventry, Bill Cornell, Jerry Fendrich and Gary Carr.

WEST-ERN TOUCH—With Elgin Baylor out of the Los Angeles Lakers lineup, Jerry West (44) has become the main hope of the Western Division leaders in the NBA championship playoff. West scored 40 or more points in all six games against the Baltimore Bullets.

Celtics Turn Defensive Powers Toward Lakers

BOSTON (AP) — The old pro Boston Celtics turn their unsurpassed defensive talents on the Elgin Baylor-less Los Angeles Lakers Sunday in quest of a seventh straight National Basketball Association title.

Odds makers list Boston a 2-to-1 pick to win the best-of-seven final series, which pits the two most successful clubs in league playoff history.

The second game is at Boston Garden Monday night before the rivals move to Laker territory for Wednesday and Friday dates.

Hauled back from the brink of disaster against Philadelphia by John Havlicek, the Celtics now have two problems—sensational Los Angeles guard Jerry West and a possible letdown.

K.C. Jones heads a three-man defensive shuttle service aimed at slowing the West trigger hand which averaged 46.5 points against Baltimore. Boston Coach Red Auerbach has assigned Havlicek and Larry Siegfried to share the job.

The Laker forward-men, especially center Leroy Ellis, must play over their heads to match Boston counterparts headed by five-time NBA-MVP Bill Russell.

"We're worried about a letdown," says Auerbach, whose team had a 7-3 edge over the Lakers with Baylor during the season. "The worst thing that could happen would be to get smug."

The Boston defense in the form of Havlicek's interception of a Philadelphia in-bounds pass with five seconds left rescued a

Rocket Rally Fizzles As Plains Takes Pair

Pleasant Plains picked up one run in the sixth frame of their second game to break a 4-4 tie to sweep a twin bill from Routt at the Plains diamond Saturday afternoon 7-3 and 5-4.

With no outs in the top of the seventh and the bases loaded, a Routt rally fizzled when first game winner Bedford came in from left field to fan two and get Leo Carroll to pop out.

Routt came from a 1-0 deficit in the second game to go ahead 4-1 in the top of the fourth on a triple from Leo Carroll scoring Jerry and Kenny McGinnis, then Carroll scored on a single by Dennis Bennett.

Jerry McGinnis was safe on a fielder's choice and Kenny reached first on an error.

With two out in the sixth, Frazee walked, singled to third by Bomke, who stole second. With men on second and third, Routt pitcher Dick Schindler let a return throw from his catcher get by him and Frazee came home.

Plains third baseman Riemer doubled in the third inning and scored on an error. In the three-run fifth Robinson singled, Miller flied out, Phillips singled, and White singled scoring Robinson. Both Phillips and White moved around one when Smith was thrown out on a fielder's choice.

Riemer then walked to load the bases and Phillips scored on an error. White came in when Routt hurler Kevin Hunter was nicked him with a pitched ball.

Routt is now 1-3 for the season.

Junior Still There If Lefebvre Fades

By SANDY PADWE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK — (NEA) — Well, the Los Angeles Dodgers finally started a season without Junior Gilliam somewhere in the lineup.

Officially, Gilliam is what you might call semiretired, a coach on the Dodger staff.

"Yes," said Jim Lefebvre, the present heir to the Dodger second base job. "I realize he's listed as a coach and all that, but he takes infield practice, batting practice and he just went out and bought a new glove."

"And you don't have to remind me about Larry Burright and Pee Wee Oliver, either."

Burright and Oliver were the past heirs to second base at Dodger Stadium. But every time you looked there was Gilliam while Burright and Oliver were catching the Spokane bus.

"I don't know what the fuss is about," Gilliam said, smiling. "Really, I'm a coach this year. You have to stop some time, you know."

"Sure, I work out, but could you spend your whole life around a ball park and not pick up the bat and a glove?"

Gilliam's 37 now, but his age certainly belies his nickname. He looks the same as the day he came up to the old Brooklyn Hunter, p.

Dodgers from Montreal in 1953.

His weight is still around 180, the hips are narrow, the stomach flat and—some of the Dodgers insist—the legs are still good.

It's enough to give a kid like Lefebvre a stiff neck.

"They're probably happy to have him around," Lefebvre said with a shrug of the shoulders. "You know when a team starts driving for a pennant they always go after an insurance man. Well, he'd be the perfect one, wouldn't he?"

Actually, Gilliam spent a lot of time at Vero Beach this spring working with Lefebvre, and the 22-year-old with the friendly smile is genuinely appreciative.

"He's not the kind of guy who gets on you," Lefebvre said. "He just tells you how it should be done, then he leaves it up to you to do it."

When spring training started, Lefebvre wasn't on the Dodger roster, but an injury to Oliver and a .300 exhibition season batting average earned him the job.

His minor league record shows .327 with 39 home runs and 130 RBIs at Reno in his first year (1962), .282 at Salem in '63 and .265 in 55 games at Spokane last year. (He was in the Army part of the season.)

He's a pleasant kid who knows he has quite an opportunity, but he's also realistic enough to know he may still need another year in the minors.

"If I get off to a bad start, I'm not going to worry," he said. "I know I'll be back. But I would like to stick so Junior will be able to take it easy for a change."

Gilliam wouldn't mind that either—he says.

Chicago Clubs Milwaukee 9-4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Glenn Beckert, George Altman and Doug Clemens each collected three hits in a 16-hit Chicago attack that carried the Cubs to a 9-4 victory over Milwaukee Saturday.

A crowd of only 3,362 was on hand in 38-degree weather. The game got under way after a bright sun melted an overnight snowfall which blanketed the field.

The numbing cold made fielding difficult and seven errors were committed, four by the Braves. In addition, there were two hit batsmen, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Besides the heavy hitting by the Cubs' trio, Ron Santo contributed his third homer for Chicago in support of right-hander Cal Koonce.

MILWAUKEE PROFIT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Teams, Inc., which bought out County Stadium for Thursday's game as the Braves opened their 13th and final season in Milwaukee, made a profit of about $13,000, according to an announcement Saturday.

Teams, Inc., is a civic group organized to secure another major league franchise for Milwaukee when the Braves shift to Atlanta in 1966. The profits will be used in the effort to get another club.

A breakdown showed that 35,098 tickets were sold for the game, which saw the Braves defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-1 before a crowd of 33,874.

Gross receipts were $68,000 with the Braves receiving a $9,300. State and federal taxes were $5,300 and the National League received $2,000 while Milwaukee County got $2,600, raising total expenses to $54,200.

Flag Raiser Surprise Win In Wood Memorial

NEW YORK (AP) — Flag Raiser, a front-running colt owned by Isidor Bieber, tossed an unexpected road block in Bold Lad's path to the Kentucky Derby Saturday when he won the $91,900 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

Going to the front soon after the start of the 1 1/4-mile race, Flag Raiser opened up as much as four lengths over Bold Lad, the odds-on favorite from the Wheatley Stable, and held on in a furious homestretch drive for a neck decision over the fast-closing Hail to All, carrying the silks of Mrs. Ben Cohen.

Bold Lad, who looked as if he was ready to take the lead one-eighth of a mile from home, did not have enough to stave off Hail to All's great finish and wound up third, beaten one length for runner-up honors.

Dapper Dan, a stablemate of Bold Lad, was another one-half length back for fourth place in the field of 11.

Third Straight

Flag Raiser, who had won the Bay Shore and the Gotham in two previous starts, was timed in 1:50 1/5 after running the first quarter mile in 23 seconds, the half in 45 4/5, the six furlongs in 1:09 3/5 and the mile in 1:36 under Bob Ussery.

Flag Raiser, a son of Rough 'n Tumble-Lark's War, ran coupled in the betting with Isle of Greece and Turn to Reason. The three-ple entry trained by Hirsch Jacobs paid $17.00, $6.60 and $2.40 to his backers in the crown of 55,189.

Hail to All, ridden by Johnny Sellers, and coming off a second place to Native Changer in the Florida Derby, returned $7.20 and $2.60. Bold Lad returned $2.10 to show.

Back of the first four horses in order came Louisiana Derby winner Dapper Delegate, Gallant Lad, Tam Lea, Seaman, Sum Up, Isle of Greece, and Turn to Reason. All except Tam Lea and Gallant Lad are eligible for the Kentucky Derby May 2.

If Bold Lad had any excuse, it was because of a light campaign and his first attempt around two turns and at a distance of more than one mile. In his only previous start this year he won at six furlongs after his

Finest Round Ever

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (NEA) — The white frame cottage sits unpretentiously on the edge of the 10th tee at Augusta National Golf Course. A bronze placard on the front door reads, "Robert Tyre Jones Jr."

In a bedroom off to the right, with two single beds and a French antique dresser, sits Robert Tyre Jones Jr., who was responsible for all of this . . . the Masters, which was supposed to be a private little invitation affair for men who appreciate good golf and companionship.

Now 45,000 people a day overran this private shrine to Bobby Jones, the greatest amateur golfer in history, and one of them had a short slit skirt to cover short, shorts, decorated from the hips down with black mesh stockings.

"Looked," said Frances Jones, who is Bobby's daughter-in-law, "like a bunny."

It was noon, and Bobby Jones, attired in green dressing robe, shivered deep in the recesses of an easy chair. In front of him was the wheel chair, the only way he can get out of this house, although from the window he could see the golfers.

And Jack Nicklaus was soon to charge by en route to the finishing 9 of the greatest 72 holes of golf in history.

People accept Bobby's condition, which is syringomyelia, a chronic progressive disease of the spinal cord. "You can come by and see him any time," said his son, Bobby III, adding lightly, "he isn't going any place."

So Bobby Jones sat and talked about Jack Nicklaus, whom he first saw as an amateur in Richmond, Va., when Jack qualified for the U.S. Amateur at the age of 14. And Bobby also qualified for the Amateur at 14.

"He's always been a sweet, friendly boy," said Bobby, "maybe a little shy and overwhelmed at first by the vociferousness of Arnie's Army."

Nicklaus at 25 is still considered a boy prodigy. And Bobby Jones retired from competition at the age of 28.

DOMINATE MONMOUTH RELAYS

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP) — The University of Illinois' Chicago Circle Campus and Cornell College at Mt. Vernon, Iowa, dominated the eighth annual Monmouth College Relays Saturday.

The Illini took four firsts and Cornell captured three in the invitational meet in which 200 athletes from 12 Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa colleges competed.

Discuss thrower Thomas Hintze of Knox College, Galesburg, broke a meet record with a 150-foot, 11 1/4-inch toss. Four other meet records were also broken.

NAB PAN AM RUN

MIAMI (AP) — Cool Prince, under a heavy ride by Bill Hartack, nailed Babington in the final yards and won the $65,200 Pan American Handicap on the grass at Gulfstream Park Saturday.

Barbaron finished third and Improbable 2nd was fourth in the 1 1/4 mile feature run in 2:26 2-5. The track record is 2:25 4-5, set by One-Eyed King in 1959.

Cool Prince, carrying 115 pounds, won by 1 1/2 lengths and paid $14.40, $6.00 and $4.60.

AROUND LEAGUE IN 80 GAMES

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — Bob Lee, the relief ace of the Los Angeles Angels, is a glutton for punishment.

When asked how many games he would like to appear in this season, the 27-year-old said he can pitch in at least 80 if worked correctly.

"I feel that I can work three or four times a week," he explained, "and average about two innings an outing. That would add up to about 80 games."

Last year he worked in 64 games, a National League record for a rookie. He was 6-5, received credit for 17 saves and had a 1.51 ERA.

Roar Of Revving Engines, Squeal Of Tires Music To Ears Of Millions

By BERNARD GAVZER

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — The throaty roar of revving engines and the squeal of tires may be annoying noises to millions of Americans, but to millions of others they are music.

To those who love it, the rumble and screech are the melodies of drag racing.

Drag racing belongs to the young.

It was born on the West Coast in the World War II period and for years seemed to be the exclusive activity of kick-seeking kids who ran hot rods on public roads at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Its impact is felt today. Now as a spectator activity, it ranks high among sports activities. It drew 46 million paid admissions at tracks last year.

It was street racing that raised so much concern about dragging. Hot rod clubs arose in answer, to make it a legitimate and acceptable sport. But cars are built with power to make them move and men seem unable to resist making them move fast.

marked off in this way in many parts of the country.

Spontaneous races generally blossom at the hangouts late Friday and Saturday nights. Typical of this was the scene after midnight on a recent Saturday at Richardson's Drive-in near Hagerstown. Teen-agers by the dozens entered the lot, driving through, revving engines, and talking back and forth.

"These are the people who are giving dragging a bad name," says Mrs. Connie Grimm, whose husband, Bobbie, operates the nearby Mason-Dixon Drag-O-Way on U.S. 40, six miles east of Hagerstown. "Because of them, people describe anybody interested in dragging as long-haired, leather-jacketed scum. Well, sir, you take a good look at those people who are serious about dragging — and by dragging, I do not mean people who go around racing on highways."

There were plenty of serious draggers on opening day of the Mason-Dixon Drag-O-Way. The Grimms had used some farm-land along U.S. 40 to put down the racing strip, build a control tower and spectator stands.

The new season began at 3:20 p.m., March 28, a bright sunny day. Bobbi Grimm, who is a dairy farmer all year round, thought there might be 180 race contestants.

By that hour, there were 218 automobiles, dragsters, motor role in dragging. A boy may pick up a piece of junk for $15, but by the time he has it in racing shape it can involve $800 or more. The time that goes into it is measured in months.

It comes to a rather expensive hobby since true drag racing vehicles can be used only for racing. Standing side by side on the field were souped-up 1964 and 1965 Plymouth Belvederes representing total investments of more than $8,000 on the part of Allen "Buck" Phillips and Ed Wagner, both of Baltimore.

They brought the cars to Hagerstown on trailers.

The most specialized vehicles at the strip are the dragsters. A dragster is essentially an engine that is kept off the ground by a frame and four wheels. The in front look like oversize bicycle wheels, the two in back are wide and large.

There is just enough room to ease the driver into position, which requires that he place his legs over the rear axle, with the rear end gears between his knees, his feet almost at shoulder level, one foot on the clutch, the other on the gas. It's like driving lying on your back.

Dragsters have hit more than 200 miles per hour in covering that quarter of a mile and have to be braked with a parachute.

Don Gunther of Hampstead, Md., who built a dragster with his brothers, David and Doug, was asked how he could see where he was going.

"I can't. I just aim it, count to ten and pull the chute," he says.

Must Move Quickly

On the strip, two cars of the same class stood at the starting mark, engines racing. The idea in drag racing is to get moving quickly and shift gears fast. The race distance is short.

To speed shift, the accelerator is depressed until the tachometer shows 3,500 RPMs. The car is in first gear, the clutch pedal down. At the "go" signal the clutch is released quickly and the car shifted into second, never letting up on the gas pedal. Shifting continues into fourth gear without ever letting the gas pedal off the floorboard.

As the cars take off there is an ear-tling screech of tires. Someone figured that in a split second about 10 miles of tire wear occurs.

By that hour, there were 218 automobiles, dragsters, motor

Prin Collects 24 Hits In Twin Win Over I.C. 9-1, 11-7

ELSAH, Ill.—Principia pounded out 24 hits, including seven home runs and four doubles, here Friday afternoon, breezing to a 9-1 and 11-7 doubleheader sweep over the Illinois College Blueboys.

In the first game, a Prairie College conference tilt, the Indians jumped on a trio of IC hurriers for 16 hits, four home runs and two doubles among them. The hosts collected only eight safeties in the second contest, but three were for homers and two more were two-base blows. IC again used three pitchers.

Bright spots for the Blueboys, who are now 0-5 for the year, were the hitting of shortstop Bob Jenkins, who went five-for-seven including three RBIs, and the relief hurling of Wayne

Sildorff, who hurled two innings of scoreless relief in each game.

IC's run in the first game came in the opening frame when Jim Downers singled, reached second on a fielder's choice and scored on Jenkins' double.

The Blueboys collected only five hits off Max Foster in the nine-inning opener, with Jenkins and Downer getting two each.

In the second game they pounded out eight safeties, with Jenkins collecting three and Bob Rittenhouse two.

Principia got all the runs they needed in the opener in the three-run first, and sewed up the second contest with a big ten-run second frame in which they more than battled around.

IC's best inning of the day came in the sixth of the nightcap when singles by Dan Runkle, Rittenhouse and Jenkins, a walk, an error and a hit batter produced four tallies.

Alcindor Heads Magazine's Prep All-Americans

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 star of New York City's Power Memorial High School, heads the 37-man All-America high school basketball squad named Friday by Scholastic Magazine.

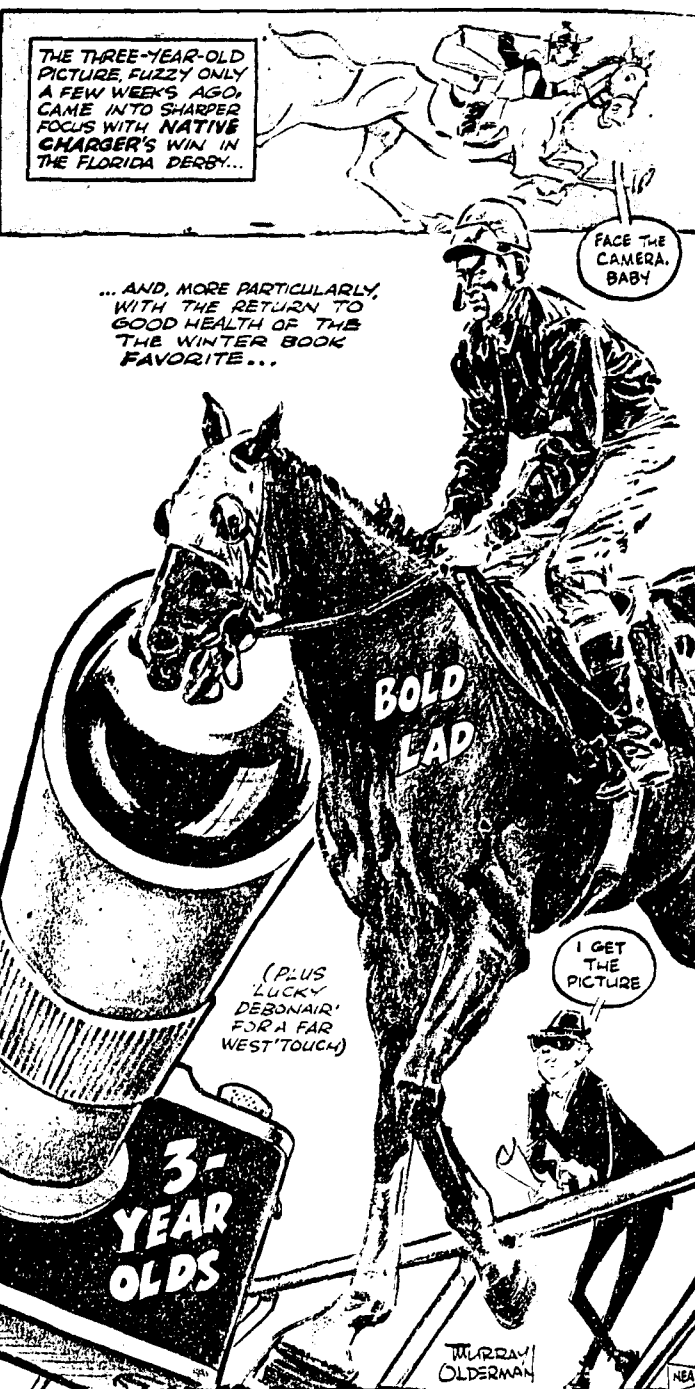

This is the third time on the team for Alcindor, who matches the achievement of Jerry Lucas of Middletown, Ohio, chosen in 1956-57. The New York boy averaged 30 points and 25 rebounds a game.

Alcindor is the tallest player ever selected on the team and the squad's average height also is the greatest ever—6 feet, 5½ inches. Eleven of those selected are 6-8 and better.

The second tallest player at 6-11 is Rusty Clark of Fayetteville, N.C.

Other towering players widely sought by colleges are Chris Thomforde, 6-10 from Brookville, N.Y.; Joe Bergman, 6-9, from Clinton, Iowa, and Mike Davis, 6-8, of Aurora, Colo.

Errors Hurt Clan Cause In 4-2 Loss

SEWANE, Tenn. — Three costly errors in the eighth spelled disaster for MacMurray here Friday afternoon, as the 1-0 loss to the 4-2 victory, spoiling an other well-pitched game for Highlander Bob Gay.

MacMurray, concluding their six-game tour of the south, had rallied to tie the contest in the top of the 8th on an RBI single by Fred Lewis, but had their fielding fall apart in the home-half of the frame.

Gay, who hurled a 1-0 shut-out over Arkansas AM&N for the Clan's only win on their trip, went the distance again, limiting the hosts to only four singles, striking out ten and walking three. Five MacMurray boots wiped out the performance.

After the University of the South jumped to a 2-0 lead in the fifth, Mac chipped away at the lead with one in the sixth and tied it in the 8th, both times on run-scoring singles by Lewis.

Charlie Capell scored both tallies.

With the three errors loading the bases in the bottom of the 8th, the winners' Ron Kirk decided the contest with a two-run single.

The loss leaves Mac with a 2-7 mark on the year. They expect to arrive back in Jacksonville Sunday and travel to Lincoln Monday for a twinbill.

TEAM COMMITS 18 BOOTS IN 1 FRAME

CLACKAMAS, Ore. (AP)—How can you score 10 runs in one inning on only three hits?

It's easy, if the opposition makes 18 errors.

That's what happened Thursday when Hillsboro defeated Clackamas 11-0 in a high school baseball game.

Leading 1-0, Hillsboro scored 10 runs in the sixth inning on three hits, a balk, two wild pitches — and 18 Clackamas errors.

An explanation: the inning was played in rain and a strong wind. The game had been delayed briefly before the wild inning.

Said Clackamas Coach Dwayne Helbig: "I was hoping it would be called off. I had a feeling something was going to happen."

Spahn: Stengel Is Most Amazin' Met Of Them All

NEW YORK (AP)—They call them the Amazin' Mets. But everybody knows the only thing really amazin' about them is their manager.

Warren Spahn hasn't been around the club very long but there's no doubt in his mind who is the most amazin' Met of them all.

"I knew Casey Stengel years ago," said the pitcher-coach. "More than 20, in fact. I was just a green kid then trying to make good. Casey was my first big league manager, you know. But I was too young to understand him then."

"Now, that I've become re-associated with him, I can understand why he's become an image. Why he's so beloved. Why he's the greatest ambassador the game has ever known."

"That man is a marvel. He's unbelievable. I don't care how old he is. He's got all those young fellows beat a mile."

"I've never seen a more understanding person. Or a more dedicated baseball man."

Casey Deep Person "Sure, he's a comedian. Sure he double talks. But he's plenty deep. And nobody knows more about this game. If you listen to him carefully, and concentrate on what he's telling you, you can learn plenty. A fellow can get an education just being around him."

This comes from one who has won 356 games in 19 years and experienced 13 seasons winning 20 or more. Casey is not the only one who is amazin'.

At 44, Spahn is the oldest major league pitcher practicing his trade. He's also taken on the additional chores of pitching coach.

"Casey's been good to me, in that respect, too," said the indestructible left-hander. "He lets me run the pitchers and he's never second guessed me."

He doesn't tell you you have to do this, or do it that way. He leaves you on your own initiative. If you can't do it, then he takes over."

"Some of his know-how has rubbed off on our kids. We have 19 and 19-year olds on our club, who know more about the inside of baseball than guys five or six years older on other clubs."

That's the major question that should get its first answer Saturday when the American Broadcasting Co. lifts the curtain on its televising of major league baseball with three innovations — isolated cameras, stop-action shots and an umpire wired for sound.

It's guaranteed to add color for the viewer — and the umpire, who could get that blue feeling if he muffs a call caught by the television cameras.

Both the isolated cameras and stop-action techniques have been a popular feature on pro football telecasts. The technicians were employed for baseball during an exhibition game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers with these results:

Ken Boyer of the Cardinals lashed a hit to the outfield, pulled into second base and then suddenly headed for third, sliding in safely. What happened in the outfield that enabled Boyer to get to third?

An isolated camera trained on Tommy Davis showed that the Dodger outfielder had fallen down.

Points Out Faults Later in the game, commentator Jackie Robinson noted that Dodger first baseman Wes Parker was swinging way out in front of the ball. Within seconds, the television cameras replayed Parker's swing in slow-motion, stop-action shots that proved Robinson right.

At various times during the season, the cameras may show an umpire wrong.

But the most dangerous innovation could turn out to be the use of a throat microphone by the plate umpire, enabling viewers to hear the crack of the bat, ball and strike calls — and arguments.

To insure against any blue language reaching the viewer in that situation, ABC will have a three-member assigned to the crew, which will be given a three-second delay. That will allow him to censor any bad language before it is transmitted to the network.

Three games will be televised for different sections of the country each Saturday plus Memorial Day and the Fourth of July.

WILDCATS DOWN LEWIS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A single with two out in the ninth by Gary Rusk Friday drove in the decisive run in a 3-2 Northwestern win over Lewis College.

The hit scored Chuck Falk, who opened the inning with a walk, was sacrificed to second and took third on a deep out-field fly. The win was the fifth in seven exhibition games for the Wildcats.

Celtics Go After 7th Title In Row

BOSTON (AP)—It's out of the broiler and into the deep fat for the Boston Celtics, who go after their seventh straight National Basketball Association title Sunday against the Los Angeles Lakers.

One thing's for sure: the temperature can't be any hotter than it was in the Eastern Division championship clash with the Philadelphia 76ers, a battle that ended Thursday night with a nerve-fraying 110-108 Celtics' triumph.

The Lakers, with Jerry West wearing out scorekeepers on his basket bombardment, won the Western division title by taking four of six games from the Baltimore Bullets.

The meeting with West, who averaged 46.3 points per game in the Baltimore playoffs, and his playmates from the Pacific shore could be a letdown after the shuddering series with the 76ers.

The Celtics' victory Thursday night actually came in the last five seconds and here was the situation:

Score With :05 Left The 76ers scored with five seconds remaining to pull within one point at 110-109. The superb Bill Russell was to toss the ball inbound. But, as he tried to loop the ball in, it struck a wire supporting the backboard and the ball automatically went back to the 76ers. Philly called time out to devise a play for that one last shot but John Havlicek swiped Hal Greer's inbound pass, flicked the ball to Sam Jones who dribbled away the vanishing seconds.

There's no Wilt Chamberlain on the Laker squad. The 7-1 during the season. Defensive Philly pivotman probably played what was his greatest series against the Celtics and almost realized a career ambition: to play on an NBA championship outfit.

Far From Peak Strength And with all-pro forward Elgin Baylor recuperating from surgery on an injured knee, the Lakers will be far from peak strength. Even with Baylor in the line-up during the regular season, the Lakers won only three of 10 games against the Celtics.

The Celtics' job, then, is to stop West, who was second to Chamberlain in league scoring game is needed.

Los Angeles for games Wednesday and Friday. It's back to Boston on April 25 if a fifth Chamberlain in league scoring game is needed.

Who knows?

Probing Cameras Get First Tests In Diamond Game

Of the American League third basemen who played more than 100 games last season, Yankee Cleve Boyer and Max Alvis of Cleveland made the fewest errors. They made 13 each.

claimed to be the best pitcher in baseball, professes to be a bit of a nervous wreck. "How do you feel?" Great. "What happened last year?" Who knows?

laughed. "—at least on my part."

Sandy says that if it weren't for the injuries, he might have won 20 games a season, the magic mark for pitchers, the last four years. And he fell short by one last summer, with the elbow, though he had 19 in mid-August. He had 14 in mid-season of '62 when he pinked his finger with the foul tip. And in 1961, with two starts remaining, he had 18 victories, led the Phillies 1-0 going into the ninth inning and was beaten by two unearned runs (he skipped the last start then).

Most amazing statistic about the Dodgers is that though they're supposed to be loaded with great pitching, their big three of Koufax, Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres have a combined experience of 30 full years in the majors. And only two 20-game seasons to show for all that (one each for Drysdale and Koufax).

Just six years ago, Koufax had gone to general manager Buzz Bavasi and requested that if the Dodgers weren't going to pitch him, he'd just as soon be traded to a team that would. Sandy had trouble finding the plate then. Now he's an old head (29) who counseled Claude Osteen, newest left-hander on the staff, that his early spring wildness was due to the fact he was picking up the hitter instead of the plate as a target.

Koufax respects Cincinnati as the best balanced team in the National League. When a skeptic wondered how the Reds could depend on Deron Johnson, last year's surprise slugger, who'd drifted around for years, Sandy shrugged. "That's right. But how many years did you see me before I did anything?"

Bits of this'n'data: Yankee manager Johnny Keane can claim honestly he was one of those who saw the Dempsey-Tunney "long count" in 1926. His dad, railroad man, took him to Chicago from St. Louis for the fight, and a friend gave him a $35 seat in the 26th row. Washington Senators' outfielder Frank Howard hasn't even seen six of the American League parks he'll be playing in this summer.

Between you'n'me, Baltimore Oriole soph pitching wily Wally Bunker is unusual for a kid—he throws a screwball as his bread and butter in tough situations, because "I have the worst curve in the league."

ASSIGN DISTRICT SITES FOR TENNIS The Jacksonville High tennis team has been assigned to the Decatur Eisenhower IHSA District tournament. Other teams in the field are Decatur High, Decatur Eisenhower, Decatur MacArthur, Decatur Lakeview, Mt. Pulaski, Pana, Quincy High, Quincy Christian Brothers, Springfield Lanphier, Springfield High and Taylorville.

One hundred and fifty-three downstate and suburban high schools have entered the annual series of tennis tournaments to be held at fourteen district centers on May 1. Each school may enter two singles and two doubles teams.

The first and second place winners in singles and doubles from each district, together with four singles and four doubles teams advanced from the Chicago Public High schools, will compete in the state finals to be held at the University of Illinois in Champaign May 14-15.

Arlington High school, Arlington Heights, was the 1964 state champion and Hinsdale, Winnetka (New Trier) and Belleville (Twp) tied for runner-up honors.

OK PROFESSIONAL STATUS PRAGUE (AP)—Pavel and Eva Rومان, a brother-sister combination that four times won the world ice dance championship, was given permission Wednesday by Czechoslovakian authorities to turn professional. They will join a United States ice show immediately.

Sandy Koufax

Since Sandy had that circulatory blockage which threatened his pitching hand three years ago, it seems to be catching. Jack Sanford of the Giants, Whitey Ford of the Yankees and Ken Venturi of golf all have had varieties of the same injury.

But it bugs the Dodger ace to be called injury prone. The two major times he was knocked out of action in his Dodger career were the results of recent accidents. The hand injury came because he decided to bat left-handed instead of right-handed to protect his pitching arm—and immediately he got nicked by a foul tip on his throwing wing. Then last summer he strained his elbow —"sliding into second base, of all things: I'm not even supposed to get that far."

"The pitcher is a defensive player," he explained, and

Sugar Ray Whips Tough Customer, Revenue Service

WASHINGTON (AP) Former middleweight boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson has won one of his toughest bouts by outpointing the Internal Revenue Service.

A ruling from the U.S. Tax Court wipes out most of a back tax claim of $352,000 stemming from Robinson's purse from an unsuccessful defense of his title against Carmen Basilio in September 1957.

The court ruled that the IRS was wrong in taxing Robinson for any more than he actually received in 1957 as a result of the Basilio fight.

During the first round of the Yankee Stadium match, the IRS slapped a levy on Robinson's anticipated proceeds from the fight—$514,311. The levy was to cover taxes from the fight proceeds as well as unpaid taxes from 1956 and 1957, the IRS said.

Robinson's contract, however, provided for installment payments over four years. Robinson reported the installments on his returns for 1957 through 1960.

The government, however, contended the installment plan contract with the International Boxing Club, promoter of the fight, was a sham. It insisted that Robinson should have reported the full take from the fight in 1957 instead of the $139,600 he disclosed as 1957 earnings. Tax Court Judge Arnold Raum, however, rejected this and other IRS contentions.

The court also overturned the IRS disallowance of a $2,000 deduction claimed by Robinson for lodging at his training camp for the fight.

But in finding against the bulk of the IRS tax claim of $352,140, the tax court did award the government a few rounds.

Of the American League third basemen who played more than 100 games last season, Yankee Cleve Boyer and Max Alvis of Cleveland made the fewest errors. They made 13 each.

THIRD WARD CANDIDATE

WILLIAM A. YORDING

There are only 12 days left to serve you as Alderman. In these 4 years I've tried to do my best for the 3rd Ward and Jacksonville. It takes time to gain full knowledge of various committees and be able to help with our city's problems. Jacksonville still has a shortage of policemen, however, I am aware of the need for a Security Officer at the East Morton & South Clay crossing to protect your children. I promise you will have a Security Officer next September if I am re-elected. We have speed strip problems in the 3rd Ward. I will personally take an active part in controlling these strips with Radar. I have a list of alleys and secondary streets to be improved soon. There still are various projects to be completed and I would like to finish all that I intended to do.

I have served you on the following committees: Municipal, Personnel, Judiciary, Public Protection and at present as Chairman of Engineering Plan & Traffic. For the past 2 years I have represented the City Council on the Local Board of Improvements and the Plan Commission (Zoning).

Your Ward and your City will be well represented with 4 years of experience if you mark your ballot on the right side. I said it 4 years ago and now again that I would represent you, be conscientious, truthful and fair to all.

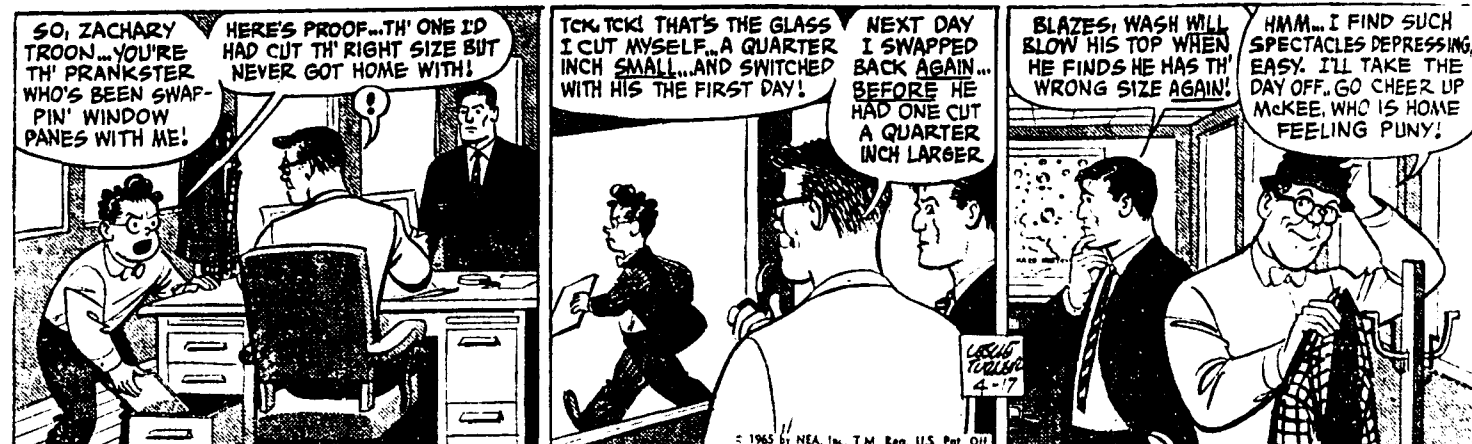

Because of recent surgery, I'm sorry I will not be able to contact you personally.

I will see you at the Polls. If you need a ride call 243-2552.

Keil Rites Set At Meredosia

MEREDOSIA — Funeral services for Miss Flora Keil, former Meredosia resident who died Thursday at Passavant hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Shaefer Funeral of Charles W. and Louella Parrott. Reverend George Bischoff, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church near Arenalville, will officiate and a burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Sunday.

A member of St. John's Lutheran church, Meredosia, Miss Keil had been a resident of the Tower View Nursing Home at Camp Point for some time.

For a delicious salad, use cooked chicken, cooked rice, cooked peas and grated raw carrot. Moisten with French dressing or mayonnaise.

Sautéed green onions (scallions) are delicious added to cooked carrots. Include the green tops of the onions and cut them in about 1-inch lengths.

IF YOU'VE HIT A BIG BUMP LATELY...

You should have your wheel alignment checked and corrected to prevent excessive, uneven tire wear.

WE USE
ROTUNDA Alignment Service

... equipment to perform our front-end inspections. This equipment assures you the utmost in precision alignment inspection and correction.

Even the best drivers scrape a curb or run off the pavement now and then . . . perhaps you have too! It doesn't take a real hard jolt to throw the wheels out of alignment enough to cause unnecessary, uneven tire wear.

YOU CAN ADD UP TO 50% TO YOUR TIRE LIFE
by having your wheel alignment checked regularly.

Bring your car in today, or phone us for an appointment.

Conservators' Sale of Real Estate

Six room modern home and sizeable tract of land located just east of shopping center, 862 West Superior at corner of Tendick Street, in Jacksonville.

The undersigned, as Conservators of the Estates of BEULAH MAY LEDFERD and BYRON C. LEDFERD, pursuant to Decrees entered in each of said Conservatorships by the Circuit Court of Morgan County, Illinois, will sell at public auction all interests of the said BEULAH MAY LEDFERD and BYRON C. LEDFERD in the said estate hereinabove described, at the South Door of the Morgan County Courthouse in Jacksonville, Illinois, on Friday, April 23, 1965, at 10:00 A.M.

The real estate is described as follows:

TRACT 1. Lots Twenty-six (26) and Twenty-seven (27) in Reid and Capps' Addition to the City of Jacksonville, Morgan County, Illinois, except forty (40) feet off the North end thereof.

TRACT 2. One hundred seventeen (117) feet off the West end of Lots Twenty-eight (28) and Twenty-nine (29), and forty (40) feet off the North end of Lots Twenty-six (26) and Twenty-seven (27), all in Reid and Capps' Addition to the City of Jacksonville, Morgan County, Illinois.

Tract 1 is improved with a residence property having living room, kitchen, bath and three bedrooms downstairs, one bedroom upstairs, gas furnace two years old, and double garage.

Terms of Sale: Twenty-five per cent (25%) cash at time of sale, balance on tender of Conservators' Deed.

Sale is subject to the approval of the Circuit Court of Morgan County, Illinois.

Conveyance will be free of the lien of the taxes for 1964, but will be subject to the lien of the taxes for 1965, and to the lien of a Special Assessment for sewer and water main extension of the City of Jacksonville.

Possession on delivery of Deed and payment of balance of purchase price.

Property will be offered separately and together. If two purchasers, two Abstracts of Title will be furnished; if one purchaser, one Abstract of Title will be furnished.

Property will be shown and open for inspection on Sunday, April 11, and Sunday, April 18, between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M.

VIRGINIA REEVE and DORIS E. McNIER, Conservators of the Estates of BEULAH MAY LEDFERD and BYRON C. LEDFERD, Sellers.
